Contempt Spoiler (Click to View)What is xenophobia? It is a dislike and/or fear of that which is unknown or different from oneself.

The Us has a long history of xenophobia starting with the beginnings of the country.

The current hatred for Mexican immigrants is only the latest example.What was said about Chinese workers in the 1880's is being said again and again about Mexican workers today.

The faces and skin tone may change from time to time, but the hatred is always the same.

Operation wetback:An INS program that rounded up and deported one million Mexican laborers. Many Hispanic and Native American citizens got caught up in the action and were taken too.

Now-a-days is just as bad and re-occurring like when it was first brought up. It will be around for a long time too.

These conflitcts are still around because the immagrants are putting this on themselves. Now not all of them may be a criminal, but untill our country and others become less prejudious and tighten up security on borders xenophobia will conquer the human mind.On May 17th 1954 the Supreme Court declared that separate is inherently unequal. In this decision the highest court affirmed that segregation of people according to ethnic, racial and religious divisions is inherently discriminatory.

Even with that hearing the US still does it proving that this task to stop xenophobia will be a heap of a task.

There really is no simple solution to this delema because most of this is mixed in with racizm. Such as in South africa the brutal attacks on forign trade markets and stores were many people begging for these forigners/immagrants to leave.

Now as a person of your own you can tell family/friends about this epidemic and why this needs to stop. Although this may not help as much as you want, theres really nothing you can do about this problem except hoping this is a phase that after several decades it might go away.

$2 per 100 words? Your joking, right?

Robbie - April 4, 2010, 4:40 am

First of all tank, i usually don't go by these rules i usually take their offer upon essays ect. and even that atm its 50% off (1$) oh and also, i am lowering that price once the deal comes off just haven't decided where the price drops going to vary in (.50$ a 100 words or 2$ every 250 words something like that) but thats going to be changed once the 50% off deal is over

You could always just implement the "Deal" or whatever. Either way, 2 for 250 words is still pricey. I'd also like to give some helpful advice by saying that your Grammar in your posts isn't the best. Work on that as well as what your getting paid to do.

--Tank

Robbie - April 4, 2010, 7:14 am

I know it is. I do my work hard when it comes do actually doing it these posts are just for quick easy responses once i get on the job my grammar cracks down and its better but as of now i'm just quickly posting. like in this they're many grammatical errors and once again the price is being reviewed by me and 2 other people.

This looks like a fabulous service and I may be a big customer.

For things like Math homework, would the shown "work" be added? Or just answers?

I could scan images and you could print then out, do them, and send them?

Robbie - February 5, 2014, 9:06 am

If you wanted I could probably work something out like that. :)
