What I like:

I like the theme of the forum, I think it is quite standard for a forum. The favicon is good and the posts are mostly HQ on there. The forum is moderated well, however attention to detail is important since quality of posts is what attracts members. The sections you have created are good and appropriate, and as the forum expands, you could expand the amount of sub-forums you have.

Things you could improve upon:

The logo is rather ugly, and you only see the slogan when you rollover. I think that the slogan should be visible at all times. The grey and white lines at the top clash with the blue banner, which is something you might want to change.

Overall opinion:

Pretty good forum, doesn't have much that separates it from others though apart from a good name.

Score:

7/10

Pretty nice forum but in my opinion it resembles TheTechGame too much. The colours are basically the same, the domain is basically the same.

The design was made in 2009 for my forum tech2game which was closed. So maybe TTG theme is same as mine :P
