Thread: [Just a little thing I'm working on.. \[IMAGES\] \(Booter Project\)](#)

ObscureCoder - May 25, 2013, 2:25 pm

So this basically just a small thing I'm working on. It's currently being developed on my local system and I'm not sure if I will release when finished but it's a nice little project I thought I'd make. I'm adding more tools by the way. Please tell me what you think.

Spoiler (Click to View)

Please don't flame/troll. ?

This is currently supported by Webkit and Gecko etc. It is supported by IE 8+. Mainly due to CSS3 errors.

Thanks alot dude. I'm currently trying to make the whole thing one page like a control panel sort of thing, so the layout is gonna be nice and simple hopefully.

Nice job. I especially like the design, haven't seen a booter as good-looking as this one in a long time. :)

Thanks Bro :) I'm trying to get a good booter source to work from, I'm currently writing down the database structure for the whole website.

Thanks dude. I designed it all myself in photoshop, must of been the first time I've ever actually followed my photoshop design scheme.

Well obviously it's not a "copy paste" but the design was based from Agony's. As his is really nice. Although he uses bootstrap, I don't as you can see:

Not exactly someone else's work if Agony used bootstrap and I've created this all from scratch and the layout is totally different:

Agony's:

Mine:

As you can see, some similarities.

F&E code is very simple, it's just a MySQL database and you fetch the information from the whole row if a column like username is equal to the username of the logged in person.

You got some help from bootstrap or not?

Nope, all completely from scratch with some photoshop and some CSS.
