Thread: Uploaded c99.php, but can't find it?

MiRP_Anon - May 6, 2013, 1:05 pm

Hey, I have uploaded my c99.php file to a site, but I don't know how to find the file. Please enlighten me as to how to find this file.

Thanks

MiRP

PM me the site. If you don't wanna, then mix around some /upload/ dirs. If it's wordpress, it'll be in /uploads/2013/05/

If it was a resume, try /uploads/resume, /uploads/user/, /user/uploads/, files/uploads etc. etc. Be creative.

If it was an avatar upload, find the location of someone elses avatar. Filename is most likely hashed.

This is weird...

#YOLO

I'll just post it here

REMOVED

Thanks for the help so I can do it next time

Well alright then :P Here is the shell, the pass is my username. The ACP is pretty fun, btw.

inb4 30 skids haxor the index and remove the shell.

EDIT - Didn't realize, the shell had unrestricted access to about 400 sites. OP please remove your link before mass deface -_- Fucking windows.

Just because some people aren't as experienced, you don't need to flame them. You could have just said "How about trying another shell" or something more polite.
