I understand but it depends on the traffic quality. Traffic on Fiverr are mostly bot-ed traffic, so you wont earn a penny from that. :)

Thank you! ?

First of all, thank you for not trashing the sales actually. About "proxy list + some basic vb.net", these traffic are of high quality traffic and the visitors originate from a very large network of different unique sites we operate. The traffic is highly targeted based on the keywords, description, and site you give us. It's a guarantee that the targeted visitors we deliver will be interested and browse/click on your website contents. If the traffic fails to browse/click on your website contents, you can ask for refund.

Thank you!

You can buy 1k views for .50 this seems expensive

(Aug 31, 2013 08:30 AM)Skyon Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You can buy 1k views for .50 this seems expensive
True, but with such low prices you can estimate that the quality of this traffic would be poor. In fact it is not uncommon for every single pop under visitor to result in a non-action - that is they will not buy or click anything on your site. The reason is simple. They did not end up on your site on purpose, so they simply ignore your site.

There is little point purchasing 100,000 visitors to your site if not one of them buys your product, clicks your Adsense ad or makes an action through your CPA form. You are simply wasting your money. I hope this clears everything.

Thanks!
