If you enter any 40 character address into this website, it should generate you the bloostamp file for that address as long as someone else has not registered it.

How is this necessary :o, If you modify the register.py file you can generate it on your own PC.

Mohatu - May 12, 2013, 3:08 pm

How do we know you don't store the generated values?

You've got to have a bit of faith.

This is just to make that process a bit easier.

Looks great! I doubt you would try and save the bloostamps risking your account here so I am going ahead and trusting this.

Thanks!

Thanks!

I notice we still don't get that Max has them all saved on his server in plaintext.
