it's not the best movie I've seen.. but it was pretty good.

I can't believe they didn't know the david bowie song right away though... hipsters.

I have seen it and loved it, probably because I am almost exactly like the main guy (forget his name, charlie i think)... I have gone through a lot of what he has.. I also loved the book and i hate books, i actually read the entire book over night, when i started it was like 10PM, finished it at 4AM that night...

This is a fantastic movie! Yea they should have known Heroes :P

On a side note - I didn't even remember Emma Watson had an English accent until the movie was over. Her American accent was spot on.

I love this movie, I saw it four times already and shamelessly cried every time.
