Thread: A botting section

Bots have always been popular, and always will be. Whether you are a Chinese gold farmer, a lazy teenager, or someone who just needs help with an objective that's repetitive. Due to the popularity of online botting programs for MMOs I believe a section should be introduced into Computer and Online Gaming as a sub category or into HF Gamers zone as a stand alone category.

I don't see why this is needed. It is much better if each bot for each game is in the said games' section and not all of the bots, for different purposes are in the same section.

This section would be completely random then, and produce terrible quality threads. Each of these botting threads already have a sub-forum where they fit in. It shouldn't be changed.

There is are literally whole websites dedicated to botting, I think you should go there

Id like a botting section. I support it :)

It wouldn't all be put into one massive section I hope. I think it would be a good idea if there was a sub-forum in Gamine or Computing and then different sections within that one for each game. With new sections introduced as needed.
