

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: The beginner hacking section.

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 1:14 am

So after viewing this thread regarding the education nation section, I'd like to throw in my thoughts on the Beginner hacking section. For anyone unaware, I am one of the 2-5 (Myself, Perfect Cell, Lante, Dante, Turtle, Occasionally others) that actually does anything in that section. With questions being asked continually, it's a lot of work with little or no reward.

EDIT: I was waiting for someone to comment here. If it wasn't made clear in the first line of this post, the design is similar to Feynman's because the layout made the thread look nice and was easy to read.

The Good!The helpers

One could simply not ask for any better users to work with than the ones active in the beginner hacking section. Daily, they trawl through the threads there and answer every single question posted. Although some of us may not know the answer to a certain question, another of us will. Even though the same, basic questions are asked daily, they still pull through and answer them. I will be styling this thread in the same way that the above thread is. This is not an attempt to copy that user, but the layout used was nice and easy to navigate; it will aid you in reading this thread. The helpdesks

Some users ('Snorlax for example) do not actively post in that section, but run help desks with over 100 replies. Users like this that station themselves and answer direct questions there help out a tonne. I'd say that at least 30% of the spam type questions are not used to make threads but asked and answered on a help desk.

The tutorials

On occasion, a skilled new user will overlook the hacking tutorials section and post a tutorial in the BHS. Most of the time, these tutorials are informative, easy to read and actually benefit beginners. Sadly they're buried in the mass of questions quite quickly, but the ones that stay around I go out of my way to link.

The bad.The style of posting

This is a big one, and a serious issue. New users trawl through that section without reading other threads, and use it like yahoo answers. Without doing any research, they make an account and ask a question. This clutters the section and throws away anything of any quality into the bin.

How to fix?

Completely remaster that section. Before entering, add a search prompt from which users can look up their questions. If they can't find it, they're allowed to post a thread in which a dedicated usergroup could answer. This way, users won't waste resources asking questions that have (quite literally) been answered thousands of times before.

Moderation.

EDIT: I have completely changed this portion of the post. It was the only part being called out on, and quite frankly it was the weak point of this thread. I stand by what I said and what is below here is an attempt to re word it into what I had planned to write out; it was never meant to be a dig at staff, nor a beg for the role of sectional moderator.

One of the beginner hacking section's main flaws is one found in not many others on this site. When a user registers to hack forums, they rarely read the rules and go right ahead and post in that section as it seems the 'shiniest' to them. As a result, multiple rule violating threads are posted there every 12 hours or so. We go out of our way to report as many threads as we can - I've reported threads that I was unsure if it violated even minor policy. However, the mass amount that goes into that section as far as LQP goes leads to some of it being missed.

I will skim back 10 or so pages and see threads that were overlooked while I and the other helping members were sleeping (we're all in similar time zones; give or take 6 hours) and see rule violating threads that haven't been picked up. To me, this implies that the mentors + staff aren't occasionally checking that section for rule violating material. I'm not trying to pin this on staff at all, I'm simply stating that it feels as if that section is being ignored outside of reports.

Luckily, as a result of this thread I have received the promise from Froggy, Mr Kewl and Paradoxum that they will sweep that section more often, which is a great start.

How to fix?

In a discussion with Factor8 regarding the BHS, he gave me this quote:

Quote:A sectional moderator will enforce policy as well as help members assuming he's has the skill-set of hacking

In my eyes, that is exactly what this section needs. A user that can actively aid in that section, while having the ability to remove policy violating threads.

I'd like to add, that before I'm accused, this is not me asking for that role.
No clear guidance.

In the beginner hacking section there are 0 stickied threads. A single thread answering the commonly asked, generic questions such as:

'How do I hack a Facebook account?'

'How do I hack WiFi?'

How do I hack sitename.extension

Would allow new members to have some of their commonly asked questions answered without the need to make a thread.

Hacking requests

The BHS sees the brunt of 1 post alpha users begging for a Facebook account to be hacked, a site to be DDoSed and other miscellaneous hacking requests. This begging just adds to the lessening of the section's quality. These requests have their own section but it is ignored.

How to fix?

Quite simply, make a thread outlining the rules of that section and clearly state where requests are supposed to be put. This one is an easy fix.

To conclude.

In conclusion, I hope that members that overlook this section get a taste of what it is like trying to help over there. I hope that you think twice before making a thread, and try to spread this message to others.

Tips for the section: Search up questions before asking them.

Post questions in the correct sections.

Use the help desks.

A final note to Omni:

I understand that you're surely sick of the amount of threads / PMs about this, and I'm sorry. It is still my favorite section on this forum, and I hate seeing it this way.

Also, a number of members have commented on my remarks regarding the section's moderation. Please, if you reply to this give us a response on the section as a whole instead of just that part.

Thanks ?

Mr Kewl - May 28, 2013, 1:22 am

Quote: It is quite clear that the busy mentors & staff do not actively moderate that section. Junk + spam threads are left for days even after being reported; what already is a section in dire need of moderation is one that feels as if it is purposely being ignored.

Really? We take care of every report made, the section doesn't matter.

Please PM me or post here if you have any examples of threads which were unattended even after they were reported.

-

About the sticky part, make a thread worth sticking in that section and request it here.

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 1:23 am

(May 28, 2013 01:22 AM) Mr Kewl Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Really? We take care of every report made, the section doesn't matter.

Please PM me or post here if you have any examples of threads which were unattended even after they were reported.

-

About the sticky part, make a thread worth sticking in that section and request it here.
I'll link some the moment they come up.

And I will do; thanks.

F-Nuke - May 28, 2013, 1:26 am

Totally agree with you Muzzy. Do we actually need the Hacking Requests section?

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 1:31 am

(May 28, 2013 01:26 AM)a3ro Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Totally agree with you Muzzy. Do we actually need the Hacking Requests section?

We do, badly, but it needs to be a sub forum of the beginner hacking section, or have a redirect to it somewhere in there.

F-Nuke - May 28, 2013, 1:37 am

(May 28, 2013 01:31 AM)Muzzy ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) We do, badly, but it needs to be a sub forum of the beginner hacking section, or have a redirect to it somewhere in there.

Almost every thread that's made there has nothing more than replies like "Use the search bar," "You've just joined HF, please contribute something first," "How do we believe that what you are telling is true?"

All those are LQP. It requires at least 2-3 moderators to keep the Hacking Requests section LQP free.

Terry A. Davis - May 28, 2013, 1:38 am

(May 28, 2013 01:22 AM)Mr Kewl Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Really? We take care of every report made, the section doesn't matter.

Please PM me or post here if you have any examples of threads which were unattended even after they were reported.

-

About the sticky part, make a thread worth stickying in that section and request it here. Can't help but agree with you Muzzy.

Mr Kewl, we've had some run ins about this section.

I have seen members asking for Omni's DOX, I reported it went to sleep came on and the thread was still there, please do tell me that is dealing with it, what about the carding sites that get posted I've seen some in my time. What about the countless spam that gets posted in there like all the bubble gum bullshit of the same threads right on top of each other.

The only reason I stick it out is because I want something from the section, hell I may not have the most posts in the section but I would be one of the most active members, I see members boosting their post count in there by saying such things as "don't do it" and "you'll regret it"

One major factor is this site is HACKfourms but oh no it seems that doesn't matter since the section is a mess, so many threads all asking the same thing, people offering money for services when they shouldn't be there, it is bullshit.

My rant, sorry if I offended you but it is time I said it.

P.S Hope you didn't die due to lack of grammar.

Wires - May 28, 2013, 3:24 am

I fled this section and no longer post there. Use to be a great section, now it's just used for shitty requests and people giving them the most idiotic answers.

Terry A. Davis - May 28, 2013, 4:51 am

(May 28, 2013 03:24 AM)Reliance. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I fled this section and no longer post there. Use to be a great section, now it's just used for shitty requests and people giving them the most idiotic answers.

See that sums it up, people will help then get scared away by all the bullshit.

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 4:53 am

(May 28, 2013 04:51 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) See that sums it up, people will help then get scared away by all the bullshit.

Couldn't have said it better myself. People are scared to help.

Terry A. Davis - May 28, 2013, 4:58 am

(May 28, 2013 04:53 AM)Muzzy ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Couldn't have said it better myself. People are scared to help.

They know if they do the same question will just get asked again 2 minutes in the future.

SHADOW REALM - May 28, 2013, 5:02 am

(May 28, 2013 04:58 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They know if they do the same question will just get asked again 2 minutes in the future.

That's exactly why I left

I might come back in like 2-3 weeks and start posting some tuts and shit and maybe try and organize it a bit more

Terry A. Davis - May 28, 2013, 5:04 am

(May 28, 2013 05:02 AM)SHADOW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's exactly why I left

I might come back in like 2-3 weeks and start posting some tuts and shit and maybe try and organize it a bit more

Tutorials go in the Hacking Tutorials section ?

But I've made 2 or 3 mega hacking guides to help around there but oh no they get buried under all this shit, why do almost all the coding sections have stikies saying how to code but the hacking section doesn't have an intro the world of hacking.

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 5:06 am

(May 28, 2013 05:02 AM)SHADOW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's exactly why I left

I might come back in like 2-3 weeks and start posting some tuts and shit and maybe try and organize it a bit more

Shadow, you know I love you, but they'd either be moved or buried. It just won't work.

Eventually this thread will be closed because I asked for staff and things will stay the same, I worry that section will never change.

Paradoxum - May 28, 2013, 5:19 am

I find it very hilarious how this looks similar to Feynman's feedback. ?

(May 28, 2013 01:23 AM)Muzzy ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'll link some the moment they come up.

Why wait for new ones to "come up"? Show us the old ones that we supposedly "ignored" as I am sure they are still there if this is true.

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 5:23 am

(May 28, 2013 05:19 AM)Paradoxum Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I find it very hilarious how this looks similar to Feynman's feedback. ?

Why wait for new ones to "come up"? Show us the old ones that we supposedly "ignored" as I am sure they are still there if this is true.

I stated in the first line that the thread was inspired from that.

Look at Perfect Cell's post.

Anyway, I've had 2 staff members pull criticisms in that section of the post but no where else. No one else is commenting on the state of that section at all...

Terry A. Davis - May 28, 2013, 5:29 am

(May 28, 2013 05:19 AM)Paradoxum Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I find it very hilarious how this looks similar to Feynman's feedback. ?

Why wait for new ones to "come up"? Show us the old ones that we supposedly "ignored" as I am sure they are still there if this is true. <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3509785>

It is a "RAT" problem I am sure Omni wasn't high when he added the section.

Remote Administration Tools

Website forum:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3510087>

So maybe more? Well I don't feel like being more of a back seat mod than already what I've done.

Froggy - May 28, 2013, 5:46 am

Feel free to PM me with any threads or posts you would like me to take action on. I admit that I, too, was overwhelmed with the idiocy of the users in that section. However, seeing that the section needs more attention than it is getting, I will take frequent visits and attempt to clean it up as best as I can.

Perhaps someone should make a very large FAQ thread, request for it to be stickied, and update it frequently.

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 5:48 am

(May 28, 2013 05:46 AM)Froggy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Feel free to PM me with any threads or posts you would like me to take action on. I admit that I, too, was overwhelmed with the idiocy of the users in that section. However, seeing that the section needs more attention than it is getting, I will take frequent visits and attempt to clean it up as best as I can.

Perhaps someone should make a very large FAQ thread, request for it to be stickied, and update it frequently.

That single post was more promising than anything else I think has ever been said on the topic; thank you.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3090217>

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=2907472>

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3236662>

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3225685>

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3510708>

Terry A. Davis - May 28, 2013, 5:51 am

(May 28, 2013 05:46 AM)Froggy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Feel free to PM me with any threads or posts you would like me to take action on. I admit that I, too, was overwhelmed with the idiocy of the users in that section. However, seeing that the section needs more attention than it is getting, I will take frequent visits and attempt to clean it up as best as I can.

Perhaps someone should make a very large FAQ thread, request for it to be stickied, and update it frequently.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3090217>

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=2907472>

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3236662>

They should I requested the sticky here:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=1358781>

They get over looked, now I wonder why this is? Well I don't know how about someone should answer that for me, hell if I made a FAQ thread and even with self ing it would last like a week before it got out of hand with stupid questions of no one reading.

Froggy - May 28, 2013, 5:52 am

(May 28, 2013 01:22 AM)Mr Kewl Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) About the sticky part, make a thread worth stickying in that section and request it here.

Choose the best thread and request for a sticky.

(May 28, 2013 05:51 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3090217>

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=2907472>

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3236662>

They should I requested the sticky here:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=1358781>

They get over looked, now I wonder why this is? Well I don't know how about someone should answer that for me, hell if I made a FAQ thread and even with self ing it would last like a week before it got out of hand with stupid questions of no one reading.

After you request the sticky, everything else is out of my hands and entirely up to Omni.

Terry A. Davis - May 28, 2013, 5:58 am

(May 28, 2013 05:52 AM)Froggy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Choose the best thread and request for a sticky.

After you request the sticky, everything else is out of my hands and entirely up to Omni. Yet he seems to think it should stay a LQ mess or he doesn't see what is wrong with it.

Yes I wasted his time a few weeks ago sending him a message about the state of the section he just said "Thanks for your feedback"

I included the part about asking for his DOX, now how would you feel if people were asking for yours? I know I'd be worried and hope that the user gets banned or warned but I managed to sleep before it was taken down.

Paradoxum - May 28, 2013, 6:01 am

(May 28, 2013 05:23 AM)Muzzy ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I stated in the first line that the thread was inspired from that.

Look at Perfect Cell's post.

Anyway, I've had 2 staff members pull criticisms in that section of the post but no where else. No one else is commenting on the state of that section at all...

I also have had two members saying moderators ignore threads and not a single thread has yet been presented to me. Why make such a statement without proof?

(May 28, 2013 05:29 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)
<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3509785>

It is a "RAT" problem I am sure Omni wasn't high when he added the Remote Administration Tools section.

Website forum:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3510087>

Are you sure you aren't high? Both threads have not been reported as I reported them myself and I was able to do so. Therefore how is this a matter of staff members ignoring reports, may I ask?

Quote:So maybe more?

"More"? You have not even given me one yet. Give me one thread that was ignored like you guys said:

(May 28, 2013 01:14 AM)Muzzy ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It is quite clear that the busy mentors & staff do not actively moderate that section. Junk + spam threads are left for days even after being reported; what already is a section in dire need of moderation is one that feels as if it is purposely being ignored.

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 6:04 am

(May 28, 2013 06:01 AM)Paradoxum Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I also have had two members saying moderators ignore threads and not a single thread has yet been presented to me. Why make such a statement without proof?

Are you sure you aren't high? Both threads have not been reported as I reported them myself and I was able to do so. Therefore how is this a matter of staff members ignoring reports, may I ask?

"More"? You have not even given me one yet. Give me one thread that was ignored like you guys said:As of this very moment, such a thread does not exist. What I'm trying to say is that that happens in the BHS noticeably more often than in other sections.

So I'm sorry that I made an error there, but the problem I stated is a valid one at times and I stand by it.

However, that was a paragraph on a thread that contained many, and I ask that you please just give some insight as to if anything at all is planned for this section?

Terry A. Davis - May 28, 2013, 6:05 am

(May 28, 2013 06:01 AM)Paradoxum Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I also have had two members saying moderators ignore threads and not a single thread has yet been presented to me. Why make such a statement without proof?

Are you sure you aren't high? Both threads have not been reported as I reported them myself and I was able to do so. Therefore how is this a matter of staff members ignoring reports, may I ask?

"More"? You have not even given me one yet. Give me one thread that was ignored like you guys said:

So you're saying if I give you that is reported? Oh how about I wait for about a day when this thread dies and the section goes back to being a mess? When all the mentors forget about it, thus is the norm I've found, like when I made my thread on it, the thread got locked since I "asked" for a mentor to the section, and after about a 3 days it was back to being a mess, why is it whenever the BHS mess gets raised it seems as if nothing ever gets done.

Paradoxum - May 28, 2013, 6:28 am

(May 28, 2013 06:04 AM)Muzzy ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) As of this very moment, such a thread does not exist.

Very unfortunate. I suppose the next time you see such a thread you should save it on your forum notepad (it would not be difficult or time-consuming at all) so in the future, you can proudly slap it to my face as here I am, boldly saying no staff member ignores reports as this is the truth I know.

Quote:What I'm trying to say is that that happens in the BHS noticeably more often than in other sections.

I cannot accept such a statement if I am not even presented with a single thread that has been ignored. I need to see even at least one. I may even be able to find out who ignored it (if it was not myself).

Quote:So I'm sorry that I made an error there, but the problem I stated is a valid one at times and I stand by it.

No one denies the problem with the section and I won't. It's quite a complicated issue and as I have often stated; it will not be easily remedied even by adding wonderful stickies. What is the root cause, from what I have observed, you ask? Members do not read at all. I wish I knew how to solve that.

Quote:However, that was a paragraph on a thread that contained many, and I ask that you please just give some insight as to if anything at all is planned for this section?

I can patrol the section but what we need are untiring reporters that do take into consideration that that section is the shiniest in the eyes of new members, and will therefore be difficult to manage. I am against the suggestion of forceful posting in help desks--this is a forum and for a forum to stay alive, threads, even repetitive in nature should be accommodated as long as they are phrased properly. Perhaps I can try doing what I did at Member Auctions? Rule-breaking threads will be closed with a message instead of being junked, if the matter just concerns posting in the wrong location. I can attest people who do not follow the format have decreased significantly because of this.

Quote:These requests have their own section but it is ignored.

Yes, and there is a sticky about no paid requests in that section and people ignore it. ?

(May 28, 2013 06:05 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So you're saying if I give you that is reported? Is it not clear that this is what I asked for in the first place that you have to restate it?

Quote:Oh how about I wait for about a day when this thread dies and the section goes back to being a mess?

Or, how about you finally give me a single thread that was ignored like you said? You should have done so when I asked for it in the beginning as it is not difficult and you attest it is true. Why wait for this thread to be longer before providing me with proof that will strengthen your case?

Quote:When all the mentors forget about it, thus is the norm I've found, like when I made my thread on it, the thread got locked since I "asked" for a mentor to the section, and after about a 3 days it was back to being a mess, why is it whenever the BHS mess gets raised it seems as if nothing ever gets done.

Let us address point number two after addressing point number one: show me a thread that has been ignored by a staff member as you said.

Terry A. Davis - May 28, 2013, 6:30 am

(May 28, 2013 06:24 AM)Paradoxum Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Very unfortunate. I suppose the next time you see such a thread you should save it on your forum notepad (it would not be difficult or time-consuming at all) so in the future, you can proudly slap it to my face as here I am, boldly saying no staff member ignores reports as this is the truth I know.

I cannot accept such a statement if I am not even presented with a single thread that has been ignored. I need to see even at least one. I may even be able to find out who ignored it (if it was not myself).

No one denies the problem with the section and I won't. It's quite a complicated issue and as I have often stated; it will not be easily remedied even by adding wonderful stickies. What is the root cause, from what I have observed, you ask? Members do not read at all. I wish I knew how to solve that.

I can patrol the section but what we need are untiring reporters that do take into consideration that that section is the shiniest in the eyes of new members, and will therefore be difficult to manage. I am against the suggestion of forceful posting in help desks--this is a forum and for a forum to stay alive, threads, even repetitive in nature should be accommodated as long as they are phrased properly. Perhaps I can try doing what I did at Member Auctions? Rule-breaking threads will be closed with a message instead of being junked, if the matter just concerns posting in the wrong location. I can attest people who do not follow the format have decreased significantly because of this.

Yes, and there is a sticky about no paid requests in that section and people ignore it. ?
I'm done with the constant bullshit, I've almost given up on HF as a whole after this whole thing, I'll do what you ask, I will compile a list of all the bullshit threads I after this weekend (since I am going away for a bit) and then on the friday (my time) I will send you them all.

If nothing gets done and another staff/ mentor come along and lock this with no progress I'll say fuck it and leave HF. One member loss no big deal no one will miss me.

But what I hate is.

Panda Sec (not to disrespect him, he's good at what he does) Why does he get made Mod of the WiFi section when he made a petetenion thread?with next to no problems.

Don't know his name but the Educational guy: He makes a feedback thread BOOM he gets Mod. Muzzy and Me and a couple of members make threads on the BHS they get locked and ignored WHY THE FUCK IS THE BHS GENERALLY IGNORED? Just because we made a thread it seems as if the sudden up take by mods in the BHS has improved but time will tell if it keeps, if it does I will shut up, if it declines yet again I will be done and leave.

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 6:33 am

(May 28, 2013 06:24 AM)Paradoxum Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Very unfortunate. I suppose the next time you see such a thread you should save it on your forum notepad (it would not be difficult or time-consuming at all) so in the future, you can proudly slap it to my face as here I am, boldly saying no staff member ignores reports as this is the truth I know.

I cannot accept such a statement if I am not even presented with a single thread that has been ignored. I need to see even at least one. I may even be able to find out who ignored it (if it was not myself).

No one denies the problem with the section and I won't. It's quite a complicated issue and as I have often stated; it will not be easily remedied even by adding wonderful stickies. What is the root cause, from what I have observed, you ask? Members do not read at all. I wish I knew how to solve that.

I can patrol the section but what we need are untiring reporters that do take into consideration that that section is the shiniest in the eyes of new members, and will therefore be difficult to manage. I am against the suggestion of forceful posting in help desks--this is a forum and for a forum to stay alive, threads, even repetitive in nature should be accommodated as long as they are phrased properly. Perhaps I can try doing what I did at Member Auctions? Rule-breaking threads will be closed with a message instead of being junked, if the matter just concerns posting in the wrong location. I can attest people who do not follow the format have decreased significantly because of this.

Yes, and there is a sticky about no paid requests in that section and people ignore it. ?
The aim of this thread actually was the feedback. But I presumed if I didn't post a fix for the negatives this thread would be flamed, and all I wanted was the communities view on the section.

The idea of the auction thread approach wouldn't work, because the problem is that members ask questions and then proceed to leave HF forever. The users that actually remain never go back and read the long replies that are posted, and as a result the same stuff is answered daily.

As an overall solution? I can think of some, but I doubt Omni has the time; he's a busy guy.

Create a usergroup similar to the mentors solely for that section.

Sticky a thread that answers the commonly asked questions.

Instead of closing / insta junking threads, state what was wrong + close.

Add a barrier between making new threads that will state the answers to the generic questions. Even though not too many would read it, a lot will and it will cut down the spam.

At the very least, do what was done with the WiFi section and recruit a sectional moderator.

I will send you threads that go unnoticed after a report for longer than 24 hours starting 3 days from now. Why 3 days? Because as a result of this thread that section will be checked on more often, but when the mentors + staff slowly filter away it will go back to what it was.

Paradoxum - May 28, 2013, 6:36 am

(May 28, 2013 06:30 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm done with the constant bullshit, I've almost given up on HF as a whole after this whole thing, I'll do what you ask, I will compile a list of all the bullshit threads I after this weekend (since I am going away for a bit) and then on the friday (my time) I will send you them all.

I think you will soon belong to my list of people who cannot read. I will state this for the last time: give me a single thread, that you have reported, that was ignored by a staff member. That is what I am asking for. Re-read if it does not sink in.

Quote:If nothing gets done and another staff/ mentor come along and lock this with no progress I'll say fuck it and leave HF. One member loss no big deal no one will miss me.

I do find you a valuable member, and that is an honest opinion. However, it is not my business to dwell into your choices.

Quote:But what I hate is.

Panda Sec (not to disrespect him, he's good at what he does) Why does he get made Mod of the WiFi section when he made a petetenion thread?with next to no problems.

If I am not mistaken, he has been constantly PMing Omniscient before that thread was even created.

Quote:Don't know his name but the Educational guy: He makes a feedback thread BOOM he gets Mod. Muzzy and Me and a couple of members make threads on the BHS they get locked and ignored WHY THE FUCK IS THE BHS GENERALLY IGNORED? Just because we made a thread it seems as if the sudden up take by mods in the BHS has improved but time will tell if it keeps, if it does I will shut up, if it declines yet again I will be done and leave.

Can we experiment and leave this thread open for Omniscient to have his say? I'll leave a note to not close it however I cannot guarantee he will swiftly see it (please do not PM him to do so). It's a constructive thread and has the right to remain open.

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 6:39 am

(May 28, 2013 06:36 AM)Paradoxum Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Can we experiment and leave this thread open for Omniscient to have his say? I'll leave a note to not close it however I cannot guarantee he will swiftly see it (please do not PM him to do so). It's a constructive thread and has the right to remain open.

Thank you. All I ask is that we get Omni's say, and I beg that his say focuses on the section as a whole and not my post regarding it's moderation, for there is more to it than that.

You have my thanks.

Terry A. Davis - May 28, 2013, 6:40 am

(May 28, 2013 06:36 AM)Paradoxum Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think you will soon belong to my list of people who cannot read. I will state this for the last time: give me a single thread, that you have reported, that was ignored by a staff member. That is what I am asking for. Re-read if it does not sink in.

-

Can we experiment and leave this thread open for Omniscient to have his say? I'll leave a note to not close it however I cannot guarantee he will swiftly see it (please do not PM him to do so). It's a constructive thread and has the right to remain open.

Sure I think we both can't read, that is seemingly impossible now since we've shown you how the BHS works and you've had to clean it like a criminal at a crime scene, at least to me it seems that way.

yeah and I think I know how Omni will see it and it involves the ban hammer for being a nuisance.

Meechy Darko - May 28, 2013, 6:40 am

The Beginner Hacking subforum's quality is seriously going down. Everyday and all the time you see posts like ,""can u pls hack this fb for me?" or something similar. Something needs to be done about that.

Paradoxum - May 28, 2013, 6:46 am

Quote:The aim of this thread actually was the feedback. But I presumed if I didn't post a fix for the negatives this thread would be flamed, and all I wanted was the communities view on the section.

I think we need much more than those to solve this issue, seeing as stickies do not work.

Quote:The idea of the auction thread approach wouldn't work, because the problem is that members ask questions and then proceed to leave HF forever.

How are stickies going to solve this one, then? ? My approach works in two-ways: the poster will be informed, and the one about to ask a question will wonder why the thread has been closed. This is the chain reaction that happened in Member Auctions. However, point number one would be invalid should the member leave.

Quote:The users that actually remain never go back and read the long replies that are posted, and as a result the same stuff is answered daily.

Again, a problem with members refusing to read.

Quote:As an overall solution? I can think of some, but I doubt Omni has the time; he's a busy guy.

Create a usergroup similar to the mentors solely for that section.

Yes, I think a solution of this caliber could work but I have no say on what gets created or not, and such suggestions are forbidden.

Quote:Sticky a thread that answers the commonly asked questions.

This won't be of so much help.

Quote:Instead of closing / insta junking threads, state what was wrong + close.

This is the approach I tried at Member Actions, and earlier you said it would not work. ?

Quote:Add a barrier between making new threads that will state the answers to the generic questions. Even though not too many would read it, a lot will and it will cut down the spam.

...which is, a sticky.

Quote:At the very least, do what was done with the WiFi section and recruit a sectional moderator.

Believe me when I say Omniscient wants the best for the site and its sections. It is just very difficult to look for members who will not be abusive.

Quote:I will send you threads that go unnoticed after a report for longer than 24 hours starting 3 days from now. Why 3 days? Because as a result of this thread that section will be checked on more often, but when the mentors + staff slowly filter away it will go back to what it was.

Certainly.

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 6:50 am

(May 28, 2013 06:46 AM)Paradoxum Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think we need much more than those to solve this issue, seeing as stickies do not work.

How are stickies going to solve this one, then? ? My approach works in two-ways: the poster will be informed, and the one about to ask a question will wonder why the thread has been closed. This is the chain reaction that happened in Member Auctions. However, point number one would be invalid should the member leave.

Again, a problem with members refusing to read.

Yes, I think a solution of this caliber could work but I have no say on what gets created or not, and such suggestions are forbidden.

This won't be of so much help.

This is the approach I tried at Member Actions, and earlier you said it would not work. ?

...which is, a sticky.

Believe me when I say Omniscient wants the best for the site and its sections. It is just very difficult to look for members who will not be abusive.

Certainly.

Read over that and saw how contradictory I was there. I'm tired and flustered with all of this, I'm confusing myself.

What I meant to say:

A sticky in that section would at the least do something, it isn't ideal at all but if Omni is too busy to implement the other features, it would, at the least cure a slight amount of the spam.

Paradoxum - May 28, 2013, 6:51 am

(May 28, 2013 06:40 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Sure I think we both can't read, that is seemingly impossible now since we've shown you how the BHS works and you've had to clean it like a criminal at a crime scene, at least to me it seems that way.

Perfect simile. ?

Quote:yeah and I think I know how Omni will see it and it involves the ban hammer for being a nuisance.

"Nuisance" is my reserved word. Note that I have used it so many times on members that post poorly in any section.

Terry A. Davis - May 28, 2013, 7:02 am

(May 28, 2013 06:51 AM)Paradoxum Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Perfect simile. ?

"Nuisance" is my reserved word. Note that I have used it so many times on members that post poorly in any section.

Yeah I was going to say it was your word but alas I couldn't remember if it was you or Genuine, however if you want a chance to use it now I'd take it if you think I've been rude, abstract or any other complex word, it would be deserved.

I looked over this thread again after getting a Coke and I see you're seemingly helping us in a way by not just locking and moving on, you're being helpful not hindering.

Im gone brah - May 28, 2013, 7:11 am

Muzzy finally a thread like this, i'm in the bhs every freakin day to help out the begginers there, or anyone else that needs help.

But i have started to be tired of thesse threads, and it's the same threads over and over again.

Sorry for my grammar, i'm tired

-Inclination

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 7:12 am

(May 28, 2013 07:11 AM)Inclination Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Muzzy finally a thread like this, i'm in the bhs every freakin day to help out the begginers there, or anyone else that needs help.

But i have started to be tired of thesse threads, and it's the same threads over and over again.

Sorry for my grammar, i'm tired

-Inclination

Many a thread has been made like this, yet not one is ever given a definitive response.

Im gone brah - May 28, 2013, 7:17 am

(May 28, 2013 07:12 AM)Muzzy ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Many a thread has been made like this, yet not one is ever given a definitive response.

That's true, but not a well made like this one, as i've seen.

I hope this will make some changes.?

-Inclination

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 7:18 am

(May 28, 2013 07:17 AM)Inclination Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's true, but not a well made like this one, as i've seen.

I hope this will make some changes.?

-Inclination

As do I, friend. Let's hope that good comes of this ?

Vinnie - May 28, 2013, 8:25 am

In all honesty I agree & disagree, why?

New members post in that section, it's one of the most active sections for new members it seems, they post threads that are completely random or threads that have nothing to do with that section. Sure it's reported but the reported threads are sometimes not moved or taken care of really late, (SOMETIMES).

What I do remember is sometime ago I posted on a thread that was posted in the wrong section and instructed the newly joined member to post in the right section, reported the thread and also posted the link on the thread, within seconds Paradoxum messaged me and told me to just report the thread and staff/mentors will take care of it, and they did, swiftly.

So in all honestly I understand where you're coming from OP but I don't agree with the section being unorganized, I see staff taking care of it, I can see that sometimes staff may be late on getting on the reported threads or posts but at the end of the day they do take care of it.

One thing I do suggest (if my suggestion even means any, which I doubt it does) is that Omniscient takes the time to look for a section moderator as the section does tend to get rather flooded with silly threads/posts.

Other than that I can't say staff don't do a good job in that section, just my opinion but I get where you're coming from Muzzy.

Mr Kewl - May 28, 2013, 9:31 am

Quote:Mr Kewl, we've had some run ins about this section.

I have seen members asking for Omni's DOX, I reported it went to sleep came on and the thread was still there.

That was a long time ago, when I was a Mentor and most of the staff team we have currently weren't staff members. We did have a talk, I told you PM me the thread links I'll deal with them ASAP. But infact, you never did PM me instead you made lots of rage threads. I'll be honest, we don't get enough reports from this section.. There very few reports as compared to other sections. You guys should report more.

I cant really tell you with the older staff members but we do have ALL the timezones covered now, all the reports are dealt with instantly.

Quote: what about the carding sites that get posted I've seen some in my time. What about the countless spam that gets posted in there like all the bubble gum bullshit of the same threads right on top of each other.

Alright, this is just not BHS.. They are posted everywhere on the forum, we know because go all over the forum where the report takes us.

There is no possible way to stop spam bots completely so don't talk about this and its a forum-wide issue.

Quote:One major factor is this site is HACKfourms but oh no it seems that doesn't matter since the section is a mess, so many threads all asking the same thing

People like to be spoon fed, that's why they don't use the search option and search similar threads. That's human tendency, you cant really change that.

Quote:people offering money for services when they shouldn't be there, it is bullshit. Report posts.

Quote:Yet he seems to think it should stay a LQ mess or he doesn't see what is wrong with it. So how do you want to change it?

Quote:I included the part about asking for his DOX, now how would you feel if people were asking for yours? I know I'd be worried and hope that the user gets banned or warned but I managed to sleep before it was taken down.

How old is this issue? Talking about things of past and comparing them with us is of no use.

You are pointing at current Staff team and telling we don't do our work or we're lazy ass and ignore the reports.

Quote:As of this very moment, such a thread does not exist.

?

Quote:What I'm trying to say is that that happens in the BHS noticeably more often than in other sections.

So I'm sorry that I made an error there, but the problem I stated is a valid one at times and I stand by it.

However, that was a paragraph on a thread that contained many, and I ask that you please just give some insight as to if anything at all is planned for this section?

As I said earlier, you just visit BHS.

Quote:I'm done with the constant bullshit, I've almost given up on HF as a whole after this whole thing, I'll do what you ask, I will compile a list of all the bullshit threads I after this weekend (since I am going away for a bit) and then on the friday (my time) I will send you them all.
Do send them if they are reported and not handled properly.

Quote:Don't know his name but the Educational guy: He makes a feedback thread BOOM he gets Mod. Muzzy and Me and a couple of members make threads on the BHS they get locked and ignored WHY THE FUCK IS THE BHS GENERALLY IGNORED? Just because we made a thread it seems as if the sudden up take by mods in the BHS has improved but time will tell if it keeps, if it does I will shut up, if it declines yet again I will be done and leave.
I see your intention.

Quote>Create a usergroup similar to the mentors solely for that section.
There is really no need for any new group if you are constantly reporting threads and our current Mentors visit BHS more often, we already have tons of them. :)

Quote:Sticky a thread that answers the commonly asked questions.
I have answered this already?

Quote:Instead of closing / insta junking threads, state what was wrong + close.

This wont work in BHS as it did work in MA section. MA section is in Marketplace we have some restrictions to post there, so people are a bit familiar with rules and regulations and if they see the threads being closed in that section, they wont do the same mistakes.

BHS is where the new members visit and post, without reading rules and regulations or searching and the section is pretty active even if we close thread with the reason, they are not going to be read by any other members except OP(not even sure about him.)

My only request to members is to report as much as they can, not only BHS section but all of the section. If you report, you are doing your part to keep HF clean.

Terry A. Davis - May 28, 2013, 9:53 am

(May 28, 2013 09:31 AM)Mr Kewl Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) -Snip-

I respect all your points here and a slight change of topic but answer me this.

Why is it Panda Sec makes a thread for the WiFi he gets Mentor of it.

Feynman makes a feedback and oh look he gets Mentor.

Why doesn't the BHS or nearly any other section get the same respect or how is it different?

Im gone brah - May 28, 2013, 10:49 am

(May 28, 2013 09:53 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I respect all your points here and a slight change of topic but answer me this.

Why is it Panda Sec makes a thread for the WiFi he gets Mentor of it.

Feynman makes a feedback and oh look he gets Mentor.

Why doesn't the BHS or nearly any other section get the same respect or how is it different?
I agree with you, your points are clear and i agree.
I'm a bit curious, of what this will end with.?

I respect you staff "no offense".

-Inclination

SomeWhiteGuy - May 28, 2013, 12:44 pm

(May 28, 2013 09:53 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I respect all your points here and a slight change of topic but answer me this.

Why is it Panda Sec makes a thread for the WiFi he gets Mentor of it.

Feynman makes a feedback and oh look he gets Mentor.

Why doesn't the BHS or nearly any other section get the same respect or how is it different?
Because Feynman made a feedback tread without the intention of actually trying to get moderator of a section.

You make this thread like 2 days later, with the same basis layout wise, and are wondering why one of you is not a moderator of the section?

All you people know how to do is complain. I would honestly like to see one of you be a Staff member or live in Omni's shoes for a day and I guarantee you would not like it.

I've done my fair share of complaining as well, but it's whatever now. Shit happens. If Omni sees this matter as pressing I'm sure he will go out of his way to find a good mod for the section. Mentors and sectional moderators do not get reports, only staff do. Even if the section had a mod it'd be difficult to keep up with everything. It depends on the members of the section just as much as it depends on the Staff, sectional mods and Mentors.

(Pardon mistake if any, on my iPhone.)

muzzy. - May 28, 2013, 3:34 pm

(May 28, 2013 12:44 PM)SomeWhiteGuy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Because Feynman made a feedback tread without the intention of actually trying to get moderator of a section.

You make this thread like 2 days later, with the same basis layout wise, and are wondering why one of you is not a moderator of the section?

All you people know how to do is complain. I would honestly like to see one of you be a Staff member or live in Omni's shoes for a day and I guarantee you would not like it.

I've done my fair share of complaining as well, but it's whatever now. Shit happens. If Omni sees this matter as pressing I'm sure he will go out of his way to find a good mod for the section. Mentors and sectional moderators do not get reports, only staff do. Even if the section had a mod it'd be difficult to keep up with everything. It depends on the members of the section just as much as it depends on the Staff, sectional mods and Mentors.

(Pardon mistake if any, on my iPhone.)

I cannot stress this enough. It is had a paragraph dedicated to and I quoted para on it.

I made this thread because I was inspired by the positive reaction to feynman's thread and used the same layout because I found it looked nice and flowed well. I am I'm in no means asking for sectional mod, nor did I try to imply it.

(Excuse mistakes, I'm also on my phone) spyd0r - May 28, 2013, 4:30 pm

When I first came here, I posted over a about a hundred answers to the questions there.

I left because I couldn't take the repetitiveness, "How to hax facebook?" It also annoyed me seeing so many people with 1 post creating a thread there and asking some question.

I believe we should have an archive of sorts, in which questions with notable answers are categorized. This should be viewed before the section opens, but should include an option to "not show again."

Just what I think.

muzzy. - May 29, 2013, 12:56 am

(May 28, 2013 04:30 PM)spyd0r Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) When I first came here, I posted over a about a hundred answers to the questions there.

I left because I couldn't take the repetitiveness, "How to hax facebook?" It also annoyed me seeing so many people with 1 post creating a thread there and asking some question.

I believe we should have an archive of sorts, in which questions with notable answers are categorized. This should be viewed before the section opens, but should include an option to "not show again."

Just what I think.

Thanks for throwing in your views. I totally agree.

Levi - May 29, 2013, 2:14 am

I used to be relatively active in BH, I have a pretty big help desk there; dudes like Ghost.13 make that section dope.

muzzy. - May 29, 2013, 2:38 am

(May 29, 2013 02:14 AM)Levi Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I used to be relatively active in BH, I have a pretty big help desk there; dudes like Ghost.13 make that section dope.

Ghost.13 no longer actively posts there. Myself, Perfect Cell and occasionally Lante + Tux1 are the main / only contributors outside of helpdesks.

Levi - May 29, 2013, 2:40 am

(May 29, 2013 02:38 AM)Muzzy ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Ghost.13 no longer actively posts there. Myself, Perfect Cell and occasionally Lante + Tux1 are the main / only contributors outside of helpdesks.

Whaa, that dude was genuinely cool, which is rare for this forum.

Dastoks - May 29, 2013, 3:58 am

I agree with you so much, sadly i dont have enough knowledge like i wish i could to help out, but i do try to help when i can.

also thanks for helping in the BHS and dedicating so much :)

Canonsx130 - May 29, 2013, 4:49 am

Here is my attempt in creating a thread <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3510897>

But the 18,000 char limit prevented me from writing anymore -_-

?Dante - May 29, 2013, 5:31 am

What you said is just right - but you've forgotten meh! :(I'm not on the supportive members list of yours. :((

muzzy. - May 29, 2013, 5:33 am

(May 29, 2013 05:31 AM))4nt3 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What you said is just right - but you've forgotten meh! :(I'm not on the supportive members list of yours. :((
:O Been a while dude <3 I'll update the OP.

'Snorlax - May 29, 2013, 5:52 am

I run my Help Desk because it's a mandatory project in my group.

Some chose to make a big tutorial. Some chose to make help desks. I chose a help desk, because I post in that section a lot, and I have knowledge in it.

You say I don't post actively in the section, yet I have 1186 posts in total, and 403 of those are from my help desk. That's not posting actively?

That's up to you, buddy.

Natas - May 29, 2013, 5:54 am

That section is and can be useful to some members.

I also hate that section but for me when I visit there its most the time a pain in my butt helping people there or doing stuff for people there I still do it time to time how ever I feel like that section is kind of annoying but as long as other people are finding it useful thats what matters.

?Dante - May 29, 2013, 5:55 am

Ah! now it looks good. :P

And 'Snorlax, you post a lot in that section - no doubt. ;)

It's just like - your thread gets buried in time as it's the BHS.

muzzy. - May 29, 2013, 5:56 am

(May 29, 2013 05:52 AM)Snorlax Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I run my Help Desk because it's a mandatory project in my group.

Some chose to make a big tutorial. Some chose to make help desks. I chose a help desk, because I post in that section a lot, and I have knowledge in it.

You say I don't post actively in the section, yet I have 1186 posts in total, and 403 of those are from my help desk. That's not posting actively?

That's up to you, buddy.

Simply going off what I've seen in the past 3 months that I've been in that section.

I'm not trying to dig at you, I'm trying to complement you and thank you for what you've done. Sorry if you took it offensively.

Updated the moderation section of the post after some pointers from another user (won't name him unless he requests it) as it looked like a dig at staff when it really wasn't intended to be. It has been quoted multiple times if you want to see the original segment.

Thanks.

'Snorlax - May 29, 2013, 5:57 am

(May 29, 2013 05:55 AM)Dante Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Ah! now it looks good. ?
And 'Snorlax, you post a lot in that section - no doubt. ;)
It's just like - your thread gets buried in time as it's the BHS.
It does yeah. I try to keep it active, but also high quality.
It was deleted once, but I got it reopened.

I wrote in OP which questions I don't want to answer, so that helps me not repeat myself.

(May 29, 2013 05:56 AM)Muzzy ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Simply going off what I've seen in the past 3 months that I've been in that section.

I'm not trying to dig at you, I'm trying to complement you and thank you for what you've done. Sorry if you took it offensively.
I just realised I looked at it the wrong way. I looked at it negatively.
Sorry, my bad.

?Dante - May 29, 2013, 6:07 am

(May 29, 2013 05:57 AM)Snorlax Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I wrote in OP which questions I don't want to answer, so that helps me not repeat myself.
Also, have the link to your thread in your signature space. It'd help more as people would get redirected to your thread right away.

Terry A. Davis - May 29, 2013, 6:07 am

'Snorlax Wrote:-Snip-

I'm sorry man, I am sure we've had a good patch in knowing each other but I have noticed that your Helpdesk thread only starting getting more support from you after this was made, and indeed you do have a fair amount of posts in there.

Ayden™ - May 29, 2013, 6:08 am

Joined this year and expects an award for answering questions. Mate, staff do that daily and don't get a single cent.
Pefect <3 You
- Ayden

muzzy. - May 29, 2013, 6:10 am

(May 29, 2013 06:08 AM)Ayden™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Joined this year and expects an award for answering questions. Mate, staff do that daily and don't get a single cent.
Pefect <3 You
- Ayden
Please, point out to me where I ask that I'm given anything at all?

Ayden™ - May 29, 2013, 6:13 am

Quote:So after viewing this thread regarding the education nation section, I'd like to throw in my thoughts on the Beginner hacking section. For anyone unaware, I am one of the 2-5 (Myself, Perfect Cell, Lante, Dante, Turtle, Occasionally others) that actually does anything in that section. With questions being asked continually, [i]it's a lot of work with little or no reward.

Stating it's alot of work to answer someones questions or link them too a thread. You were obviously looking for some type of "Sympathy".

I do get what you're getting at though... The section needs more work done on it.
- Ayden[/i]

muzzy. - May 29, 2013, 6:17 am

(May 29, 2013 06:13 AM)Ayden™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)

Stating it's alot of work to answer someones questions or link them too a thread. You were obviously looking for some type of "Sympathy".

I do get what you're getting at though... The section needs more work done on it.
- Ayden

But that would imply I'm asking each one of us for a reward? How would moderation be a reward?

If work on that section is done, it needs something self sustaining and permanent, not something that will last a couple weeks / months and die out.

+Pirate - May 29, 2013, 6:44 am

I would agree that something needs to change, but not in the way of staff. I think that the users who post there generally just assume that the BHS section is a 'free for all' regarding information and knowledge so they instantly post there instead of either searching for an answer to their question or posting their question in the appropriate section. This just happens to be the first stop for new members to go, so they need guidance more than punishment in my opinion, if they are to remain members of this site.

An official dedicated team of people who solely remain in the BHS, Web Hacking and RAT sections would be a great help as they can provide knowledge to members, but that is far-fetched as there are other things Omni has time for.

My two cents.

T?ny - May 29, 2013, 6:48 am

I remember when I camped that section, racked up 1500 post and then got tired of all the bullshit.

Canonsx130 - May 29, 2013, 6:49 am

(May 29, 2013 06:48 AM)T?ny Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I remember when I camped that section, racked up 15000 post and then got tired of all the bullshit.

Did you mean 1,500? Because you've got just around 5k atm. ?

T?ny - May 29, 2013, 6:52 am

(May 29, 2013 06:49 AM)Canonsx130 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Did you mean 1,500? Because you've got just around 5k atm. ?

<https://hackforums.net/postactivity.php?uid=1429987>

muzzy. - May 29, 2013, 6:53 am

(May 29, 2013 06:48 AM)T?ny Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I remember when I camped that section, racked up 15000 post and then got tired of all the bullshit.

It feels like everyone follows that road. They camp it out and then leave it, it's a shame.

Canonsx130 - May 29, 2013, 6:56 am

Sorry, it's out of my bounds. But that's like 7-8 months for 15k posts. Damn brother, you seriously have got some time in your hands!

Terry A. Davis - May 29, 2013, 6:58 am

(May 29, 2013 06:53 AM)Muzzy ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It feels like everyone follows that road. They camp it out and then leave it, it's a shame.Me Phyber and Tux1 rack in over 3k posts, so I'd say we are the active posters sadly Tux1 doesn't come on much and Phyber, well I've never seen him in there.

muzzy. - May 29, 2013, 6:59 am

(May 29, 2013 06:58 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Me Phyber and Tux1 rack in over 3k posts, so I'd say we are the active posters sadly Tux1 doesn't come on much and Phyber, well I've never seen him in there.

You're the only one I see active over there that look like they've stuck it out.

SHADOW REALM - May 29, 2013, 7:01 am

(May 29, 2013 06:58 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Me Phyber and Tux1 rack in over 3k posts, so I'd say we are the active posters sadly Tux1 doesn't come on much and Phyber, well I've never seen him in there.

I've got 1.1k posts in there. Dont forget me br0

Canonsx130 - May 29, 2013, 7:03 am

Is this thread turning into a personal achievement thread? ?

SHADOW REALM - May 29, 2013, 7:04 am

(May 29, 2013 07:03 AM)Canonsx130 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Is this thread turning into a personal achievement thread? ?

Tis for I

But seriously something needs to get done

btw a suggestion thread I made a while ago

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3391274>

Terry A. Davis - May 29, 2013, 7:08 am

(May 29, 2013 07:03 AM)Canonsx130 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Is this thread turning into a personal achievement thread? ?

I was trying to point out to avoid LQ shit in there we need a group of active helpers and me posting the post stats like that I was trying to say I am one of the active ones not one of the comer and goers.

Canonsx130 - May 29, 2013, 7:16 am

(May 29, 2013 07:08 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I was trying to point out to avoid LQ shit in there we need a group of active helpers and me posting the post stats like that I was trying to say I am one of the active ones not one of the comer and goers.

Yeah sorry I was not pointing at anyone specifically I did not want this thread to be closed by mods for off topic posts like I've seen alot before. I just hope something good comes out of this thread for the section.

muzzy. - May 29, 2013, 7:20 am

I ask that you all stay on topic. Paradoxum has requested this thread remain open for discussion until omniscient makes a statement, until then, please keep discussion relevant.

'Snorlax - May 29, 2013, 7:24 am

(May 29, 2013 06:07 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm sorry man, I am sure we've had a good patch in knowing each other but I have noticed that your Helpdesk thread only starting getting more support from you after this was made, and indeed you do have a fair amount of posts in there.

Sorry, but that makes no sense.

You noticed my thread started to get more support, after I made the thread?

That makes no sense ?

Canonsx130 - May 29, 2013, 7:25 am

With all this buzz around, I certainly have to agree almost all the threads, atleast in the first 3-4 pages have got lots of useful and dedicated replies. It's kinda like everyone's racing to post the best solution and atleast I'm enjoying it. When I joined, it was more like who will say to 'go use google' at first but I don't see those kind of posts no more, atleast not much :)

Terry A. Davis - May 29, 2013, 7:35 am

'Snorlax Wrote:Sorry, but that makes no sense.

You noticed my thread started to get more support, after I made the thread?

That makes no senseYou seemed to post more on your helpdesk after this thread was made, at least it seems that way judging by how often I saw your Helpdesk in the BHS

?pth?n - May 29, 2013, 7:40 am

Of course, there can be annoying questions that have been asked 1000 times before in the beginner hacking section.

But I still enjoy it there.

I mainly post in the beginner hacking section - I don't make own threads there - I simply like to help beginners.

Everyone who is helping there knows that it can be very frustrating to post there and help others, because you probably have to explain the same thing the next day again. In addition to this, you rarely gain rep (Noone can deny it, that there are some real rep lovers in other sections).

Thumbs up for everyone who is helping over there, because its the section, where the most beginners and skids will go first :)

Swirl - May 29, 2013, 8:05 am

Ya I used to help out in the beginner hacking section, I have around 160 posts there, they are almost all from my first 200 posts.

'Snorlax - May 29, 2013, 11:15 am

(May 29, 2013 07:35 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You seemed to post more on your helpdesk after this thread was made, at least it seems that way judging by how often I saw your Helpdesk in the BHS

To be honest, the first time I saw this thread was today. No wonder, since it was made yesterday.

I've replied to every question on my help desk, that I want to answer. OP/#1 states which I don't.

I reply when I get an answer. Sometimes there are 30-40 questions per day, sometimes there are 5. It depends on the day.

Jay? - May 29, 2013, 11:22 am

It's a joke that you think you and a few members are the only people that post there.

Pffft.

?Fear - May 29, 2013, 11:33 am

I agree with everything in this thread to be honest. The hacking sections' quality have descended past hell.

Terry A. Davis - May 29, 2013, 11:53 am

Satoru Wrote:It's a joke that you think you and a few members are the only people that post there.

Pffft.500 posts yeah sure that is SO making a difference on the quality

Levi - May 29, 2013, 12:05 pm

(May 29, 2013 11:53 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 500 posts yeah sure that is SO making a difference on the quality

Quality over quantity, for all we know all 4,000 of your posts could be utter shit and his 500 could be magnificent.

For arguments sake of course. It's nice ya'll are helping and shit but you're still doing the same thing people have been doing for years, difference is you guys feel the need to announce it.

Han. - May 29, 2013, 1:22 pm

(May 28, 2013 05:04 AM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Tutorials go in the Hacking Tutorials section ?

But I've made 2 or 3 mega hacking guides to help around there but oh no they get buried under all this shit, why do almost all the coding sections have stikies saying how to code but the hacking section doesn't have an intro the world of hacking.

No. The general coding section has like 1 thread and it's outdated and nobody reads it anyway.

Stickies are pointless, the members who post the shitty threads always seem to have tunnel vision on the New Thread button and ignore stickies.

muzzy. - May 29, 2013, 4:47 pm

(May 29, 2013 11:22 AM)Satoru Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's a joke that you think you and a few members are the only people that post there.

Pffft.

The members I listed are the only ones that are noticeably active and reliable to help in that section.

If you feel under appreciated, your last post there was on 5-10-13.

Canonsx130 - May 29, 2013, 11:55 pm

(May 29, 2013 01:22 PM)Han. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No. The general coding section has like 1 thread and it's outdated and nobody reads it anyway.

Stickies are pointless, the members who post the shitty threads always seem to have tunnel vision on the New Thread button and ignore stickies.

Maybe if they are forced to read it upon entering the forum.. ?

+Pirate - May 31, 2013, 1:14 am

Seeing as there has been no official response, I would like to re-highlight this thread.

muzzy. - May 31, 2013, 5:12 pm

Thanks pirate. I think everyone that would post but omni has seen this now.

Temper ? - June 2, 2013, 2:02 am

Cool feedback there, Muzzy, enjoyed it :3

DiamondHacking - June 2, 2013, 4:38 am

I'm behind you on this.

I have several HQ helpful threads there that have been shoved to the bottom.

muzzy. - June 2, 2013, 7:48 pm

(Jun 2, 2013 04:38 AM)Judoplayer Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm behind you on this.
I have several HQ helpful threads there that have been shoved to the bottom.
That's a big problem over there, all of the good stuff is buried in 1-2 hours.

Lante - June 3, 2013, 1:34 am

(Jun 2, 2013 07:48 PM)Muzzy ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's a big problem over there, all of the good stuff is buried in 1-2 hours.

Too bad there's no distinction between regular questions + low quality threads and high quality tutorials/guides. You can't start sticking all HQ threads but what could be do-able is have one sticky which categorizes and lists all of the good tutorials to somewhat put them in the spotlight.

#Skyline - June 3, 2013, 1:35 am

I can actually agree on ever statement made in this thread. This also goes with the RAT section. It's all the same, but RAT section a bit more worse.

Om?nous - June 3, 2013, 1:46 am

(Jun 3, 2013 01:35 AM)#Skyline Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I can actually agree on ever statement made in this thread. This also goes with the RAT section. It's all the same, but RAT section a bit more worse.

I agree with this, the number of threads asking for someone to crypt something, or asking how to download and use DC is just out of control.. Someone needs to sticky a thread at the top with a noobs guide to DC and i think the rules for that section need to be changed a bit.

#Skyline - June 3, 2013, 1:47 am

(Jun 3, 2013 01:46 AM)Ominous Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I agree with this, the number of threads asking for someone to crypt something, or asking how to download and use DC is just out of control..
Someone needs to sticky a thread at the top with a noobs guide to DC and i think the rules for that section need to be changed a bit.

Hell, I'll do it then. I'm even tried of it, and I just came back from a 1 month ban today. And I see the same shit every time.

muzzy. - June 3, 2013, 2:42 am

(May 28, 2013 06:28 AM)Paradoxum Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Let us address point number two after addressing point number one: show me a thread that has been ignored by a staff member as you said.

PM'ed to Xch4ng3, been 4 days since report.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3514869>

VipVince - June 3, 2013, 7:18 am

Yeah that section sucks and is a pool of LQ and lazy threads mainly based on fake Facebook exploits and kids looking for passwords handed to them. It will never be HQ but then again what can you expect on the beginner section of the webs biggest hacking forum? Exactly what you get.

The thing is when a HQ thread is made, it lasts about 3 pages and goes dead. It is only the small minority of other HQ users that recognize it and give it props before it fades into the distance and scrolled back a dozen pages out of view.

I try and keep the WAFH section as clean as possible, however I realize it will never be fully implemented and will always have an aspect of nonsense and garbage polluting it. Just focus on what matters and let skids be skids.

Farcast - June 3, 2013, 7:47 am

Man.. I just look at that section and face palm.. People expect tools to automatically do everything they need with no effort what so ever.

muzzy. - June 5, 2013, 1:08 am

(Jun 3, 2013 07:18 AM)VipVince Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah that section sucks and is a pool of LQ and lazy threads mainly based on fake Facebook exploits and kids looking for passwords handed to them. It will never be HQ but then again what can you expect on the beginner section of the webs biggest hacking forum? Exactly what you get.

The thing is when a HQ thread is made, it lasts about 3 pages and goes dead. It is only the small minority of other HQ users that recognize it and give it props before it fades into the distance and scrolled back a dozen pages out of view.

I try and keep the WAFH section as clean as possible, however I realize it will never be fully implemented and will always have an aspect of nonsense and garbage polluting it. Just focus on what matters and let skids be skids.

That section, if completely remastered could be awesome. Instead of beginner hacking, make it 'beginner questions' that directs to a page where they can ask a question and a list of tutorials related to that question would pop up.

If there question wasn't answered, they could ask one and have it put in a forum like the MRT one that a special team helps in.

Sadly, Omni won't have time to implement something like that, so a sectional mod / some stickes and more helpers would suffice.

RySec - June 5, 2013, 1:11 am

I agree the section need's a make over. Hence why I recommended a advanced hacking section for upgraded members.

muzzy. - June 6, 2013, 1:50 am

(Jun 5, 2013 01:11 AM)DarksidDe Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I agree the section need's a make over. Hence why I recommended a advanced hacking section for upgraded members.

The advanced section should be renamed 'VIP methods' as nothing advanced goes on over there that is even remotely advanced.

Just my 0.2c

Terry A. Davis - June 9, 2013, 8:20 pm

So it seems even after my week off the BHS hasn't changed much but I will say the cleanness of it has seemingly increased the quality however hasn't

Omniscient - June 9, 2013, 8:43 pm

Not every section of HF is meant to be high quality and reality is that the Beginner Hacking section does a great job of keeping a lot of that newbie stuff in there. I'm not sure I want to toy around with that. You will always get new members asking stupid questions without reading anything or searching.

Quote:One of the beginner hacking section's main flaws is one found in not many others on this site. When a user registers to hack forums, they rarely read the rules and go right ahead and post in that section as it seems the 'shiniest' to them.

EXACTLY!

Quote: As a result, multiple rule violating threads are posted there every 12 hours or so.

And staff does what it can to warn members so that maybe...just maybe...they'll go read the Help Docs before it's too late.

I think if you're looking to "turn around" the Beginner Hacking section so that it's higher quality then I think you're fighting a lost cause.

btw you haven't really reported than many posts. It's currently at 153. Not a lot by a long shot. A decent number though and it shows you care which is nice. :)

And my guess...any sectional moderator I make for that section would burn out in days. Not even worth it imho to try.

Thanks for feedback and I fully understand your frustration but I hope you understand why things won't be changed. You're just never gonna like all aspect of HF or force high quality in every section.

Terry A. Davis - June 9, 2013, 8:46 pm

Omniscient Wrote:-SNIP-

Then why not attempt to lower the amount of LQ posting in there by adding stickies like in other sections?

muzzy. - June 9, 2013, 8:48 pm

(Jun 9, 2013 08:43 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not every section of HF is meant to be high quality and reality is that the Beginner Hacking section does a great job of keeping a lot of that newbie stuff in there. I'm not sure I want to toy around with that. You will always get new members asking stupid questions without reading anything or searching.

EXACTLY!

And staff does what it can to warn members so that maybe...just maybe...they'll go read the Help Docs before it's too late.

I think if you're looking to "turn around" the Beginner Hacking section so that it's higher quality then I think you're fighting a lost cause.

btw you haven't really reported than many posts. It's currently at 153. Not a lot by a long shot. A decent number though and it shows you care which is nice. :)

And my guess...any sectional moderator I make for that section would burn out in days. Not even worth it imho to try.

Thanks for feedback and I fully understand your frustration but I hope you understand why things won't be changed. You're just never gonna like all aspect of HF or force high quality in every section. I guess. Maybe it's time we stopped begging for something that we can never change.

I do think even recruiting more mentors or just giving all of them the option to moderate that section (if they don't have it already) would help a little. But since this thread has been posted and I spoke with Para / Froggy / F8 / Mr Kewl the moderation side of it has improved dramatically.

Thanks for the response, a few members along with myself have been biting our nails waiting for it.

RDCA - June 9, 2013, 8:52 pm

(Jun 9, 2013 08:46 PM)Perfect Cell Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Then why not attempt to lower the amount of LQ posting in there by adding stickies like in other sections?

If people don't bother to read the rules or the Help Docs, they probably won't read the stickies either. Also, because of how general the section is, a sticky is only going to appeal to a certain audience, or it is going to be too large and become unattractive to a "new hacker". I was thinking of adding a rules box to that sub-forum, but even that probably wouldn't work. Plus, what rules would even go in there. I think that people should just report more things from there, and that mentors look around more. (Assuming they have permissions in the section)

Edit: Which they do. The problems are Mentors can't be everywhere, staff are already extremely busy, and many members just resort to posting to the user that he is doing something wrong rather than reporting them, or they don't even report the user.

Canonsx130 - June 9, 2013, 8:54 pm

(Jun 9, 2013 08:52 PM)RDCA Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If people don't bother to read the rules or the Help Docs, they probably won't read the stickies either. Also, because of how general the section is, a sticky is only going to appeal to a certain audience, or it is going to be too large and become unattractive to a "new hacker". I was thinking of adding a rules box to that sub-forum, but even that probably wouldn't work. Plus, what rules would even go in there. I think that people should just report more things from there, and that mentors look around more. (Assuming they have permissions in the section)How about forcing people to read a particular stickied thread on attempting to create a thread or while entering the subforum? I know it is certainly possible on MyBB.

RDCA - June 9, 2013, 8:55 pm

(Jun 9, 2013 08:54 PM)Canonsx130 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How about forcing people to read a particular stickied thread on attempting to create a thread or while entering the subforum? I know it is certainly possible on MyBB.

Well, then we have this problem again. What thread would it be? How much of an audience does it appeal to? Chances are it if it can help more than 40 percent of the members, it will be too long for members to read. It is already obvious that they aren't here to read. Which is why they already ignored the rules and Help Docs.

Omniscient - June 9, 2013, 11:09 pm

Quote:Then why not attempt to lower the amount of LQ posting in there by adding stickies like in other sections?

I thought I made my answer clear enough. You're not going to stop newbs from posting LQP no matter what. It's better they post in a single LQ section like BHS. It's the section they are most attracted to and it suits the purpose very well. It's actually a forum section designed for stupid questions. Sort of like how Suggestions forum keeps my from getting 100 PMs a week asking for a chat system.

Something you should ask yourselves.

Is this really a problem or just something you find annoying?

Terry A. Davis - June 9, 2013, 11:15 pm

(Jun 9, 2013 11:09 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I thought I made my answer clear enough. You're not going to stop newbs from posting LQP no matter what. It's better they post in a single LQ section like BHS. It's the section they are most attracted to and it suits the purpose very well. It's actually a forum section designed for stupid questions. Sort of like how Suggestions forum keeps my from getting 100 PMs a week asking for a chat system.

Something you should ask yourselves.

Is this really a problem or just something you find annoying?I said lower not stop.

But I guess you have a point as me and Muzzy help in there a lot it is better as you said to let them make countless useless threads than to spam us with PMs with same useless shit.

I guess I'll pick up reporting posts, spam answering and the off chance something might be done about it but meh. You're right skids will be skids they ain't going to stop being lazy.

Rage™ - June 9, 2013, 11:22 pm

I left that section a while ago. It's a good section to keep all the repetitive questions in. Used to run a somewhat big help desk, but eh. Was alright. Just report the disallowed blackhat activity, and ignore the stupid questions.

Canonsx130 - June 10, 2013, 12:16 am

Alright.. The only conclusion or thing I can think of doing is create ONE BIG MOTHERFUCKING LARGE HELP DESK with all the helpers answering every single question. Maybe that will help contain the skids to just one thread..