I made a banner for my Minecraft server using adobe Photoshop cs6. This is my first time using it and I'm really proud how it turned out! All pointers/criticism is welcome. I think I could have made more frames of the arrow shooting to make it smoother.

If thats your first try.. you're off to a good path! The only thing that could be changed is the font, and with the animation you should have tweened it.

Wow O.o is this seriously your first try?

I've had some experience with Paint.Net but it was more simple stuff without animations.

That's really good for your first attempt. I do recommend smoothing out the animation, but keep at it man ??

Very impressive for your first job.

Nice work, and keep it up.

Think about opening a GFX shop?

I was thinking about it with all the feedback I've gotten but I'd like to get better and be able to do more things like signatures and headers. But thanks everyone for the comments :D
