Rackzen - July 22, 2013, 7:37 pm

Hi people , in this thread i will share with you a Website Scanner , it's very very usefull .

Acunetix - Web Vulnerability Scanner

Why i use it? Because it search all vulnerabilities on website and you can see (some) hidden pages . :)

Some Pics.

1st -LOL , are u kidding? I'm just sharing with hackforums members , because some people , maybe dont know about acunetix.

2nd - You speak too much so find hidden pages on website without programs..

3rd - No , this isn't sad . It's simple if you dont like it just ignore.

Thanks :)

(Jul 23, 2013 10:34 AM)vehla Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So, you are implying that the people who use programs aren't hacker? ?That all depends on your definition of hacker. Besides, most people come here to learn how to hack, and this program is easy to learn to start with, the true problem is that most people never bother trying to do it without the programs. Besides, if you can actually code one of these, it doesn't matter whether you use it or not.

One of the most ignorant comments I've seen on this forum so far. Regardless of whether you have the knowledge to actually attack a website or not, using tools is far more efficient than doing things manually (In most cases.) What would you rather do, spend 5 minutes manually injecting to grab a database/table/column or would you rather have a tool do it for you in seconds?

OT: Acunetix is a very useful and versatile tool. Regardless of whether you claim to be a "1337 blackhat hacker" or not, it's a very useful asset.

Everyone here really should know about this.

But in the case that they don't it is a useful tool.

Be advised it is noisy and makes it very obvious what you are scanning with.

Don't use this if you are trying to be stealthy.
