[img]http://i.minus.com/jun9oZkuCHRrn.png[/img] Interview - Alea lacta Est \(Click to View\)

Connected: Hi Alea lacta Est! Welcome to your interview! I'll call you Devin if I need to though. Any shout outs?

Alea lacta Est: Hello, Connected! Thanks for this opportunity. Sure, I'd like to throw a few shoutouts to The Brotherhood, Void, and the Empire. Special shoutouts to my buddies, Connected, Cryptic™, and Kosmos, love you all!

Connected: When exactly did you join HF? What did you want to learn back then?

Alea lacta Est: I joined Hack Forums a little over two years ago. I first joined because I was constantly getting ddosed on Xbox Live and I wanted a way to get the people back. My friend who is no longer active here recommended me. I learned how to make some money with PPD and CPA to purchase a booter and I just grabbed the IP's of the people that were ddosing me. It was a crazy time, and it ended up in me getting swatted twice!

Connected: Getting swatted sucks. Anyways, have you changed a lot since you joined? Tell us what has changed!

Alea lacta Est: I have changed a lot since I joined, actually. I constantly wrote with improper grammar and I never used full sentences. I only stuck to Ddosing and RATing when I first started. I wasn't well liked because I was always trolling around and causing issues in the lounge, I guess you could call me a lounge-whore. I had a huge point of inactivity and I decided to get back on the forum. Ever since I started to become active again which was about a year ago, I learned a ton of new things and made a ton of new friends. I am well liked and I also have a lot more respect for people. Im not posting just for the post count now, i'm only posting if it's quality. Quality over quantity is what I like to say.

Connected: Are you thinking of learning some new stuff from HF in the future? If so, what?

Alea lacta Est: Yes, I do plan on learning a ton of new things. Right now I am learning some coding languages so I can make some extra money on the side. The languages i'm learning right now are Delphi and more Java. I plan on learning some more Monetizing Techniques along the way. I'm also becoming really good with malware removal. I plan on applying for MRT in a future recruitment.

Connected: You're in the Brotherhood, Innovation, Empire and Void. What do you think about those groups?

Alea lacta Est: That is a really good question! Well, Innovation is a group full of very intellectual people, they are always making new projects which are always interesting. They have a lot of helpful members who know what they're doing, albeit they aren't all helpful. Void is a group full of very unique members who speak their mind and always act themselves with eachother. I wouldn't consider it a group, I consider it more of a family. Empire, is one of my favorite usergroups. They are always having great conversations and the members are great. I love that they have recruitment often to test out some fresh meat! The Brotherhood, is a great group so far, the leaders are great guys and I couldn't ask for better leaders than Cryptic™ and Connected. The group is just starting out and there isn't many members which is really good because everyone can get to know eachother easier, I also consider this amazing group, a family.

Connected: Do you have any goals to join any other groups? It's hard to stay active in all groups you're in but the experience is great!

Alea lacta Est: I do have goals in other groups. I plan on purchasing my own Official usergroup in the near future. It's a great experience to be in more than one group because you get the best of all the worlds. One group could be based off of Coding, web-Development, while the other one can be based off of Science. I hope on being recruited into Infamous in the future, as that has been a "group dream" for me.

Connected: Let's talk a little bit about your life. What do you like doing IRL?

Alea lacta Est: I'm a very unique person when it comes to real life. I am very interested in animals, so I do volunteer at my local animal shelter. I won't be there for much longer though due to a summer job. I love Physics and other math-science related subjects. I love to play soccer, it's my favorite sport. I do run track and field and I used to run Cross Country. I go camping about twice every summer, and I go hiking, fishing, and hunting. I am actually going to go for a run in about an hour!

Connected: I love fishing too! Just went on a trip this week end. Do you make income online or offline?

Alea lacta Est: I love the scenery of the ocean when I fish. I currently make my income online because I don't have a job in real life yet. I have been very busy with school and not many jobs have been hiring. No one really knows about my online income, although my mom recently found out about and lectured me about it for a good hour because she thought I was doing illegal fraudulent activity. I will be getting a job this summer and I will be making both offline and online income.

Connected: Thank you for being in this interview Devin! Hope you find your path to success online/offline! Any final words to conclude this interview?

Alea lacta Est: Thanks for this opportunity, Connected. Well done, HF News team, and have a great day. Keep on shining!

Interview - Perfect Cell

\(Click to View\)

+Pirate: Hey Perfect Cell, thanks for letting me interview you for the HF news. Do you have any shoutouts before we begin?

Perfect Cell: Well, at first guess the list would have to include You, MuzzyHF, Vandal and a recently banned friend Tony. To everyone I couldn't be bothered typing I'm sorry but know I love you +Pirate: That's some really strong dedication towards your friends. What bonding experiences have you shared with them?

Perfect Cell: As it stands with you and Muzz, you've helped me get through some tough times and all the laughs in between, Vandal and Tony would have to date back to my early HF days, we'd spend ages talking. The rest of you would just have to be all my group friends and amigos +Pirate: I see, so what brought you to HF in the first place?

Perfect Cell: That one actually made me think for a bit, infact I have a hard time remembering, even before I made an account while learning about the VBS and batch viruses I would always get linked to HF, but never really thought of comitting, then early last year a friend of mine said I should make an account, so I thought yolo and why not just do it and see if I can give back +Pirate: So. Why chose the name Perfect Cell?

Perfect Cell: Well if my bad memory serves me right I actually think I decided it was time that I sit down and watch the complete series of DB and DBZ and Cell has always been my go to guy in all DBZ games, so I thought why not assign myself as my favourite person +Pirate: Any changes you hope to see come from HF?

Perfect Cell: Well I would like to see all my bitching about the Beginner Hacking Section to come true, but I must admit after the most recent rant about it the current staff have been swiftly dealing with most of the reports I've been sending, other than that I can't judge many of the other sections since I don't go to them as much.

+Pirate: Anything else you'd like to say to the members of HF?

Perfect Cell: I hate you all and I leaving forever, well now that is said and done I guess I'll be packing up. As much as I have been thinking about leaving I think I love you all too much and consider some of you to be an online family of sorts.

+Pirate: Thank you for letting me interview you Perfect Cell.

[img]<http://i.minus.com/j3DPVBZWZdb4x.png>[/img] Microsoft Changes Xbox ONE Policies

Microsoft confirmed that it is changing unpopular Xbox ONE policies as a result from the internet backlash. Don Mattrick posted an article on Xbox.com titled "Your feedback matters - Update on Xbox ONE." Don explains, "As a result of feedback from the Xbox community, we have changed certain policies for Xbox One," "You told us how much you loved the flexibility you have today with games delivered on disc. The ability to lend, share, and resell these games at your discretion is of incredible importance to you," Mattrick said. "Also important to you is the freedom to play offline, for any length of time, anywhere in the world." "So, today I am announcing the following changes to Xbox One and how you can play, share, lend, and resell your games exactly as you do today on Xbox 360," he continued. An Internet connection will not be required to play offline Xbox One games.

No 24-hour connection requirement.

Trade-in, lend, resell, gift, and rent disc based games just like you do today.

Download games from Xbox LIVE on release day.

Xbox ONE games can be played on any Xbox ONE console.

No region restrictions. (eg; buy US game and play in Australia) (No more NTSC or PAL restrictions)

The Xbox ONE launches in November for $499 US and $599 AU, however an actual date has not been announced.

PS3 Firmware Fix Coming Next Week

Sony released the 4.45 PS3 firmware last week. However, multiple reports say that the new firmware is causing lockdowns or extensive freezes on their console. Reports on the PlayStation forums show that PS3 consoles over 500GB were affected by the error. The 4.45 firmware has since been taken down from the service, but affected consoles will need to wait a bit longer. Sony said they have identified the problem and a new patch will be available on June 27. "We have identified the issue related to the PlayStation 3 software update (version 4.45) that impacted a small number of PS3 systems earlier this week," Sony said in a statement. "A new PS3 system software update is planned to be released on June 27 that resolves the issue."

Xbox ONE and PS4 Help Amazon Post Biggest Pre-order Week Ever.

Amazon announced that Xbox ONE and PS4 preorders have helped the Amazon Games Store post its biggest pre-order week in history. During "peak demand" on Amazon, customers were ordering more than 2,500 consoles per minute. The statistics count both the Xbox ONE and the PS4 consoles. Amazon also stated that E3 week pre-orders for both consoles led to a massive 4,000 percent increase year-to-year. The Xbox ONE is sitting in first place on the Amazon preorder charts, however the PS4 has 5 SKU's in the top 20. Microsoft have not announced their launch bundles. The Xbox ONE will launch for $499 in US and the PS4 will launch for $399 in US.

[img]<http://i.minus.com/jQ5EQ2ltjeK36.png>[/img] Germany-Turkey Diplomatic Argument Erupts Over EU Membership Proposal

Germany has summoned the Turkish ambassador after Turkey's bid for membership of the European Union. Turkey's EU Minister, Egemen Bagis, has accused the German Chancellor, Angela Merkel, of using the Turkey issue in her campaign for her reelection. On Monday, Merkel criticized Turkey's crackdown on recent anti-government protests, saying that the police action towards the protesters was "much too harsh." Bagis responded on Thursday, saying that if Merkel was looking for "internal political material" ahead of Germany's September elections "this should not be Turkey." On Friday, German foreign ministry spokesman Andreas Peschke said it had summoned the Turkish ambassador in Berlin, Huseyin Avni Karslioglu. Bagis's comments towards the Chancellor Merkel had been "unacceptable," Peschke added. Peschke continued to stress that Turkey's negotiations with the EU were on hold because of "technical reasons," rather than the concerns about the actions taken against anti-government protests.

Dilma Rousseff Summons Brazil Cabinet About Protests

Brazil's President Dilma Rouseff is holding an emergency cabinet meeting to discuss the country's most widespread protests in two decades. The unrest began more than a week ago over transport fare risers, but they are now also directed at corruption and the expense of next year's football World Cup. Over a million people are reported to have taken part in demonstrations on Thursday in about 100 cities. One man died when a car drove through a barricade in Sao Paulo state. President Rousseff has canceled a trip to Japan to deal with the crisis. Ms. Rousseff initially praised the protesters, saying she was proud that so many people were fighting to make their country better. Since then she has distanced herself from the protests. On Thursday night, protesters tried to storm the foreign ministry in Brasilia. The protesters were driven back by police, who fired rubber bullets and used tear gas. In Rio de Janeiro, it is reported that at least 29 people were injured after clashes between riot police and groups of masked young men trying to approach city hall. Protests continue and several cities including Sao Paulo, Rio, Recife, and Joao Pessoa have reversed the fare increases.

Western Canada Flooding Causes 100,000 to Flee Homes

As many as 100,000 people have had to leave their homes in western Canada due to heavy flooding. Heavy rain and floodwaters have washed away roads and bridges and caused landslides in southern parts of the province of Alberta. Communities around Calgary, Alberta's largest city, have been hit particularly bad, a state of emergency has been declared in a large area to the south. Schools and businesses, along with several major roads, have been closed due to the flooding. Helicopters and motor boats had to be used to rescue stranded homeowners. Approximately 25 communities in and around Calgary which lie along the affected rivers have been evacuated.

[img]<http://i.minus.com/jbirdFfeOijxAv.png>[/img] Google Given 35 days to Delete Old Street View Data

Some of you may remember about the whole Street View data collection fiasco a while back. As the Street View cars were driving around taking pictures, they were (mistakenly, according to Google) collecting information about unsecured WiFi networks. This meant that people could be located exactly with hardware information about their networking device(s) (router MAC address). Google was fined $25,000USD last April by the US Federal Communications Commission, and the UK Information Commissioner's Office have told Google that they have 35 days to delete any remaining data or face criminal proceedings.

Facebook "launches" Vine Competitor; Videos on Instagram

Vine, Twitter's video sharing service where you can chop up video clips into a maximum 7 second video, has grown in popularity recently. Instagram has added a similar feature: you can now post a 3 to 15 second video of different clips, as well as being able to add a filter. A lot of people have said this is a "Vine killer".

You may think Facebook is copying Twitter, however Twitter did a similar thing when they added the ability to add filters to photos posted from their mobile app.

The Pirate Bay Founder Jailed Over Hacking Charges

Gottfrid Svartholm Warg, co-founder of The Pirate Bay was given a two-year sentence in a Swedish prison after multiple "hack attacks" and charges of fraud. Warg's accomplice was Mathias Gustafsson, and the pair claimed that they were not the ones responsible for the attacks; instead, their machines were used remotely to perform the hackings, however refused to name these individuals. This was later disproved by computer-forensic experts.

[img]<http://i.minus.com/jsSqf056c30Ww.png>[/img] A$AP Rocky Readies 'Druggu' Instrumental Album, Beauty And The Beast

For all you A$AP Rocky fans, come rejoice because Rocky's coming out with a new album titled 'Beauty And The Beast'. A$AP Rocky is still getting recognition from his latest album, Long. Live. A$AP, but it looks like he's coming out with a new instrumental album. A$AP told MTV News that he's ready to show out as a producer on this album. This is going to be a huge release for him considering all the work he's putting in. Well, what would you expect from his new album as the producer himself? "It's really druggy, ambient sh--," he said. "The name of it is Beauty and the Beast: Slowed Down Sessions, Chapter 1. And it's because everything is like classical beautiful music and boom-bap Wu-Tang sh-- mixed together. It's slowed down and it's real vibey, with no lyrics. I feel like it's gonna get people through the summer." This album is a definite must for true fans.

Tiesto, David Guetta, Calvin Harris to Headline TomorrowWorld Festival

For anyone who has been following the 2013 TomorrowWorld Festival, the locations has finally been announced. For all those EDM fans, there will be more than 300 acts scheduled to perform between September 27 and September 29. That's crazy considering how many artists and fans there are. Some popular names consist of Tiësto, Armin van Buuren, David Guetta and Calvin Harris. That's not all, there's more too. The notorious Swedish House Mafia members Sebastian Ingrosso and Axwell are going to perform on their own! The two will be playing during different times of course. Steve Aoki and Afrojack's newest collaboration project will be included in the collaboration too. There's supposedly 30,000 lucky fans who got tickets to see these artists in Georgia. For any fans out there who haven't gotten their tickets, you can do so, but note they won't be there for too long. Good luck and jam on!

Kanye West's Yeezus: Will it be a Hit on Radio?

Kanye released his new album, 'Yeezus' on Jun 18 without ever servicing a single to radio. As of now, it looks like a success. The problem though is the lack of promotion that is given the time his songs are played. Research shows: "most music discovery takes place on radio, so without having that leading into album release it may reduce awareness of the album." Yeezus may be a different case, however. Not only were listeners aware of the debut on the radio and in stores, they were ready for it. If you're friends with Kanye, or know how to get close with him in parties, you would know what the songs sounded like prior to release. Whenever Kanye would have a party, he would share the songs with everyone. If you're a fan of the show "Saturday Night Live," he sang one of his songs from the album, 'Black Skinhead'. It appears that radio is trying to deliver the music to their listeners, even if Kanye isn't directly delivering the music to radio. They're trying their best to solve whatever problem they can.

"What is your opinion of the latest E3 and the releases it featured?"

"Hello, I would like to submit my opinion for the next edition I think that E3 as a whole was awesome but I feel that Microsoft have some area's to improve on for the future, People that go to E3 especially this year don't want to hear about how your xbox can work side by side with your tv now they want to hear about the next gen of games and consoles. In my opinion Sony definitely won this round but until the devices are released who knows which one will be a massive success?"

-Winner

"My opinion on the latest E3 is that this one has probably been the best one yet. Everybody showed all they're best products and it was just friggen awesome. I mean, It's the first public announcement of the PS4! Which has been getting alot of bash the past couple weeks after E3 because of it's similar design to the XBOX ONE. I think the PS4 is more similar to the PS2 than X1. And am I the only person who can't wait for Infamous: Second Son?"

-kayy6688

The topic for next week is "How is your summer going? What's been happening?"

Buckets - June 25, 2013, 4:21 am

Sir you should include different music genres in the next addition, not everyone likes Hip-Hop and R&B.

You should also include the PS3 games getting released in the week since the PS3 did outsell the 360 and you will notice something similar in the next generation.

Morchid - June 25, 2013, 4:29 am

Nothing really that exciting has happen in these past few weeks.

Maybe next weeks news could have a better comic :P

The 360 outsold the PS3 for years. PS3 only recently overtook Xbox 360. (this year)

Oh thank you I was misled by the information I received I thought it was overall sales thanks for the information but it still deserves to show PS3 games being released since there is a lot of PS3 gamers in HF.

EDIT: Well in the US the 360 overall outsold the PS3 but worldwide the PS3 does outsell the 360 in comparison.

(Jun 25, 2013 05:25 PM)Sir Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's a peculiar choice of words.

For one, I never stated that I wrote everything or tried to make it appear that I did most of the work. At one point, I did write half of the edition, but now I run the Writers and manage only part of the work-load. I fail to see how that is pathetic, seeing as I do everything in my power to show who writes what. You can see that in the way that I include the list of team members with what each member wrote at the end of each edition. During the April Fools edition, I had every team member write a short post after the edition, so as to give publicity to each member. In the Sir's Second of the last edition, I gave a specific shoutout to Retribute. Again, I fail to see how that is pathetic. I still manage and run the Writers in an efficient manner as well as take care of recruiting and replacing team members. A large portion of my work takes place outside of the limelight, and is done in the background. While I do receive a lot of undeserved credit for the work of my team--which I try to give to them whenever I can--I also take a lot of the blame for any mistakes or issues that occur during the edition's making. If a member is late, I take the blame and make changes, I do not point out the member and try to shy the blame away. So, again, a peculiar choice of words, seeing as it was only your preconceived and ignorant notions that put me up so high in your mind, only to give yourself the distance for me to fall.? That was deep man.

Nice edition by the way.

Lemur - June 25, 2013, 5:43 pm

Awesome edition, thanks for the mention!

Reanna - June 25, 2013, 8:28 pm

Wonderful edition as always, cheers to Sir and the contributing journalists as well as the rest of the staff. I'll continue to be your #1 fan. ?

Nothing especially caught my eye in this edition, mainly just because I wasn't following any of the news or topics mentioned in this edition. Much looking forward to next week's edition, I hope that important SCOTUS decisions are reported on (even though they're not world news, specifically US news).

-edit-

Sir flexing his mod powers I see, hue.

Sir flexing his mod powers I see, hue.To be completely honest, I forgot I had them until now. The conversation was irrelevant and would only lead to petty bickering.

By the way, thanks for jumping in ;D

I believe this edition turned out rather well. Thanks, team!

Baghead - June 25, 2013, 10:48 pm

Nice edition as usual. Props news team.

Off topic: Someone should buy Sir the gift award. Finally kill his color scheme.

Great news edition as always everyone. Enjoyed reading it.

Arse - June 26, 2013, 7:54 am

I love reading the news each week. The only thing I hate is when a person has their account closed it's the same colour as the background and I have to highlight it to see who it was. I realise that it's the same colour as an account closed status but for reading the news it's really annoying.

xJamie - June 26, 2013, 8:41 am

Great edition, thanks I love reading HF news, always something new to know about!!

Cheers.

Oak? - June 26, 2013, 2:51 pm

Canonsx130 - July 1, 2013, 9:08 pm

Pretty good read. Like others said, I also felt a bit annoyed seeing lack of headlines but you've given a reason already so that's alright. One negative I would say is I was not quite impressed with the personal Interview by +Pirate to Perfect Cell. I felt he lacked the skill to stir things up. The first interview was fine and good to read. Thanks.
