Why choose us?

We choose quality over quantity. We prefer long fud periods for our customers rather than refunds every week with a potential loss of servers, thus only a limited number of licenses will be active at a given time.

Updates:

- ReFud
- Completely different method
- Improved USG
- Added Icon feature
- Added AssemblyInfo feature
- Added Anti-VirtualMachine
- Added Startup (in beta mode)
- Added Scanner
- Changed the GUI

Yes works on all rats.

There are pictures in the OP.

I will make a video tomorrow showing the crypter etc.

We are adding anonscanner to our crypter so you can scan your files on the crypter.

The crypter is coded in vb.net the stub is in C#

Sander070NLD - August 24, 2013, 4:46 am

What's the stub size? Also does it have dependencies

În??DiOuS - August 24, 2013, 4:53 am

the stub size depends on the crypted file

It has .net dependencies

you can choose from .net 2 to .net 4

The gui is better and more organized than most of products in the market.

We also dont add in the gui unnecessary functions like, obfuscation, key builder, junk code ect... those are all included and automatically generated/calculated depending on the file you are crypting to ensure long fud times.

Recrypt your file, the Ikarus detection comes up randomly (pm me if you need help). Also the vbc error is because the .net 4 option has been temporarily disabled (read the news), choose .net 2 and should work fine.

Spoiler (Click to View)

Firef4rt - August 31, 2013, 11:18 am

The Update with the .Net 4 disable was published after my post :) and 10 hours beforeÎn??DiOuS give my the advice to use the .net 4 support in the crypter for his miner.

But now after update, crypting the miner file abort due to a error "arithmetic overflow"

Problem has been solved byÎn??DiOuS , the Miner Builder has been updated too.
We have made a working test miner that works on my PC. To make it IKARUS FUD too, I have crypted the file again. After that, it isn't work on my pc anymore. It crashes instantly without any Error message
