Looks okay but you'll have a hard time gaining sales when the only people that would purchase this are those without public obfuscation techniques.

Why should we pick you over already established, long term and well known dealers. Example;
Scan4You

Not trashing, just wondering why you picked a project in this field, doesn't seem like their is much of a market left to capture.

Good question.

1. Scan4You support is near in-existent.
2. Scan4You offers 35 AV engines, we offer 37.
3. The site is better looking than S4Y ;)
4. It's home grown (hf).

Because people who spends money on crypting their files (not with shitty hf crypters) does not want to risk their file getting distrubuted. People pay $30+ for a crypt, and its not like they shit money, therefore they want to make sure that it does not distrubute. By just claiming it doesnt distribute doesnt mean it does not. There needs to be some kind of proof.

Do you have scan watch? If so i can give you a file to scan, a file i will not spread, if it gets detected then it means that your provider distributes files.

We do not have scan watch at the moment. But i would never risk my reputation and time to deliver a service that is based on lies. The scanner does not distribute files and that is a guarantee.

Since a lot of people want to know, we use Scan4You with 3 additional AV Engines.

That's not how it works actually. If the file you give them is crypted by someone who gives the same crypt to other people, if one of the other ones gets detected, yours will be as well. That's if the stub has the same or similar code patterns.

And $30 crypts are ofcourse unique with 100% diffrent stubs. Therefore if some one elses crypt gets detected yours wont. HF crypters are diffrent though, as they use the same method in all their stub even though in the end the file is 99% diffrent.

And as you said, its if the stub has same or similar code patterns.

I am going to take a look, but like many other scanners, does your support 1-2 free scans per day per member (per IP)? Also are there any plans for future AV's to be added? Just asking because many scanners have 1 free per day and also the one i currently use has 42 AV's.

It looks nice! I might start using it more since many other scanners are slow and occasionally are blocked by my AV. Also I am loving the price for yours!

We offer 1 free scan a day per member per IP. We might offer more as the site gets more popular. We do plan on adding more AVs as the site gets more popular, but before that we need to secure a good customer base.

We're looking forward to your custom mate :)
