Decent tut but too much for something like this for nice HQ eyes in a few seconds all you need to do is

Hue/Saturation>color eyes you want
Color it all in black to remove the saturation>
Get a white brush in color in the eyes

If it doesn't look right double click on the gradient and feather it a bit

this also works very well for things like make-up

I was fooling around with this after I posted the comment anyways, your method works better in some cases anyways.

I was wondering if i could do this with an anime girl render?

Because the result should be the same right?

Or you can use a soft brush and color it in and make it as an overlay.
