Thread: Writ3rs- Wiki team - Re-Recruiting.

Viral Dragon - August 29, 2013, 5:25 pm

RequirementsMust be Ub3r

Must have 100+ prestige

Must not have any warning level

No spam or LQ (low quality) posts

Must have excellent grammar

If you are posting an application you must meet the requirements. Those who do not meet the requirements will be denied. Please don't PM the leaders about your application. You may ask questions only if they don't pertain to your acceptance.

The only true requirement is the Ub3r. Everything else is more or less guidelines that I say are requirements.

What does the Wiki team do?

The HF Wiki Team is a group of members that work as a team to create and manage the official HF Wiki to help new users and even existing users to better understand HackForums and how we work as a community. We will publish exclusive content from time to time along with news pertaining to HackForums. The Wiki team also assists with the Help Docs on HackForums.

Userbar

Leaders/Important Roles.

Viral Dragon - Head leader.

Ethereal - Co-Leader.

Writers

These members will work as a team to create pages and write the content that will be posted on the official wiki.

Important NotesIf you have any questions in regards to recruitment or the Wiki Team you may PM Ethereal or Myself.

Those accepted will be contacted once recruitment is over.

Applications are the only thing that should be posted in this thread.

Questions can be PMed to Ethereal or myself.

Application Code

Code [b]What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?[/b]

[b]Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?[/b]

And finally you are required to write a short example article you think would go in the HF Wiki.

Code Example Article Written here in code.

Update:

To ALL applicants and NON applicants. I am re-opening this thread and allowing recruitment to continue onward. I'm hoping to find at least 1-2 more people from this recruitment. One person has made it through and I have my eye on one more person. If you have already applied and wish to reapply, feel free. If you do reapply then you MUST re-post the application.

However things I look for mostly:

- > Grammar, Spelling and in general usage of the English syntax.
- > Formatting.
- > Accuracy.
- > Formality (1st, 2nd, and 3rd person writing)
- > Article style

Among other things. I don't want people really knowing the full on criteria I use to judge applicants.

Please don't apply just for the userbar. I see what the Wiki Writ3rs do and it isn't easy. If accepted you'll need to do work-- don't think anything less. Nevertheless, good luck to anyone that applies.

Penar - August 29, 2013, 5:28 pm

Well, we will see who has and doesn't have what it takes to be a Writ3r. Good luck, y'all

Mastery - August 29, 2013, 5:28 pm

I'd love to apply! I honestly don't think I'm the best writer but who knows! Good luck to all.

Raptor. - August 29, 2013, 5:29 pm

I had the last application post on the old thread. I'm not sure if I should repost here or if I was denied. Should I just repost it?

Time Zone:GMT + 10.

Do you have any experience with MediaWiki or any other wiki software?I don't have any experience with any wiki software, but I'm able and willing to learn any new skills required.

What, if any, wikis have you worked on?I've never worked on a wiki before, and I understand that will probably significantly diminish my chances of being accepted into the wiki team, but as I said, I'm happy to learn any new skills required, and hopefully my writing skills are the main requirement of joining the team.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?I enjoy writing, and I have enough spare time for the wiki team to not seriously dent my social life, so I feel as though this endeavour could only aid in my knowledge of HackForums and the skillset required when writing. I enjoy writing because it allows me to convey my thoughts, opinions or knowledge to others in a medium that doesn't require any artistic talent. I want to join the wiki team specifically because I feel as though it would not only benefit the community present on this site, but would also give me something enjoyable to work on in my spare time.

How willing are you to work together as a team? I'm happy to work with a team as long as the members are willing to be polite and reasonable. I'm happy to communicate with others and complete group tasks, and aid them in whatever is required. I get on well with most people and am generally easy to talk to and non-judgemental if people have issues or need something sorted out.

Do you procrastinate often in your schoolwork? Be honest. I don't procrastinate in my schoolwork at all, I would rather have the work at a rough draft stage early on, and be able to tweak it up until the deadline, or until it satisfies my expectations and personal quality control. I used to procrastinate often when it came to homework, but after having to pull several all-night homework marathons, I no longer leave it to the last minute.

Thanks for considering my application, and good luck to all other applicants. The Writ3rs group is definitely where you want to be if you want to aid the site in your own small way. [/align]

Code Thomas Leo Clancy Jr, more commonly known as Tom Clancy, born on the 12th of April 1947, is a critically renowned author, who is best known for his book series that have had video-game adaptations created. Clancy is well known for writing novels with a military, particularly stealth or espionage, perspective to them. Clancy has received many distinctions and accolades, and was the author of the highest selling novel of the 1980s (Clear and Present Danger, 1989), as well as being one of only three authors during the 1990s to sell at least two million copies of a first printing novel. On top of these achievements, he has also been bestowed with many awards to commend his writing abilities.

Clancy married his current wife, Alexandra Marie Llewellyn, who worked as a freelance journalist, on June 26, 1999, five months after finalising the divorce from his first wife, whom he married in 1969. Clancy was a part of the initial investor team that purchased the Orioles baseball team. He also planned to purchase the Minnesota Vikings, but in 1998, the costs of divorcing his first wife drove him to abandon the endeavour.

To date, Clancy's EndWar, H.A.W.X., Ghost Recon Splinter Cell and Rainbow Six series have had video game adaptations, with the latest videogame in the Splinter Cell series to be released on the 20th of August, 2013 in the North America region, with later release dates for other regions. Clancy started his own video-game developing company which was bought by Ubisoft in 2000, known as Red Storm Entertainment. This company has led to the development of many of the Rainbow Six and Ghost Recon games, as well as the notable development of Far Cry 3 on both consoles and PC.

Clancy faced some controversy when he was noted as saying that the 9/11 terrorist attacks on the twin towers were, in his opinion, partly due to left-wing politicians in America "gutting" the Central Intelligence Agency's funding. Clancy, during this time also gave many contentious interviews due to the plots of one of his books, Debt of Honor, having a strong resemblance to the 9/11 attacks.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

At this time, I haven't worked on any Wiki's, but my experience in writing short stories for old forums and articles about gaming, emotions, life, and support for the common man can make up for this. I have worked on several small scale forum sites, some as the head writer, other as what they called a "learner".

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

My love for writing struck me at the young age of eleven, my father, currently wrote and published his first book revolving around mixing and producing records. My inspiration sparked and I had started on my own "novel". The short series I had started writing was completely fiction and really didn't have an overall plot or narration, rather just silly non-sensical writing to please the active imagination of a child. As I progressed further in my education I hit high school, or the dismantlement of my social life. Honors English was my main focus for freshman and sophomore years, I moved forward as a writer and learned much needed styles and transitions to make my writing flow at a professional level. The difficulty of it struck me during my Junior year just starting my first AP English course(Advanced Placement or college level). The teacher was one to embarrass students who "didn't belong" in her class, but highly complimented anyone who impressed her. Having such a love for writing, I hit her good side right away, unfortunately the meant I was expected more highly of. This pushed me as a writer and really gave me the direction I wanted to go. In all, I really have grown an attaching love for writing, how the emotions soar on every word the comes to mind, the love twinkles every second I stay writing. This is why I would like to join the wiki team.

Sample Article:

Hackforums, a site containing some of the most subliminal minds in the history of what we know today, is the one of the largest MyBB forums around the inter webs. Inside a variety of intelligence levels and personalities lurk about. The site was first launched on May 2nd, 2007, at the time no one knew the bright future held at this sites disposal. Starting as a small forum, high quality members brought this forum to light as friends start inviting others to join, the site is growing at a highly increasing rate.

Today Hackforums holds over two hundred thousand members creating more than eight hundred thousand threads from topics ranging gaming to computer science to hacking to human manipulation to news and just the common discussion about life. All these people are brought together by one common love, their computers. The knowledge shared containing computer information around this site is outstanding. Sitting here today and looking back to the 1960's, none of this looked even possible, but here we have it. As a writer and enthusiast, I am excited for what the future holds.

muzzy. - August 30, 2013, 2:00 am

My application for the last thread can be found here :)

+Reckless - August 30, 2013, 2:17 am

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on? I have worked on the HF Wiki. I was part of the group before and wrote 3 or 4 articles. Due to inactivity I was kicked. That will not happen again should I be accepted. I have also worked on various wiki's for minecraft servers.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? I would like to join the HF Wiki Team because I feel it will allow me to contribute to HF in a more positive way. It will allow me to gain more knowledge of the forum while helping others to do so too. I will also be able to improve my skills and understanding of the forum.

My article is from the last thread. If this is a problem please PM me and I will write a new one.
Code The hackforums deal dispute database was added towards the end of 2012, the idea behind it was to make it easier to do a variety of things todo with scamming. It would be easier too search for people who had been reported of scamming or who had been scammed. One key thing to note is that it is not a database of scammers, but a database of disputes. The main reason for having the tool is to make it faster, safer and easier to search for those accused of scamming. The database is currently only available for upgraded members so that it does not get abused.

There are currently five forms to fill in when adding a dispute which are:

- Deal Dispute Thread Link
- User Profile Link
- Amount Disputed
- Payment Method
- Note

Once the complaint has been made it is viewable to anyone who searches for any of the involved accounts in the database. It is a requirement that you must also create a thread in the deal dispute section explaining what has happened.

I also did an unrelated article to show my writing skills:

Code There where many reasons why WWI broke out, in this short article I will explain some of the most well-known reasons and some of my personal opinions.

the first reason that WWI broke out was because of nationalism, nationalism is a political keyword. It is the act of when a country has a political view that your country is great, it is also when you believe strongly in nations and nation like things, such as the army and navy. Finally, it is the feeling of oneness among people of a certain country. The reason that this could be a reason to WWI starting is because it meant that countries would get very overconfident and start to invest a lot of time and money into the navy, army and air force, we see this when Germany improved their navy greatly, this struck fear into England because, although they had a bigger navy, they had an empire to protect where Germany could focus their navy in one place.

The next reason that WWI broke out was because of allies and the problems in the Balkans. An alliance is when two or more countries get together and agree to work together. Leaders of countries often want to form alliances because it will make it easier to gather and share resources, it also means that there are fewer enemies to deal with. Allies can cause war because other countries may feel threatened and become scared of each other this could cause retaliation with war.

The problem in the Balkans was that everyone wanted control of them but they wanted Independence. Austria-Hungary wanted the Balkans as part of their empire because they feared a strong Serbia. Russia were a largely Slav country and saw themselves as the 'Protector' of the Balkans. Turkey did already have control, though it was weak, they wanted to maintain it.

The Balkans themselves just wanted to be left alone and to have independence. This could lead to war because all the countries involved had allies and there was always a fear of war if one country was to attack and try to gain control of the Balkans.

The last reason why I think WWI started was because of the murder of Franz Ferdinand, Franz was a Turkish heir to the throne of the Balkans. This is what is known as the trigger, or what sparked the war. Franz Ferdinand was murdered by the Black hand gang by command of the Serbian leader 'The Bee' weapons were provided and the members of the gang were set with the task of killing Franz and then themselves. They succeeded. When it was discovered that the weapons had been provided by the Serbian government war broke out.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on? I have never worked on a Wiki before. I currently run a review site but would rather not disclose it here for privacy reasons.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? I wish to join the Hack Forums Wiki team because I want to help the community and I think it would be nice to get to know some more members. I also highly enjoy writing as you might be able to tell seeing as I used to run the HF Daily News.

Code Viral Dragon is one of the leaders of the WRIT3RS usergroup together with Sir, the head of the Hack Forums news and Ethereal, Viral Dragon's right hand man. He also leads Reviewers, the official Hack Forums review group and Complexity.

Viral dragon is the head of the Hack Forums Wiki team. He joined in September of 2008 and is currently an Ub3r member with over six thousand five hundred posts and seven hundred reputation. He is 22 years old and is currently married to iceybunneh.

He is currently working on creating an MMORPG called The Hallow Life, if you are interested in playing the beta of the game or even helping him to develop it I suggest you have a look at the [\[\[http://thehallowlife.com website\]\]](http://thehallowlife.com). . He recently suffered from Acute Pneumonia and had to go to hospital for a few months, giving up his leadership positions. He is also going to a cooking school. Viral Dragon won Member of the month in April 2012 after being nominated several times but never winning. He is a web designer and offers multiple internet related services such as search engine optimisation and website designing. He currently holds the record for most time spent online, and at over a year, that's pretty hard to beat. That's even more than [\https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=1 ">Omniscient]

I would also like to say that if Viral Dragon gives me some more information about him I will add it to my sample article.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

None, because I haven't had any interest in working on any wiki's in the past. However, a HackForums wiki would be somewhat intriguing to work on.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

The answer to this question is simple. Aside from the fact that this group is looked at by most users as a very prestigious group to be apart of, not to mention various members apart of the Writ3rs are well known and recognized because of their contributions, I would love to work with you above all other reasons. Writing comes naturally to me and is a skillset that I enjoy practicing daily. I enjoy putting forth effort into philosophical writings and writing in general as well. I spend hours at a time losing myself into my writings, not knowing where the time had left me. I believe I have nearly flawless grammar, which I've improved so much over the past 3 years. I tend to always be active on the forum, always willing to talk to new users and to get to know fellow members of whatever group I may be apart of; the same goes for members in groups that I have never been apart of at all. I am somewhat headstrong when someone tries to disprove something I have stated or disrespect me in some way, shape or form. That goes for anyone. Aside from that personality trait, I am a very loyal member -- to a group that is of interest to me. I am dedicated and willing to succeed at any cost if I believe in the group and their cause. I stick with my groups through thick and thin. In all honesty, I have been waiting for a group like this to open up for recruitment due to my writing interest. My only other option would have been Void, as I enjoy philosophical writings substantially.

Instead of copying and pasting a writing of mine, I will start from scratch with writing about you, Viral Dragon. I hope you enjoy my article. ?

Quote: Viral Dragon, from what I have deduced after examining his profile, seems to be a very dedicated member to HackForums. Judging from his time spent online, which is currently at, "1 Year, 2 Months, 1 Day, 23 Hours, 54 Minutes, 54 Seconds" according to his profile page, shows that he spends much of his time online and on HackForums.

Seeing that he has been a leader of various groups both recently and in the past which include Complexity, Reviewers, Writ3rs (of course), and Eminence, this shows that he is an immensely responsible, reliable, and admirable group leader. After inspecting his recent threads, Viral Dragon seems to also be a past Infamous brother; not only do his recent threads show he was a dedicated member of Infamous, but also his various threads in the very beginning of Infamous created to teach fellow brothers a variety of skills show he is not the average HackForums user.

As for the Writ3rs, it seems that as the head leader of this group, he has a very nice selection of members -- with no favoritism taking place, nor do there seem to be any members added simply because they are friends with Viral Dragon; this shows that friendship does not effect his group, yet another reason why he is a very fit leader for any group based on these observations.

After viewing Viral's negative reputation, I can safely say it seems that most, if not all of his negative reputations are simply out of jealousy or hate; that, or they are out of idiocy, according to one negative reputation on him stated by Shades, "The lowest quality member I have ever seen on this forum. My opinion of him is that he is ignorant and infantile. I really dislike this member, I don't think I've ever met anyone so egotistical, self-centered, and idiotic. You are a disgrace to HF." Despite this users claims, he gave no reasoning behind this reputation, which will be viewed like any other random negative reputation until further reasoning behind the reputation given (if any reasoning or evidence behind why he believes Viral Dragon is "idiotic" is given at all).

Viral Dragon looks like an exceedingly unbiased member, which is a quality that is very scarce to find on this forum anymore. He has no favorites. He judges his group members not by how close of a friend they are or how oftenly they speak to him or post under the subforum, but based off of my examination of his account, it is about the quality of their posts.

Thank you for giving me the opportunity, I appreciate it.

English being a second language does not bar you from the group, so long as you are confident in your communication and writing, and we approve your application.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

My friend Darwin and I created a fan-made Naruto (Anime) wiki page and I wrote tons and tons of articles about characters, theories, attacks, weapons and more. In the wiki I provided links, images, videos, sources and had excellent grammar on the pages I worked on. Sadly it was taken down as my friend had to continue with college and wasn't able to pay for hosting, and I as well did not have time to work on it but now I am back and ready to work as much as I can.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

I love the Hackforums community, and I want to help members, new and old, gain information on features and topics relating to hackforums. I want to write things that will be seen by my community. I want to write things that will be acknowledged by my community, and mostly, I wanna write things that will help my community. That's why I want to join the HF Wiki team, I am always seeking ways to support HF and I know this is one of them, so I'm taking that chance and applying to join the Writ3rs to write new pages about new features, people and more. I will talk with the community which I admire, I will cooperate with them and think of new ideas for the Wiki as well as assist them with whatever they need.

Example Article

So I have created an example article, but I don't like to do the ordinary, just what every other member did. I like to do more than that so I made a Wiki page for it too and I will provide both below!

Code Hackforums - Gauth

Gauth or Google Authentication is the new Hackforums feature which is still currently in beta and is being worked on by Omniscient but is available for all UB3R members of Hackforums. This can be accessed at <https://hackforums.net/gauth.php>

What Is Gauth?

Gauth is a security feature for UB3R members of Hackforums meant to give users a chance to login without needing password or email access, this is done with the scanning of unique QR codes and the codes being saved to Google Authenticator which works with the HF Gauth feature to save the QR code and gives you the ability to scan the code and enter the key given from the Google Authenticator application into HackForums to gain access to your account. More information on how to use Gauth will appear later on.

How to Use Gauth

Here I will provide a step by step tutorial on how to configure and use Gauth successfully, this tutorial will also provide pictures to help you achieve full understanding of the feature and how to use it to your best capability

Requirements

Google Authenticator Mobile App (Android, IOS and Blackberry Compatable)
An UB3R Hackforums Account
A Mobile Device with a Camera for scanning

Guide

Go to <https://hackforums.net/gauth.php> and you should see this:

Open Google Authenticator on your mobile device

Tap the small "+" icon on the bottom right corner of the application

Click "Scan Barcode"

Scan the barcode and make sure it is alligned, once correctly scanned it will automatically exit the scanner

You should have a code that says "HackForums" underneath that, that means you have correctly scanned it.

Enter the code on the HackForums Gauth page.

You shuold have this message: "Success. Your Gauth code is now activated"

Extra Features

You can now visit Gauth and you are able to test the code if it is working and you should get messages like "Valid Code" and "Invalid Code". You can also Clear/Reset the code if you want to change something or remove the Gauth feature

Benefits of the Gauth Feature

The Gauth feature provides many benefits and bring just another reason to upgrade to UB3R to the table. This feature gives you security and prevents hackers from gaining full access to your account unless they come to your house and steal your mobile device which has a very low possibility of actually happening. If a hacker gets access to your password, and your email's password, you can use your mobile device and Google Authenticator to get a new password or change the email to another one, then change your email password and account password for safety reasons.

Thank you for reading my application, hope I am considered and I promise you will not regret it! Normally I would be thinking, I can't apply, I don't have enough prestige, but sometimes you want something really badly, you may not be able to work for it in one area (prestige) so you push it as hard as you can in another (application). I am really hoping you can consider my prestige and understand I am a very hard worker, thanks!

You can also find my previous application here, it is different than this one:

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

I'm going to be honest; I have not worked on any wiki's throughout my period on the internet. That is why I am applying for Writ3rs, I look forward to new things, and I latch onto them easily.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

I'd like to join Writ3rs for the reason that it seems like something thought-provoking to do. I'm a much matured user, and I get along well with other workers. English is not my principal language, but I always love to put pen to paper. Whether it is in Spanish, English, or occasionally Dutch, I continuously write limericks to get my mind off of things. I try not to focus on the vetoes, but the positives. I love to transcribe, in my honest opinion it is one of the greatest things to do.

I feel that I am the right individual for this position because of my experience, my behavior, and my education. I have the determination and necessary skills for this asset. My attitude and will power references will tell you that I am dependable, a tough worker, and easy to work with. I am enormously overwhelmed with Writ3rs and would feel privileged to be a part of the group.

Myself being a college apprentice, it includes a ton of writing, but I relish it, and constantly take pride in my work. I'm outgoing to a certain degree, and I like to try different things. Writing a wiki is undeniably new to me, bearing in mind that I have never done so before. I honorably think being accepted to the group (we could only pray) would value me in several ways. I think it would help me learn more English expressions, additional terms and everything of that category, but not only that it can correspondingly help me learn to write wiki's. I'm a committed user, and always ready to learn anything. Every time I start on something I am concentrated on my work, and I do not stop until I finish the project that I am working on. When I'm working on something, I always try my hardest, unlike many people. I believe in the saying, "Go big, or go home", and I always choose to "go big".

Example Article:

Code [\[url=https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004\]](https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004)Iceybunneh[\[/url\]](#), also known as the "Innuendo Queen", has recently reached a total of a whopping 4,000 posts in the [\[url=https://hackforums.net/forumdisplay.php?fid=180\]](https://hackforums.net/forumdisplay.php?fid=180)Innuendo Section[\[/url\]](#); it's quite incredible seeing as she devotes her time into helping other users with their sexual problems. As far as I have researched, she is the most active user in the [\[url=https://hackforums.net/forumdisplay.php?fid=180\]](https://hackforums.net/forumdisplay.php?fid=180)Innuendo[\[/url\]](#) category of the forum, as of now. Certainly, I can see her continuing to post actively in the section as she already does. With all of that being said, there's an important factor that comes with posting. As you can tell, she has been an avid member of the official Hackforums group, known as the [\[url=https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3723637\]](https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3723637)Writ3rs[/url]". As far as I could tell, her grammar is flawless, containing no errors whatsoever. Every post she makes, she puts 100% effort into it, and makes sure that it is as high quality as possible.

[\[url=https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004\]](https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004)Iceybunneh[/url] is a very special user to the community. Not only is she one of the most high quality user's forum wide, but she is also one of the most helpful members I have ever heard about, or have done research on.

Approximately 60% of [\[url=https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004\]](https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004)Icey's[/url] posts are contained in the [\[url=https://hackforums.net/forumdisplay.php?fid=180\]](https://hackforums.net/forumdisplay.php?fid=180)Innuendo Section[/url]. Honestly, if that does not give an image in your head, and show's to you how much time, effort, and dedication she puts into her posts, and her activity, I do not know what will. Looking around at her posts, you can obviously tell that she is a kind user, and always willing to help any user that requests it. Whenever I "interviewed her", I asked her the following question; "Could you please explain to me how you are so dedicated to the Innuendo Section, and what keeps you motivated to help users," she simply replied back with the most straight forward answer you could ask for. Her answer to my question was; "I was trying to find a place on HF where I "fit in," if that makes sense. Like, I didn't know enough about hacking sections to post confidently, but relationships have been some I know. I've had a few relationships, but they were all long-term and with my current marriage, I get a different insight. I'm kind of a sap though; Like, if I see a guy who can't talk to a girl, there are simple solutions (well, simple that I see) that he can do. So I try to nudge him in the right way. Sometimes it works, and it's a good feeling to know that I've helped. Plus, a lot of bad information gets passed around when the trolls post, so setting the record straight may be necessary." In my opinion, you could not get a clearer answer, than what she stated. Everyone should most definitely show their respect to her as she is one of a kind, and definitely a unique, kind user. Usually you do not find users like this roaming the forum, dedicating their time to helping people with real life problems. To top off her kindness, is the majority of the time, she actually succeeds in her quest to help the user, and give them straight forward advice on what to do. When you are around [\[url=https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004\]](https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004)Icey[/url], you can feel comfortable with yourself, and if you're talking to her you can ask her any type of Innuendo related question, and she'll reply with a 100% accurate answer that will most definitely help you out.

To sum this article about

[\[url=https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004\]](https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004)Iceybunneh[/url] up, I'm going to write a paragraph about her, and how I feel about her dedication to Hackforums, and helping the users. [\[url=https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004\]](https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004)Iceybunneh[/url] is obviously an extremely high quality user that does not get enough attention for her actions. She devotes her time into the forum, and assisting users the require help with sexual related problems. She's very kind and willing to do anything for you. I hope I can get to know her better, and if I do, I really look forward to it, as I guarantee anyone would. Her grammar is superb, and I have not seen a single post that she has submitted that has contained a grammatical flaw. Finally for the final conclusion, we can all say that [\[url=https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004\]](https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=620004)Iceybunneh[/url] deserves more respect, and more attention than what she is currently getting.

I also wrote a personal Wiki article on my personal life.

Code My name is Josh, and I was born on the 26th of March, in the year of 1994. I weighed 8/5 pounds, but I do not recall my length. My father and mother separated whenever I was roughly 4 years of age which was tremendously devastating. When I was a small child, I hardly had a clue what was going on, so it did not really matter to me, but whenever I started to grow up, it started to kick in, and realized that I did not have a father to bond with. My mom was always suffering from illnesses, such as; cancer, pneumonia, fevers and so many more. It honestly broke my heart, coughing non-stop, and she could not do anything about it. She worked 3 jobs, just to support me. My mom was my life she was everything to me. Her main priority in life was to make sure I stayed in good physical shape, and had a good education so I could go to college.

Elementary school was definitely one of the most pointless times in my life. I was a brilliant child, so elementary school was ultimately useless to me, considering that I did not learn anything. My mom continued to get sick, and I believe that she got worse every day of her life. Whenever I came home from school every day, I remember going into my room and crying for hours because I didn't want her to pass away. She always told me not to worry about her, and just focus on my life goals. My mother is definitely the strongest person I had ever known. She fought through cancer, pneumonia, several fevers, and so on.

Middle school was definitely not any better than elementary school. Every day I walked through the doors I got made fun of, non-stop. I was morbidly obese, extremely unattractive, shy, and self-conscious. I always went into the bathroom stalls after every class and cry until the next class started just to let all of my emotions out. Fortunately I never got caught crying by any of the students, but if I did, I know school would be even more terrible than it already was. Crying honestly helped me a lot, considering I was able to let my emotions out. After my first year of middle school, things continued to get worse, and worse, and worse until I could not take it anymore. I walk angrily into the cafeteria, went up to the people that were bullying me and screamed in their face. I don't quite remember what I said, but I remember it actually helping somewhat. My 3rd year was probably my favorite, and my best year. My attitude for the whole year was an attitude that resembles not giving a fuck what anyone says about you. I was self-confident, and I can proudly say that confidence will get you very far in life. I graduated out of my middle school, 2nd, or 3rd out of the whole school. Graduating that high out of a school with close to 1,000 students made me very proud.

High school is a terrifying moment for everyone in life. Sometimes you may get bullied, and some time you may be bullying. In my case however, I was the one getting bullied. I transferred to a different district, which means I had to go to a different high school than my childhood friends. It was pretty tough, but I eventually got passed it. I was once again being bullied, but the bullying eventually stopped whenever I started working out and playing sports. I switched my life around, using my marketing money to buy memberships at the local gym to train. I did very well academically, and sports wise. I won the "Player of the Year Award" for baseball, out of the whole country of Netherlands. It was definitely the greatest moment of my life, and I'll never forget it. That was definitely a turning point for my life. I was starting to become well respected, and known all over the country. High school flew by I did extremely well academically and sports wise all of my years there.

I got a scholarship for baseball to a college in Spain, and going to Spain for baseball has definitely been one of my best decisions I have ever made before. Spain is extremely far away from Netherlands, but I always keep in touch with my friends back home. One day when I was at baseball practice, I got a phone call from the hospital my mother was staying at. Whenever I answered my phone, I heard the most devastating news I've ever received in my whole life. Whenever the doctor told me my mother passed away, my heart felt like it sunk to the bottom of my stomach. I felt like I was going to die, and overall terrible. I started to regret living my life anymore, and had extreme suicidal thoughts. I eventually got passed that, and continued my baseball career, and still currently am training to become one of the best baseball players in Spain.

I wrote an article on Judge Dredd seeing as I was bored..

Code Judge Dredd is a member of staff on Hack Forums. He used to be an Administrator however decided to resign. He was later added back as a member of Staff.

He was made an Admin in 2008 and was for roughly 5 years, resigning in 2013. As an Admin he was in charge of reputation abuse and had his own sub-forum where members would post if they received an invalid rep. He also used to be in charge of Member of the month but stopped in March 2013 and giving the position to the ex-staff member Genuine.

He is currently a member of 2 official groups, Infamous, and Void, leader of Empire and the owner of Complexity. He is one of Omniscient's real life friends and is currently in a relationship with bugga. Confirmation required. --> an ex-staff member.

Judge Dredd is slightly inactive at the time of writing this article. He recently sold his Quazz star to Anonymous, the owner of Legion and Illuminati, for over $800, leaving him with 8 awards. Omni is one of the hardest people to write about.

I tried but couldn't do it.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on? I've edited a lot of articles on the Runescape wiki, as well as a few pages on One Piece Wiki. I haven't been entirely involved with it however, just changed things that I noticed were either incorrect, or not sited correctly.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? As I get more and more involved in the community, I feel there is always a place to jump in and learn. I feel contributing to the HF Wiki will help me learn, as well as help other members out in the future by sharing knowledge.

People come to HF to learn, and stay for many different reasons, for me it was the people. Most HF members are genuine, open and honest, and friendly; but most importantly, they're helpful. I couldn't think of a better way to help out HF then joining the wiki team ?

The group was founded August 7th, 2012 around 3 AM central time. The name 'The Empire' was originally thought up by the original Leadership team with the members 630, Hades, Tibit, & Detroit. The usergroup is identified by the famous Empire Horse symbolizing superiority, wisdom, knowledge, freedom, strength, and beauty.

The group has a wide variety of topics, specifically discussions about recent events, news, and opinions; the Empire also takes parts in many debates within the subforum. Out of the subforum there are many tutorials, giveaways, and products in the name of the Empire. Empire was also the first group to have a stresser in it's name, being the Empire Stresser.

these will be January, May, and September. Luckily you have a chance to apply now by filling out the application [url=https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3731357]here[/url]. Empire takes pride in their members, and want the best to represent the group.[size=xx-small][4]/size]

Just like any old group, The Empire has had many leaders. Originally it started with the Founder, and current owner [url=https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=651337][b]Tibit[/b]/[url]. From then, the Empire has gone through quite a few leaders:

[url=https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=920387][b>Hades[/b]/[url]. [size=xx-small][5]/size]

The future for the Empire is unknown. It will become a lot more active in the subforum, as well as activity out of the subforum, possibly creating help desks, tutorials, giveaways, products, and one on one help.[size=xx-small][6]/size] As it stands now, Empire is one of the biggest contributors to the site, yet continues to improve.

Only some odd 5 days to go guys. And then this recruitment ends. You should hurry. Everyone who is accepted will be added within 3 days after recruitment.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on? I have not worked on any wiki's, but we all have to start somewhere...right?

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? I think it would help me in my inspiration to begin writing and bring out my creative side. I also look up to the Writ3rs and it would be an honor to take part of the group and share my (growing) talent to the rest of the forum through the wiki.

Code The 'Gift' award is the most recent award added on June 25th, 2013, and has no significant meaning other than a gift from one person to another. It is currently the only award that you can buy for another member besides awards related to upgrades. If you do not want to buy it for someone else or have no one else to give it to;" You can buy it also for yourself just in case you don't have any friends." Omniscient says as he describes the award in the Help Documents[url=https://hackforums.net/misc.php?action=help&hid=9]here[/url]. When you receive the award, the description will say "A gift from" followed by the member that bought you the award, or also "You bought yourself a gift." if you happened to pay for the award yourself. This award does not count as a donation award, so it will not stack up if you are trying to get $500 total for the Master Donator award. If you are feeling extra generous, you can buy a gift award for a variety of members, but each member may only have one of these awards each.

Thanks for the applications guys. If you're accepted you'll find out via PM to advance to stage 2. Do not PM me about your application or you're auto denied. Give me at least 5-7 days to process all the applications.

Thanks, and recruitment is now closed.

Viral Dragon - September 26, 2013, 12:07 am

To ALL applicants and NON applicants. I am re-opening this thread and allowing recruitment to continue onward. I'm hoping to find at least 1-2 more people from this recruitment. One person has made it through and I have my eye on more person. If you have already applied and wish to reapply, feel free. If you do reapply then you MUST re-post the application.

However things I look for mostly:

- > Grammar, Spelling and in general usage of the English syntax.
- > Formatting.
- > Accuracy.
- > Formality (1st, 2nd, and 3rd person writing)
- > Article style

Among other things. I don't want people really knowing the full on criteria I use to judge applicants.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

At this time I have not worked on any wiki sites, however my experience in writing surpasses many who may have worked on a wiki page.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

This goes back to my first month on Hackforums; I saw this group consistently posting high quality information and helping all types of members, but most importantly it consisted of writers. In order to learn about my passion for writing, we must learn about my past. My first spark of motivation came alive when I learned about science at a young age. This motivation pushed me to research further until I became intrigued with the writing styles and diction these scientists would use. Unlike most children at my age it seemed as if I was addicted to writing and learning more about the english language. At the age of five I was writing and creating my own imaginative stories as a form of entertainment. It started off as a simple hobby, but slowly evolved into a passionate love for the art of writing. To be honest, I would have given up if it wasn't for my dad's commitment to being an author. My father, at this point in time, is my biggest inspiration after writing three books revolving around his profession, music producing. Without him, my love could easily have been replaced by something not as meaningful.

As we sweep back to the first months of my presence on this forum, I found myself creating goals for the future which provoked my activity on Hackforums. One of my most prioritized goals was in fact getting accepted into the group, Writ3rs. Slowly did I discover, this goal was going to take a lot of work. In the time period of 2012-2013 was when my writing really became one of my better attributes. I worked hard in my AP english course constantly asking for ways to better my writing, a lot of times I discovered myself waking up to my computer mouse in the early morning hours. The Hackforums wiki team I feel provides a place for me to enhance my writing even further. This will be a large stepping stone in my pursuit of becoming a great writer and I hope I can take advantage of this opportunity before I run out of time.

To conclude, I have lived my life using goals and achievements in order to motivate and better myself, this is the main reason why I want to join Writ3rs. I know I can contribute fully and provide high quality articles which are written to the best of my ability. By doing this, my other goals will shed a positive light and I know they will be accomplished; for the one thing that my personality doesn't lack is determination.

Example Article:

Code Section: The Lounge

When first arriving onto the site of Hackforums, most members jump right into the lounge. The common question to this is why? The lounge is a very friendly and active environment for the new and even experienced members. It consistently provides insight, philosophical questions, and the occasional humorous tale.

After more than four years of activity, The Lounge currently has over 16,980 pages, containing more than 304,000 threads, just think about how many posts there are. Although many of threads from the Hackforums beginnings cease to exist, one of the first threads is linked here:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4673>

You may laugh at the posting quality, but believe it or not this is the kind of threads that started what we know and love today.

Back in '07-'08 days unregistered users were allowed to post in The Lounge, but as it progressed email activation and account set-up became required in order to post and share insight. Quality was also less encouraged upon back then due to the low population of users. Today users are expected to be high quality right after that email activation is complete. The changes that have occurred in the small span of over four years is incredible. As time progressed soon a subsection of The Lounge was created and is called Innuendo.

Innuendo discusses sexual hints, love help and anything in between. As activity began to pick up sets of rules needed to be put into place. One of the bigger rules that was created stopped adult content such as links, pictures and videos from being posted. This rule was one of the biggest factors that kept Innuendo a section to cherish.

To conclude, The Lounge is a place of history and new beginnings. It holds past threads that make up the very essence of the site today and without it hackforums would be a very different place. As changes happen and past memories are replaced by new ones, we as a community must always remember where we came from for memories shouldn't make us bitter rather they should make us better.

Requirements

- Must be Ub3r [img]http://officeimg.vo.msecnd.net/en-au/files/164/392/ZA001117936.gif[/img]
- Must have 100+ prestige [img]http://officeimg.vo.msecnd.net/en-au/files/164/392/ZA001117936.gif[/img]
- Must not have any warning level [img]http://officeimg.vo.msecnd.net/en-au/files/164/392/ZA001117936.gif[/img]
- No spam or LQ (low quality) posts [img]http://officeimg.vo.msecnd.net/en-au/files/164/392/ZA001117936.gif[/img]
- Must have excellent grammar [img]http://officeimg.vo.msecnd.net/en-au/files/164/392/ZA001117936.gif[/img]

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

Despite having no experience writing any wiki pages, this does not mean I am not familiar with the knowledge of the software that wiki uses. I have great punctuation and grammar skills, and whilst it may not be the best, it can be essential to writing articles for the HackForums wiki page.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

I'm hoping to put my literature and grammatical skills to better use when spending my time here on Hack Forums, to not only help out the website by writing interesting and brilliant articles, but to encourage other users to embrace the skill of punctuation and grammar.

Code Paid Sticky's, would you pay for one?

If you're hoping to advertise your forum or product in a popular section here on HackForums that will get heaps of attention? Then look no further! Of course there are alternative free ways here on HackForums to advertise such as the Website Showcase & Reviews, but if you're looking to get some real activity on your forum, or some sales of your product, then the best way is to contact Omniscient to have your advertising thread stuck in any section you want! However only if you're willing to pay the price.

Price range can be anywhere from $10-$100 and that's for only 1 week, you'll have to keep paying every week if you want it kept alive. Of course having said that, there are no guarantees that it will boost activity or sales, it's all up to you if you want to make it happen. Every paid sticky has to be approved before payment, and Omniscient always replies to every thread saying "This is a paid sticky until (end date here). HackForums does not endorse the product nor vouch for the seller. As always any deals on HF are at your own risk."

Not going to do a whole re-app. These are just a couple of articles.

Code Vitani's Mate currently holds the record of most posts on Hack Forums at over 65 thousand posts. He is an ub3r member and has 7 awards, including the rare 24k award and the rare Star award. He got the name Vitani from The Lion King II: Simba's Pride

He joined Hack Forums in February of two thousand and ten (2010) and is still a highly active member at the time of writing this article. According to him he joined because someone on Facebook was annoying him, he decided to look-up Facebook hacks to get his revenge and Hack Forums came up. After joining and posting for a bit, without finding any legitimate hacks, decided to stay.

Vitani's Mate is highly active in the Movies, TV, and Videos forum together with many gaming forums. According to him he is a huge fan of films and plays a lot of video games.

He runs an un-official group called "Team Vitani" together with Vitani. Originally Vitani thought it would be a good idea to make a group dedicated to Vitani, so they made a thread and it got roughly 600 members. After a while, Staff junked it for unknown reasons. Recently Vitani has made a new thread for team Vitani. I wrote this ages ago on the old recruitment thread but never posted it:

Code The Hack Forums Wiki is an un-official site run by [https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=23809 Viral Dragon], with his right hand men [https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=458069 Ethereal] and [https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=827711 D3xus].

Its main purpose is to help new users understand who certain people are and what certain things are. Its members are added to the Writ3rs group together with the Hack Forums News Group [https://hackforums.net/forumdisplay.php?fid=162 See here]. The Wiki team is currently recruiting new members on [https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3723637 this] thread. What, if any, wiki's have you worked on? I haven't, unfortunately. But, I've been writing a lot of reports as well as essays.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? I would love to join the HF Wiki team, to contribute to the forum. By contribute, I don't mean to give away stuff, but to give the whole Hackforums community a helping hand.

I have always been fascinated of how much work the Wiki team as well as the News team put into their work.

Example Article Written here in code.

Code Website report

Site: Hackforums.net

* = definition of word can be found at the ending.

Quick overview:

The site hackforums.net, would in any ears, sound like a forum full of illegal activities - but no. The site have strict rules against everything containing blackhat* activities, sales of dumps*, and so on. The site is a MyBB forum ran by the member, admin and owner Jesse Adam Omni,, better known as Omniscient and have been for the last 5 years. The site have been a huge succes for Jesse, and does now contain over 400.000 members, and 27.600.000 posts where over 4.700.000 posts are posted in [\[i\]one\[i\]](#) section!

From Hackforums stats page (hackforums.net/stats.php) is it stated that almost 150 members are registering pr. day on average!

You might think, what is the site actually about, if it's not about illegal activites? The site is actually splitted up in a lot of sections. First of all, they got their most famous section called "The Lounge", which is the section you can talk about anything you want to, as long as it follows the sites guidlines. Besides that, they have the following tabs: General Topics (where The Lounge is placed), Hacking, Computing, Coding, Gaming, VIP Area, Groups, Webmaster, Graphics, Marketplace, and Money.

The tabs are pretty much explaining themselves. The hacking tabs, are for anything related to hacking. Computing is related to malware, OS, and mobile OS as iOS and Android. Coding is, as the name, related to programming/coding in different languages. Gaming is about gaming, in different genres as well as games. VIP Area, is a tab for the upgraded users where they can discuss about what ever they want, as long as it follows Hackforums.nets guidelines and rules. Groups is a place where you can chat with the members inside the usergroups you are a part of, if you are a part of any, or you can apply to usergroups. Graphics is about graphical questions, help and graphic services. Marketplace is the tab for the business related guys and girls who want to earn money, by selling their product or service. The Money tab is a tab for stuff relating to PPD (Pay Per Download), CPA (Cost Per Action), cryptocurrencies and so on.

Word definitions:

[b]Blackhat: Blackhat activities are activity which happends on the dark side of the web. Black hatters are often known as hackers/crackers who breaks into a computer system with malicious intent.

[b]Dumps:[/b] Dumps is when you are in ownership of a file containing tons of logins to different sites which is not yours. Those dumps are often sold for cheap, as there's a risk of the logins to be recovered by the original owner.

D3xus' reasoning as to what provoked him to join and stay on [<https://hackforums.net> HackForums] is somewhat basic. He stays here to help users with their difficulties, and to make acquaintances. Freddy Kru?ger - October 11, 2013, 3:03 am

I'd just like to thank the wiki team for giving everyone this opportunity and if you would like any more information at all then don't hesitate to PM me.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

I haven't really worked on any wiki's but I've read a lot of them as most people have and I'm very willing to adapt my writing style to that of a wiki, I'm sure I can learn a lot from the wiki team's very talented roster of writers.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

I want to join the HF Wiki team because I think it's an opportunity for me to contribute to HF by being a part of this group and it will mostly be a learning experience to help me improve my writing by picking apart the brains of the many talented writers available in the group.

So in short joining this group will not only be an opportunity to contribute to HF no matter how little the contribution may be it's also going to be a learning experience and one I am looking forward to if I am given the opportunity.

Sample Article:

My article is going to be on Iceybunneh, I hope you enjoy it.

Code Iceybunneh is an HF member who joined on 12-29-2010, she is currently married to Viral Dragon and is currently one of the most if not the most influential posters in the Innuendo section.

Iceybunneh is known as a very high quality poster outside of the innuendo section as well, She is also a member of multiple groups such as Fly By Night and Writers (Stylized as "Writ3r")

Iceybunneh is an editor on the Writ3r team, she currently runs a Mineraft server and her own blog titled "Confessions of an Internet Addict" as well.

Background Information:

Iceybunneh is a 23 year old female who has spent most of her days as a toddler in Texas before marrying and moving with fellow HF member Viral Dragon to Florida.

Iceybunneh has been a member of HF since 12-29-2010, She is known as "The Queen of Innuendo" and judging by her 4635 posts in the Innuendo section it's a well deserved title as Iceybunneh along with a few other members are a driving force in the Innuendo section and are willing to help anyone with their sexual/relationship needs.

IceyBunneh is no push-over outside of the Innuendo section either as she is also known as a talented writer who is currently contributing to the HF Wiki, Not much else is known about Iceybunneh other than her marriage with HF member Viral Dragon as most HF members are somewhat private about their private life but it has been known that Iceybunneh has written a few novels she is hoping to get published, is a PC gamer, enjoys Minecraft as well as a few other games such as Pokemon on an emulator and The Sims.

Iceybunneh's contribution to the Innuendo section:

Iceybunneh isn't known as "The Queen of Innuendo" for nothing, She currently has 4635 HQ posts in the Innuendo section, she has helped hundreds of members using her Innuendo experience, no sexual/relationship issue is too small for Iceybunneh and not only that but she has more than several high quality threads which have helped a dozen members.

Iceybunneh has shown time after time that she dominates the Innuendo section and is more than worthy to hold the title "The Queen of Innuendo".

Life on HF outside of Innuendo:

Iceybunneh maybe the ruler of the Innuendo section but it's not the only thing she does on HF, She is currently one of the editors on the HF wiki team and an has shown activity in HF's Minecraft section as well.

Thank you for taking your time to read my application and I have just one request (lol @ this guy requesting shit in his application), Could any of the editors please constructively criticize my application? It motivates me to work on my mistakes and improve as a writer.

Sorry about the not-so-good grammar, English isn't my native language but I'm slowly working on my weak grammar.

Blue Moon - October 13, 2013, 11:37 pm

I am aware that the writ3rs compile information for the HF wiki, I just wanted to know a few things:

- 1) If you get accepted, are you given certain topics which you're to write about & post them in a thread for review?
- 2) What is the activity like in this group? Is there a set amount of time we are to spend writing for the wiki?
- 3) Would it be a full time sort of group? (Having to write a set amount of articles per week.)

With me being starting University soon, I couldn't spend all day writing articles for the wiki. I just wanted to know some things which would either make me apply or not.

+Pirate - October 14, 2013, 2:10 am

@Blue Moon:

- 1) You are given articles to write by the leaders.
- 2) You have deadlines for articles.
- 3) You need to commit to the program, but articles don't take TOO long.

Viral Dragon - October 26, 2013, 11:03 am

Is there no one else who will submit an application?

-Viral.

Nas - October 26, 2013, 11:03 am

Viral dont close it yet, i would like to submit. I will edit this with my application .

Nas - October 26, 2013, 11:18 am

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

I worked in wiki's at school many times, i get great scores in most of my essays for school projects. Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

I would like to join the Wiki team because i think it's very HQ with very smart and well educated members.

Example Article Written here in code.

Code HackForums is a forum filled with many people around the world. Hackforums or others may call it "HF" was made in 2007.

Here at HackForums we have many sections, groups, and types of people. We have wide subjects from Security researching (Hacking) to the Lounge where people talk about how there day went. We also have different types of groups within the site. You may wonder

What's a group for or what does it do. Groups are led by there leader(s) and each group have different field(s), leader(s), and subforum.

HackForums is a great site you may see, but with all great sites comes with rules. In every Section in the Forum there is many rules.

You may read the Help Documents where it sums up most of the important rules about HackForums. We also have great

Genuine Staff, which you can contact via private message (PM). You may find a list of staff members at the end of the page, where it says " Staff"

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on? I've written many articles for various things such as school, projects, blogs, and websites. I'm sure by joining HF Wiki team will expand my knowledge greatly which will help me with many skills.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? I personally want to join the HF Wiki team because I want to expand my writing skills and many other things. I am sure I can accomplish this by getting accepted into the HF Wiki team, thanks for allowing me to apply.

Example Article :

Quote:Omniscient is mostly known for creating and owning the forum, known as Hack Forums. Although this isn't his first forum in his career, it is his most successful forums. The long journey started almost fifteen years ago, when Omniscient first started looking into forums and how they worked. In the year 2007, Omniscient started various forums such as Hack Forums, Support Forums, and MyBB Central. Support Forums was created to help users of the internet with different problems such as coding, webmaster, and computer support. As this took off, Omniscient had extra domains that he had purchased so he decided that he would do something extraordinary with the domain, HackForums.net. As creating a hacker feel for the site, this brought a lot of attention to the site from all around the world. Omniscient saw the growth and the potential of Hack Forums which sparked a motivation movement for Omniscient. Many things are coming to Hack Forums but it all started very slow for the site with spammers, site errors, and other related things. Late in the year 2009, the ultimate package came to Hack Forums as we all know it, the uber upgrade. This brought a whole new feel to the users, users could actually feel they were part of the community by having a higher power than others and being able to leave reputation reviews to certain users. In the year 2010, many improvements came to Hack Forums. These consisted of server updates, more awards, and a stronger community. As the community grew and the site became more secure this brought many users to the site. This would inspire Omniscient to improve the forums even more with awards, usergroups, etc. Into the interesting part of 2012, Omniscient started to get into Minecraft and created an amazing Minecraft server called HackerCraft. This illuminated players of Minecraft that Hack Forums wasn't just a forum for hackers of the internet, many users of Hack Forums actually were interested in playing the server so this started a whole new era for Hack Forums. HackerCraft opened a friendly community to both HackerCraft which gave the server a bit of attention. As that is it for the great forums of Hack Forums for now, many more things are to come. Sorry if any information is inaccurate but I didn't have a timeline or article to go off of. Thanks for letting me submit an application and have a pleasant day!

well i would totally try and become a applicant but i have to be ub3r
fml

Playb0y - October 27, 2013, 1:37 pm

Is there any way to prove your self, worthy of applying without being UB3R? I honestly think there should be. Or some can be accepted for the chance, they just have to put extra effort into the application if they are hand picked, from a group of L33TS, that will be allowed a chance for this opportunity. I am not complaining, I just feel unsatisfied with that choice. I would love to be able to apply knowing I have a chance, but just because I don't belong to a group, I am excluded. I will apply for UB3R once I hit 1k posts. I just think, you shouldn't allow or dis allow people to apply or not ,because of that. I mean, I have upgraded 2 members, isn't that good enough? All UB3R is, is an extra 20$ to donate to my man Omni, I'm with it. Its just not fair. I just wish that maybe, you could understand where I'm coming from. I know some regular members that are 10 times more HQ than some of the upgraded members, I see around the forum. I don't know why I'm even trying. I just have a glimpse of hope that maybe, some people can be allowed a chance to take part in this, even though they are missing out on one of the requirements. I know I can do the work that the group would ask of me. If I am UB3R or not, shouldn't matter. I can do just as a good of job. Donating another 20$ isn't going to make me better at writing or doing whatever the team would ask of me.

Writing, and reading is a passion of mine, and it would be amazing to be able to do it on my favorite website. It just bums me out that, just because I don't have an UB3R user bar, I have to miss out on this opportunity.

Sorry if this was irrelevant, I just wanted to express my feelings.

No. Ub3r is not a requirement set by me. It's a requirement set by Omni. The group is his, not mine. We do official HF work, therefor I cannot dictate the primary means of requirement when Omni himself is the one whom set it. Sorry.

I wasn't blaming you, I was just saying what I thought, on a whole level, involving the leaders and Omniscient. Its just a bummer, to see some of those requirements, when I know I could keep, with the groups tasks and be a great contributor. Writing and reading are passions of mine. And knowing that 20$ is all that separates me, from doing that on my favorite website. Is quite the in-dignity.

Going to go cry now.

But thank you for the response, maybe one day someone can motivate Omni, to make exceptions, even though I doubt it would happen. I'll just try to keep up some hope for it.

Thanks, but I don't think anyone can truly, understand. Especially someone lucky enough to be in the group. I know I could do just as good, as and "UB3R". Frankly I just think its fucking bullshit, that just because I'm not in a 20$ group, I have to miss out on something that I would really enjoy. Sure there are assignments, I can do them just as good as an UB3R can and could. Not to boast but probably better. As writing is one of my biggest passions in life. But thanks for caring if you do. I'm sure Omni couldn't give a shit about some random members feelings on this. The rule is probably set in stone, and he won't ever make any exceptions. I wish it could happen that way, believe me, I would be so happy if he allowed a couple l33ts to apply for the group. But then again, I remember I just one of the millions of people on this site, trying to make a change that isn't possible. I probably also sound like a cry baby, but I don't care. It actually saddens me, when I think about this.

For Omni,

If I'm lucky enough to have you reading this, please try to understand where I'm coming from. I'm sure you can. I'm sure you can; from following you on twitter and watching your YouTube videos, you seem like a nice guy. All I'm asking is to give some people a chance for this. And hell, give me a chance, if you did I wouldn't let you down. I would be on top of every assignment I could possibly be assigned. I just think that maybe with all of the site changes, that maybe you can let this fly a little bit, have some le-way and just think about wht I'm saying, and consider me, being in this group. What's the worst that can happen? Nothing can go wrong just because you allowed one rule of yours to be bent one time. I guarantee you I would be one of the best out of the amazing group you have assembled. You probably won't even see this, but that's fine.

To the rest of you, I'm not bitching or ranting. I'm just trying to inform the majority of you, about my opinion. And I know none of you, "give a fuck". But I don't care. I'm just trying to prove a valid point. Maybe even make a change, or make HF history. But tata for tonight.

Erm. No, the Ub3r requirement isn't going to change. It is indeed set in stone. But, then again it can also be seen as a marketing technique. To get higher benefits and to be "qualified" for other things such as a spot within this group (and previous Reviewers), you have to be an Ub3r. So it encourages you to go spend that $20 (or get into a member contest).

Omni actually has very little to do with how we run. He sets the rules, we follow them. No exceptions. I do give a fuck though, because I know there are good writers out there, but honestly, as one of the editors of the Wiki team, I would be incredibly hard on you, as I am with all of the skilled writers we have. I wouldn't want you bowing out because you think you deserve any special treatment.

We don't control the standards and Omni has the discretion to change them; however with everything he does, he probably doesn't have the time to make an exception for ONE L33t member. Because when you have to do it for one, you have to do it for all, that's just how it works :/

What you can do is leave with grace and come back if/when you upgrade. Don't let this tirade ruin your image for any future application. Also, as a writer for the past 11, almost 12 years, it really irks me when I see people talking about how they can "probably be better" than the writers we've chosen. With that kind of attitude, I would probably just ride you harder, either until you prove it to me that you've got the skills you're bragging about or until you break. I am a very tough editor.

Have some grace, friend, and apply whenever you can meet the requirements. It's like bitching to an employer about how they won't take your application because you don't have X experience or X degree. Very rarely are the employers allowed to make an exception, when there is work to be done. And frankly, the Wiki team is a lot of work.

Robust - October 29, 2013, 9:24 am

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on? I worked on several wikis before. Both for Minecraft servers and I got paid to do them. The money was included in the entire package for setting up the server, website, wiki and forums. I have been doing articles and other things for money in the past, as well. I used MediaWiki for these. If you use Wikia it won't be a problem to adjust. Here is an example of something I wrote well on the forums. It is the recruitment thread for Instinct on HC:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3803080>

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? I believe I can become a skilled writer in the HF Wiki team. I have a wide understanding of the English language and my spelling and grammar are quite good. I would represent the HF Writ3rs in and around HF in a positive manner. I will complete articles in due time and do above of what is expected of me. As well as benefiting the wiki I truly believe that I will be able to learn more about the English language and develop my skills in this. I mainly believe I would be fitting of this role because of four qualities I possess. I'm punctual, mature, knowledgeable and hardworking.

Punctual

As I have already mentioned, all tasks will be completed to the best of my ability and on time. I will try my best to do more articles than what is expected of me. I will be there for any group discussions and will get opinions from other members if necessary. I won't slack on my work and hand in any rubbish or uncompleted articles. If any meetings exist or any type of briefing I will be there on time. As they say, "to play the game you have to know how to play the game." Though if for some reason I cannot hand in my article by the due date (which will not happen commonly, if ever), I will give early notice to Viral. I will make sure the wiki and it's progress does not suffer due to my personal issues.

Mature

I will be able to face any problems maturely and sensibly. If there is ever any problem with me, I will fully cooperate. I will listen to anything that is told to me and act professionally throughout the wiki. For me maturity is not just age, maturity is how you cope with things, what you choose to do in different situations. I don't promise to be an angel and make the right decisions all the time, but I do promise to try my best in different situations.

Knowledable

Even though the wikis I have worked on previously are not the ones that require the most detail, I do know how to manage a wiki effectively. I can use my previous skills, both technology wise and language wise, to make my articles a success. I believe that quality is an important factor of an article because you could write thousands of words and only a 100 of those words are actually relevant thus I'll make sure every single thing I type is relevant and up to the optimum quality. To write a quality article, you need knowledge on it.

Hardworking

Don't expect me to slack on my work or hand in something half completed. Any articles or tasks given to me will be handed in to the best of my ability and potential. The most important thing is not always having a perfect article. Quality is extremely important, creating an article that the reader can read is extremely important, trying your best is also important. If I get accepted, there will be articles I may not have enough knowledge about but that does not mean I will hand in a rubbish article. I'll do my research and try my best and if it isn't enough I know I tried my best. The Instinct Recruitment thread is an example of something I have wrote in a formal context. Usually, a majority of my posts on HF are written on my mobile phone. That is why most of my threads are in note format and informal. My posts are much more formal though, as I'm stating an opinion. Really it matters on how many people will see it and who I'm talking to and what about, that determines how I write.

I really improved my writing skills and understanding of the English language over the past few years. If you were to look on Steam Profiles or a game I am no longer active on for the past few years, I'd be quite embarrassed. My understanding the English language was not enough; I did not have many grammatical errors or spelling mistakes but my context was informal and my language was weak. I believe my use of language is definitely improving. However, I'd like to take this chance to improve my understanding of the English language even further by grasping this opportunity with both hands.

This is a recruitment I have waited for. This is one of the only groups I'd apply to because I truly believe it's one of the only groups where I can give my knowledge, and take knowledge as well. For me, a group isn't just an application then a userbar. It's a commitment, a promise, to fulfil the requirements and do my part.

My article is on the HC's Market and Economy

Code The HackerCraft economy is also referred to as 'EM' which stands for eco money. There are various things you can do with EM, however, there are only two ways to get it; firstly, you could purchase it from the [\[url=http://store.hackercraft.net\]](http://store.hackercraft.net)HackerCraft Store~~[/url]~~ or you could gain EM by selling items in the market. The economy is managed using the economy system inside [\[url=http://dev.bukkit.org/bukkit-plugins/essentials/\]](http://dev.bukkit.org/bukkit-plugins/essentials/)Essentials~~[/url]~~.

The HackerCraft Market is original in its own sense. It is not like any other market. You are able to buy a range of items from two of the stores on HC, `/warp shop` and `/warp shop2`. The first warp, `/warp shop`, sells a range of basic items and essentials such as dirt, stone, (coloured) wool and minerals. The second warp, `/warp shop2`, sells items from the end and the nether as well as a few other essentials such as animals.

However, not every item can be sold to the market. Only farmed items can be sold on HC. This is to keep the economy fair without resorting to unnecessary precautions that have more negative points than positive. You can sell most items you can farm such as wheat, carrots, potatoes and pumpkins. What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

I have not contributed to any information pages in the past.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

To both develop my writing skills and enhance the Hack Forums Wiki.

Code Welcome to the internet!

The internet was is a global system of computer networks to serve several billion users worldwide. No one technically owns the internet as no single persons or organizations controls the internet directly. As another fact; as of December 31, 2011 there was estimated 2.2 billion Internet users worldwide, and it's growing at the speed of light. And in 2012 there was an estimation of 2.4 billion users!

Year	2005	2010	2013
World population	6.5 billion	6.9 billion	7.1 billion
Not using the Internet	84%	70%	61%

New term to learn: "The web". The web means the internet for short.
The web is beneficial for many parts such as entertainment, education purposes and socializing. There are millions upon millions of layers of websites on the web.e.g: www.TheWeb.com.

("www") Is short for "World Wide Web"; ("Com") which was originally intended to only be registered by commercial organizations. However, eventually the distinction was lost when .com were opened for unrestricted registration, other examples may be, .Org, .Net, .Info who are all to be used by unrestricted users of the web. The text between www and com is called "domain". A domain indicates a website online on the web, which are most common to be open to the public to visit. Domain names are formed by the rules and procedures of the Domain Name System (DNS). Any name registered in the DNS is a domain name. This is what a website consists of, formula:
www.domain.com/net/info

On these websites you can find a galaxy of different types of contents. Anything from games, poker/ gambling, adult content, social websites and educational sites! There are so many resources open for the public on the internet that can help you with your everyday question such as "how to make cupcakes", the web has it and is waiting for you to explore. On the web there is something for each and every taste, whether you're into cooking or an marketer or innovator who wants to promote a product, gain information and/ or to make money; the web is for you!

Known information sites such as www.google.com and www.wikipedia.org are both amazing resources for the one who is always hungry for more information about any topic. Social websites such as www.youtube.com, www.facebook.com and www.twitter.com are all available to the public to use. On these websites you can meet and chat with family and friends and as well make new ones and keep updated on what's going on in the big world!

Not convinced? You can even pay your bills online fast and easy!
There is just so much to learn and to use on the internet, you will be surprised.

Happy surfing!

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on? I don't believe I worked on any wiki

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? Ive recently reviewed some ebooks, I don't think this would count as doing a wiki, but I have reviewed massive ebooks. For exmple, EvanC's eBook Suite, longest ebook, I have ever reviewed, it contained 5 ebooks in one massive PDF file. I dont have link for it, but very HQ book. After that I wanted to enhance my writing because well it was fun to let my thoughts and ideas flow. In school, I had no practice in learning writing, even though we write stuff everyday. reviewing those ebooks really helped me learn a bit more about what i didn't know before. I am not a high skillful writer like some are, but I can learn to be one. If you see my work having grammatical errors, then its cool with me. My english and writing is quite bad, so joining this would help me in a great way to improve my writing and english skills.

This is my example short article of an ebook Spoiler (Click to View)

Review of EvanC's eBook Suite Note: This was a massive eBook to read, the rates may be off the charts!

Quality:11/10 Holy Crap! This was such a massive eBook I got to say, its not just one but freaking 5 eBooks in 1 book. That is insane, the quality is just not even explainable. But I think this could be heaven money making here since this is the first eBook I have ever seen that includes 5 EBOOKS in 1 Book. Many other eBooks dont include this much info in one file. Unbelievable.

Informative and Helpful: Hell YEAH!/10 I gave this a "HELL YEAH!" because it just passes the /10 rating. So much info, its just so amazing. Evan includes loads of backgrounds, pictures, and what to do in earning with these methods. This is the most informative eBook I have ever come across, very outstanding work on this, he must of put loads and loads of time to piece this massive money making book together.

Overall: Infinity/10 Overall, I highly recommend those who are serious of earning money online, one of the best eBooks ever seen in my eyes, very well put together, so much effort put into this. This is just breath-taking to take in.

This eBook is definitely on my list for...

(Application)

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on? I've never truly and honestly worked on any Wiki's however I am looking to learn. I believe learning is the equivalent to teaching because both learn something from each other. I've seen enough of "The Writers" around the forum to know the job and duties, I also read this thread 100% crystal clear.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? I wish to join to learn more, I type a big game, I use proper grammar but at the end of the day it won't be enough. Joining "The Writers" will give me the opportunity to expand my abilities by learning of the other members and publishing work which will obtain genuine feedback. But look, I can sit here all day and tell you how "Great" I am, or how wonderful of an article types I am but actions speak louder than words correct?

(Short Article)

The current whispers and conversations around the forum probably revolve around the group "Innovation" and they're sudden need for a "Gaming Leader" many believe that this is because they're previous leader either left, got fired, or quit. But the real Mystery here is... Since when did Innovation have a Gaming Section? Many of us are wondering this, they opened up a "Leader Recruitment Thread" on (12-02-2013, 04:15 AM) there currently seems to be no ending date to it.

From my view not too many users have applied for this role, But as for the users who have; how sure are they that they can fulfill this role?

Introduction - I would like to add a few words before I begin my application. As of now, I've drafted this for a week; trying to add as much information as I possibly could. I really wanted to work my ass off for this position. I believe I have the full capability to prove myself to the 'Writ3rs' group. I am currently 16 years old and I live in California. I have always been an excellent writer since the 6th grade. From all of my teachers, I have excelled in my English classes; nothing lower than an A. I continue to try my best when it comes to writing because I feel as if it hands me a way to get the reader's attention. Someone put it well, "Writing stimulates you to extend a line of thought beyond your first impressions or gut responses". You have them sit down and read what you wrote? Quite astonishing if you ask me. Anyways, I am very excited to get started with this opportunity, and I wish this group the best of luck. So, please, read through my entire application and be very aware that this was not rushed. Thank you for taking the time in reviewing my application. Let us begin.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on? - Honestly, I have never worked on a wiki. It feels a bit shameful to say this, but, I have not. Although, it may come across a little idiotic, I have studied myself to sleep with different articles, Youtube videos, and websites; where I was able to gain the possible knowledge to obtain a firm grasp on the subject. It has always interested me in becoming a writer for a Wiki. Throughout my time on the internet, I have written several articles and lengthy 'essays' for various friends and so-called clients. Merely side work, to be honest. Hopefully, I get my point across that I have not yet made a Wiki. Now, with my newly obtained knowledgde, I will be creating my sample article through my newly formed information.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? - A lot of what I want to do outside of Hack Forums, and possibly a job, would have to do with writing. I am not entirely sure exactly what I am pin-pointing, but, I have always been fond of writing. As far as Hack Forums, I would like to continuously gain knowledge through the course of this opportunity. Making new friends and acquaintances would be a big part of this, as well. Being a part of something like this comes very rarely. So, I better make this count and show the 'Writ3rs' what I am made of.

Code The Vigorous Persuasion of Dr. Heidegger

In romantic literature, characters use ethos, pathos, and logos to persuade other primary and secondary characters in order to achieve goals and ambitions. In 1837, Nathaniel Hawthorne published Dr. Heidegger's Experiment. Throughout the story, Nathaniel Hawthorne uses an extraordinary amount of ethos, pathos, and logos to propel the story in each and every character. Dr. Heidegger shows logic and emotion to prompt the characters to participate in his experiment.

Dr. Heidegger persuades the characters to participate in the experiment by using emotion, or pathos. Pathos is the emotional or motivational appeals. Pathos uses vivid language, emotional language and numerous sensory details. Dr. Heidegger has struggled ever since his fiancée, Sylvia Ward, died 55 years ago. All that was left was the flower that he was supposed to wear on the day they would have been married. Dr. Heidegger explains, "...crumbling flower, blossomed five and fifty years ago. It was given to me by Sylvia Ward...and I meant to wear it on my bosom at our wedding" (handout 2). This quotation is used to explain to the characters, Colonel Killigrew, Mr. Medbourne, Mr. Gascoigne, and Widow Wycherly, what exactly the flower represents to him. He uses this symbol later in the story to prove that his experiment is in fact truthful and legitimate.

Another way Dr. Heidegger advises the characters to become a part of his experiment is by using logic, or logos. Logos is the logic used to support a claim. It can also be the facts and statistics used to help support the argument. Dr. Heidegger has a collection of unique and eccentric items throughout his study. One of his items is the mirror. The mirror, throughout the entire story, represents truth and fact. By the end of the story, the mirror displays how his hypothesis is precise. In Dr. Heidegger's Experiment, it explains, "...the tall mirror is said to have reflected the figures of the three old, gray withered grandsires, ridiculously contending for the skinny ugliness of a shrivelled grandam" (handout 4). This quotation shows that the mirror presents the truth of what they actually look like. The three characters believe what they want to see, but what they want to see, isn't exactly what is really being perceived.

Nathaniel Hawthorne, the author of Dr. Heidegger's Experiment, uses emotion, or pathos, throughout the entire story. In the story, all of the characters, including Dr. Heidegger, are connected by emotion in some way or another. For an example, Widow Wycherly is connected by pathos because in her past, she was once a beautiful, young lady and went through a hard time. She obviously made some horrible choices in her younger years and it reflects through the present time. In the story, it states, "They were all melancholy old creatures, who had been unfortunate in life..." (handout 1). The word 'melancholy' refers to a feeling of pensive sadness, typically with no obvious cause. When using the word 'melancholy', you know that the text deals with emotions. Nathaniel Hawthorne uses pathos quite often throughout Dr. Heidegger's Experiment.

In the story, Dr. Heidegger's Experiment, it shows many ways the writer and characters persuade the readers and other characters throughout the story. Dr. Heidegger persuades the characters by using logos and pathos. Overall, Nathaniel Hawthorne uses pathos to propel the story. Ethos, pathos, and logos really connect with characters and readers overall, which brings credibility, emotion, and logic.

Code Legalization of Cannabis

Throughout the United States, only two states allow the usage of Cannabis. The only states that are completely legalized for recreational use are Colorado and Washington. There are, however, exactly 22 states that allow Cannabis to be used for medical reasons. There are many names for the herb, Cannabis, such as Marijuana, Weed, Pot, and Grass. Cannabis, the most used illicit drug, should be legalized because it can help many people with chronic disabilities, it would take power away from various cartels and illegal organizations; also, if taxed, the profits could possibly lower our debt percentage.

The first reason for legalizing Cannabis is it can help many people with chronic disabilities. In the book Marijuana Gateway to Health: How Cannabis Protects Us from Cancer and Alzheimer's Disease, Clint Werner explained, "If, so much research indicates, cannabis suppresses cancer". This quote explains that Cannabis could in fact help fight the disease, Cancer. Some of the diseases and illnesses that could be beneficial are Cancer, Glaucoma, Neurological disorders, Bipolar disorder, Asthma, Anorexia, and Alcohol abuse. Another article from Natural News, Marijuana Benefits Cancer: Two Studies You Probably Never Read About, Tony Isaacs explains, "In February 2000 researchers in Madrid announced they had destroyed incurable brain tumors in rats by injecting them with THC, the active ingredient in cannabis". This statement provides significant evidence to how Cannabis has helped with diseases and illnesses. This is a huge accomplishment because an incurable tumor was curable from Cannabis. The illegal herb, Cannabis, should be legal because it can help patients that suffer from numerous diseases and illnesses.

The second reason why Cannabis should be legalized is because it would take power away from various cartels and illegal organizations. An article from The Washington Post, How Marijuana Legalization Will Affect Mexico's Cartels, in Charts, Olga Khazan explains, "...legalization in California would mean Mexican marijuana would retain less than 9 to 15 percent of its original market share in the United States". The quote explains that if we legalize Cannabis, Mexico would have a less percentage in share because it would be legalized in the United States. This also means that smuggling would be committed less; unless, of course, they decide to tax the import of Cannabis. A second article, from CBS News, Study: U.S. marijuana legalization would hurt Mexican cartels, "It then assumes that purchasers around the U.S. will choose domestic marijuana when it is sold cheaper than the current price of Mexican marijuana... That choice will lead to a loss of $1.425 billion to the cartels if Colorado legalizes, $1.372 billion if Washington approves the ballot measure, and $1.839 billion if Oregon votes yes, the study says". This quote is explaining the fact that currently Cannabis is costing more than what it might if it were legal; since it is illegal the cost is far greater since it's harder to get. It would stop the flow of income to various cartels, since there wouldn't be anyone in the United States who would want to buy from non-reliable sources. Cannabis should be legalized because it would decrease the money flow and power to various cartels and illegal organizations.

The final reason why Cannabis should be legalized is because if taxed, the profits could possibly lower our debt percentage. From Huffington Post, Legalizing Marijuana Would Generate Billions in Additional Tax Revenue Annually, Caroline Fairchild explains, "The state of Washington estimates it will generate as much as $1.9 billion in additional revenue in five years due to the legalization of marijuana". This statement explains that if Cannabis was legalized, just the state of Washington would generate as much as $1.9 billion. That is a huge amount that could benefit us with our debt issue and imagine every state doing this. Another article from Business Week, Legalize Marijuana for Tax Revenue says, "...total spending on marijuana may add up to $45 billion to $110 billion a year". Again, that is an insane amount of money that could lower our debt percentage. Currently we are over a trillion dollars in debt, but with amount of tax dollars, it can definitely lower it. If the United States legalizes Cannabis, taxing it will significantly reduce our debt.

Legalizing Cannabis could change a lot of things in the United States. It does, of course, have a negative side to it, but so does alcohol and cigarettes. Cannabis could be a great thing and could be used for many products. Some products such as certain clothes, lotions, and drinks, are made from hemp. Hemp is just cannabis when grown for fiber. What was known as a plant for products is now one of the most used illicit drug. Cannabis should be legalized because it can help many people with chronic disabilities, such as Cancer, it would take power and money away from numerous numbers of cartels and also, if taxed, the profits could possibly lower our debt percentage.

Spoiler (Click to View)Code ==The Republic - Official Hack Forums Group==

The Republic, the newest addition to the Hack Forums' groups has recently surprised us with a new thread with information on the newly formed group. The group leaders of The Republic are "KyleWTF" and "Assault". Information has been very minimum to what they have to say. What they have announced, though, was on their introduction.

On The Republic's Thread:

"The Republic is a family that demonstrates superiority throughout society. We are brothers in oath, we stand strong to live and protect one another." Besides that, "KyleWTF" and "Assault", the leaders of The Republic, have replied to many users in request to find out more of their plans on Hack Forums.

Official statement from "KyleWTF" suggests, "Just a note: you do not have to be a popular or a member with 500+ reputation to join". We can certainly tell that these group leaders have the in vision of letting users that are not considered well-known. This brings an aspect that shows that they are willing to give most users a shot. That does not mean that they will still let anyone in. As we don't have much information on what they are looking for, we can suggest that they would like users that bring something to the table.

Until then, we look forward to see more from The Republic.

The only requirement is that you have to the Ub3r. The rest are guidelines. I asked this question and that's the response Viral Dragon gave me.

Same reply I got as well, maybe rule there to see if active on forum?

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

I have been a fan of editing wiki articles for quite some time now, especially for wiki's based on mobile games. The wiki that I have contributed the most to is the Pixel People Wiki, with a total of 705 edits. Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?I am always on the prowl for new activities to partake in around Hack Forums. I feel that joining the Wiki team would put my OCD to good work. ?

Well, Froggy, good luck. You seem like a good fit in my eyes. ?

Rexagon - January 11, 2014, 2:48 pm

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

No Wikis, but I am willing to learn about editing and typing Wiki Articles. I've typed numerous Essays, Stories, Articles, and Reports for numerous things such as school (have always gotten A's on typed projects and such), work (they ask me to write reports of the employees when needed), as well as for my dad's business selling computers (he has me write an Article that he submits to Newspapers and such.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

I feel as if I would make a good addition, I have room for improvement and am looking for more knowledge, but I have enough to be able to teach beginners as well. I love writing, it's always been something that I favor. Grammar is a concern for me, I strive to have grade A grammar and nothing less.

This particular example is what I imagine the MRT Section of the Help Docs should/would be written.

Code What is MRT?

MRT is Omniscient's official group for Malware Removal. MRT stands for "Malware Removal Team" and they are a group dedicated to helping HackForum members to remove any harmful viruses, trojans, RATS, and others from their computer.

Code How do I join the MRT?

In order to become a part of the MRT, you must first be recruited when they open a recruitment thread. When accepted, you'll become an MRT Trainee. MRT Trainees must undergo training to become an MRT Graduate. You will be trained by MRT Professors, Graduates, and Headmasters, learning the arts of malware removal and practicing on computers to dissect and find the problems such as malicious software, viruses, etc. You will also instruct users on how to remove said malware from their computer.

Code What is the MRT Graduate Award?

The MRT Graduate Award is an award granted to users that have competed their MRT Training. Couldn't think of much common questions about MRT. All of it's pretty much there in my opinion.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

I worked in wiki's at school many times, i get great scores in most of my essays for school projects.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

I would like to join the Wiki team because i think it's very HQ with very smart and well educated members.

Example Article Written here in code.

Code HackForums, whereas others my abbreviate it as "HF," was made in 2007 and has been around since.

Here at HackForums we have many sections, groups, and types of people. We have wide subjects from Security researching (hacking) to the Lounge where people talk about how their day went. We also have different types of groups within the site. You may wonder what's a group for or what does it do. Groups are led by their leader(s) and each group has different field(s), leader(s), and subforum.

HackForums is a great site you may tell by now, but with all great sites comes rules. In every Section in the site there are many rules.

You may read the Help Documents where it sums up most of the important rules about HackForums. We also have great genuine Staff, which you can contact via private message (PM). You may find a list of staff members at the end of the page, where it says "staff."

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? Well, I would like to give the HF members something I think they have needed/wanted for awhile now, I think it's their right to know about the past of HF.

Code Well, I will now begin my "example article." Key 1.) What is HF? 2.) Current admins and staff. 3.) Current groups

What is HF?

Well, HF stands for Hack Forums, it's a forums that's about gaming, coding and life help. It was created by Omniscient on April 21st 2007.

What is the current staff and admin team?

Admins

Omniscient (The owner of the forums)

and Paradoxum.

Current Groups

All group information will be quoted from either the group extras or Richard Grayson's group thread.

The Alliance

"We are a diverse Group that specialises within the field of White Hat Security"-The Alliance

*#@?&%! (Instinct)

*#@&%! is a gaming group. Its description is as follows: "Time to open up a can of whoop

*#@?&%!". It is an invitation only group for professional and dedicated gamers. The group is often called Instinct for quick reference and context. Other than this, not much is known about it."-Richard Grayson's group thread.

"143 is a group of select individuals unified in the ideology of helping and maintaining a certain level of quality throughout all of HackForums. Our basis is simple, in order to have; one must learn to give."-143 leaders.

Complexity

"Complexity focuses on the intricate details surrounding the complexities of coding, web design and security. Our aim is to understand and to improve. We start with ourselves and expand to others as we expand to GFX design, monetizing, gaming and most computer related topics."-Complexity owners.

Dynasty

"Dynasty is a group of friends who can trust each other. The group is divided into three branches.

First branch is the leaders. We are the ones who will be making decisions and managing the group, as well as holding lessons. We are the top branch. The second branch is made of our core members, our hearts and pride, members that will define us. As I previously stated, it consists only of most skilled members and they will be the ones that will assist us, the top branch, in teaching the third branch. The third branch is the lowest, base level of the group. The third branch isn't included into the usergroup on HackForums. Everyone can join the third branch as it is independent of skill. Everyone can join it and take part in weekly lessons that will be hosted, either on TeamViewer, or on our IRC. The third branch is for everyone who wants to learn and improve. The course is made to make a beginner advance to an intermediate level of knowledge. "-Richard Grayson's group thread.

Fly By Night

"Fly By Night is a group that focuses in all forms of art as long as you are dedicated and passionate about your craft. Contrary to popular belief, our sub forum is not overflowing with tutorials and guides, because our members are beyond that stage. The purpose of the group is to give artists a place to socialize and share work with like minded others. We are accepting all forms of art ranging from literature to music."-Richard Grayson's groups thread.

illuminati

"The illuminati is based on marketing, monetizing, selling, buying, trading, currency exchanging, free services & giveaways. In addition to the supposed shadowy and secret organization we are just overall into helping those who desire the passion of making money online & offline."-?nonymous

Innovation

"Innovation is a group based on Coding, SEO, Site development, Designing, Monetizing, Advertising, and much more."-Innovation leaders.

MRT Trainees

"The Malware Removal Team Trainees is a subgroup of the Malware Removal Team for MRT Students only. Professors, Graduates and Headmasters are members of the regular Malware Removal Team. This group is used to ensure maximum training efficiency and integrity, to prevent trainees from viewing other trainees' practice logs. Members of this group have no userbar and cannot set this group to their visible group."-Richard Grayson's group thread.

Red Lions

"The Red Lions is nokia2mon2's special group that he controls. The group was formed as a result of multiple significant donations made by nokia2mon2. He has donated over $8,000 in the name of the group, and has his own award, the Heart of a Lion. The most recent of which prompted Omniscient to add a drop shadow to the usernames of members of the group. The Red Lions and the Reviewers are the only usergroups to have a special username effect. Before the introduction of Omniscient's Deal Dispute Database, the group was in charge of the Red Lions Scammer Database, a list of user-submitted scammers on the forum."-Richard Grayson's group thread.

The Brotherhood

"The Brotherhood is an organization of individuals who are bound by loyalty to exercise their skills, knowledge, and time, which will encourage the acts of assisting oneself and others."-The Brotherhood leaders.

The Empire

"The Empire is a group of dedicated individuals that will share knowledge within our private sub-forum on a variety of subjects. We will mainly work within our sub-forum, however from time to time we will operate publicly to help enhance the site as best we can."-Richard Grayson's group thread.

The Republic

"The Republic is a family that demonstrates superiority throughout society. We are brothers in oath, we stand strong to live and protect one another."-The Republic leaders.

Void

"Void is a scientific discussion group. Our goal is to grow together as a community of intelligent members and thrive with the resources we are surrounded with. Activity will vary from section revamping, community threads, occasional verbal discussions with the community, and scientific explanation threads."-Richard Grayson's thread.

Writ3rs

"The Writ3rs are the third of official HF groups created by Omniscient for site purposes. This group is broken down into two factions: the HF News Team, who manage the HF News weekly periodical and the HF Wiki Team, the group of members who are in charge of the official Hack Forums Wiki (currently under construction.) The News Team is led by Sir, having been founded by the ex-staff member Yin, and the Wiki Team is led by Viral Dragon. The Wiki Team was founded by itylernallen.

The group was formed in October of 2011 by Omniscient. At the time of its formation, he was among the only members in the group, along with Sir and itylernallen. Originally, the Writ3rs consisted only of the Wiki Team, but the News Team was added at a later date to better serve the purposes of the forum."-Richard Grayson's group thread.

Infamous

"Infamous is a group of respected individuals that don't necessarily set out to impress, but to set an example. Members of the group are well known across the forum and set out to represent the higher bar that people may wish to achieve. Not much is known about the true motives of the group, however the mystery behind it propels Infamous's fame and image."-Richard Grayson's group thread.

Legion

"Legion is a group of dedicated members who seek to learn and produce good quality tutorials, give out support in the specified sub sections and help bring hacking back to Hackforums. We are very picky with our choices for whom we pick to be invited into our group so we want only the best of the best. Finally we expect all members to fully know the rules of this forum and to abide by them, though we may be a hacking group we only practice the things that Hackforums allows."Richard Grayson's group thread.

Can you please provide us with an example that contains more than a few sentences and a lot of copy/paste from other threads? Thank you :]

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

I wrote the majority of "Plugins" and "Worlds" pages on this Minecraft server forum (one of the oldest servers in the world). Although I don't know if that counts?... ?

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

I would like to join the HF Wiki team simply because I like writing; I write a lot of essays (mostly political) and I need an excuse to write more. I approached some of the users on here that have paid writing services to see if they would let me write for free but they didn't seem to believe me (ahaha). So essentially I like writing [and I like HackForums] so it's a perfect match!

And finally you are required to write a short example article you think would go in the HF Wiki.

This is an essay I wrote a couple of months back for an English oral, it's on the asylum seeker situation we have over here in Australia. I realise it says an article you think would go in the HF Wiki but I'm slightly confused given that a large majority of the other applicants are writing short stories and book reviews?, please let me know if this isn't acceptable. (It's lengthy but I think it best demonstrates my abilities)

Code "Why is Australia so afraid of Asylum Seekers?"

If you've been alive for the past few months you would be well aware of the "boat-people", it was the centre point of the recent election and has been on the news a lot for the past few months. You would have seen the street talk segments showcasing the discriminatory views of everyone down at the local shopping centre or the er stickers telling "them" to "go back where they came from". Sydney's art students were protesting and screaming 'free the refugees' and the Australian government had begun devising a plan to hoard the boat people off on a foreign island. All this left the Australian people afraid of refugees and a vast majority of people are now under the impression that we're going to become suddenly over run by foreigners. The majority of these claims are totally false and have caused the Australians to become apprehensive to refugees seeking asylum.

In 2001 the Howard government was under pressure by the Australian public to "stop the boats", they implemented a new border protection scheme involving the Coast Guard and the Navy. One boat broke through adding to the public's distrust and with an election fast approaching they were desperate for a solution that would make the public trust them again. A short time later a small fishing vessel destined for Australia carrying 438 asylum seekers began to sink just off the Australian coast and the Australian government requested that a nearby Norwegian freighter called the MV Tampa attempt a rescue. The Tampa agreed and all the asylum seekers boarded the freighter. The Australian government refused to let the Tampa enter Australian waters or provide aid to those onboard they also threatened to prosecute the captain of The Tampa as a people smuggler if it did so. The Tampa sat just outside Australian waters for four days until the captain finally declared a state of emergency and headed for Christmas island, the SAS boarded the ship and forced it to stop, a medical officer with the SAS reported that the asylum seekers were dehydrated, malnourished and unhappy and as a result the Australian navy ended up taking the asylum seekers into Australia. Whilst all this was happening the Australian government had issued a media "no-go zone" around the Tampa and had begun influencing its people that the asylum seekers were illegal and unacceptable, Prime Minister John Howard said on national T.V. "I don't like these illegal's coming here and cue jumping" yet this was completely wrong. In Afghanistan and Iraq there was no Australian embassy so the idea of a cue was a fantasy because they weren't able to join the cue and the people on the boats were not illegal's, Australian laws gave them the right to seek asylum here.

The media never showed the real stories of the boat people and the reasons that they had to travel to Australia instead they chose to promote the fabricated and negative stories developed by our government. A couple of months after the Tampa affair we had the "children overboard" incident which got just as much media attention and caused even more outrage. The Defence Minister (Peter Reith) announced on ABC radio that on the 6th of October 2001, asylum seekers had thrown their own children overboard and he even had pictures to prove it. He had convinced everyone that those type of people shouldn't be welcome into Australia and the public was now even more outraged with the boat people. Support grew stronger and the prime ministers approval ratings increased yet the public were unaware that the children overboard affair was a lie. The Defence Minister had received photos of asylum seekers being rescued by the navy after their boat had sunk and came up with the idea that they had thrown their children into the water. He was told by his advisors that it wasn't true but continued to actively promote it. The truth was eventually revealed and yet the public didn't seem to notice and approval ratings kept rising. The government continued to make false claims and the public continued to believe them, Jenny McHenry (Head of public affairs for the Department of Defence) would later say "We were told that there was to be nothing in the public forum which would humanise these people." And Gary Bornholt (head of public affairs for the Military) would also say that "They wanted to portray that these were not normal people". It's quite clear that the government intended on brainwashing its people and forcing negative views towards the asylum seekers and that the public believed everything they were told.

One of the main fears of the Australian people is that asylum seekers are "taking our jobs" when in reality this simply isn't true. The Government released 16,000 asylum seekers into the community last year while they waited for their refugee claims to be processed. They got about $220 a week from Centrelink, most of which goes towards rent and food, but they are on bridging visas which make it illegal for them to get a job. Nearly half of those asylum seekers are subject to the "no advantage" rule, which means they will most probably be on these bridging visas for many years.

Most of these people are willing to become contributing members of society and will take the jobs that other Australians don't want to do, but their visas make-work illegal. So why is it that the Australian people hold this belief? Where is there any evidence that they are taking any significant amount of jobs? Refugees have been coming to Australia for decades. The first big wave of boat people were Vietnamese fleeing from the Vietnam war in the 1970s, and they have proven to be successful migrants who have added much to the Australian society. Another thing to remember is that Australia doesn't receive that many looking for asylum,. From 1975 (when the first Vietnamese boat arrived) to June 2012 Australia had a total of 36,796 asylum seekers arrive. This number may seem large but in reality its rather small compared to other countries, last year alone there were a total of 493,000 claims for asylum made in the world. Europe received 355,000, North America received 103,00 and Australia received just 15,000. In the scheme of things we don't actually take in a massive amount. Another major concern of the Australian people is that they will "send us broke" because we have to support them financially, when in reality each asylum seeker only costs $70,000 whereas the average cost of an Australian child per year is $40,000 So 2.8Billion would support 40,000 asylum seekers which is more than the currently 36,000 that have immigrated since the Vietnam war. 2.8 Billion may sound like a lot but it's not really a great amount when you look at other programs and schemes the government has created in the past, 2.5 Billion was spent on the pink bats ceiling insulation scheme in 2010 which ended up failing and causing two workmen to die in the process. There is much greater value in spending 2.8 Billion on saving the lives of 40,000 people as opposed to putting better insulation in peoples roofs. Australia has one of the best economies in the world and we can more than support any refugees that come our way.

Australia is being given the ideal situation to set an example for the rest of the world, and balancing humanity and budget is of the utmost concern. All eyes will be on Australia as each section of the globe deals with similar situations, and as humans — regardless of where you are from — a certain level of empathy must be conveyed. The people of Australia must request that programs be tailored to help these people in an economically responsible way. If they begin to allow these people to work and the end product is a large percentage of contributing members to society then there should be no argument. Australia has the resources for these people, now the 80% of Australians that insist these asylum are illegal seekers must open their minds and give them a fighting chance. Leaving the asylum seekers in limbo will insure displeasure and will most certainly lead to a higher number of asylum seekers with resentment, providing help and a functioning solution now is the only answer for Australia.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on? I've worked on one before, it was for a rather large Minecraft server named Woodycraft. After my demotion from staff it was removed. I can show some evidence of it's existence if needed.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? Why do I wish to join? Well, I want to give HF members something that they can use and that will benefit them. I feel like they have a right to know HF's history and have a right to read about the forum they are currently spending their time on.

Code Who is Omniscient? Omniscient is a 'MyBB master' that currently runs the largest MyBB forum on the internet. He runs forums such as Hack Forums, Support Forums and MyBB Central. He also has created the Minecraft server 'Hackercraft' for his website Hack Forums. Omniscient found his largest MyBB forum in the year 2007 on April 21st. He still today is working on various forums such as 360 Forum, Sport Forum and Final Fantasy Forum as stated on his website www.witza.com.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

I've never officially worked on any wiki's up to this point. However, I understand the fundamentals in creating one and hopefully you find that my ability to write is above proficient. Although, I have made biography's of specific people/groups for school projects and they've turned out with good grades. I've even made an autobiography a while ago.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

I would really like to join the HF Wiki team because I really enjoy writing and voicing my opinion on said subject. I love giving my intelligent standpoint on things backed by undeniable facts. Also, I enjoy being loyal and working hard for things/people that appreciate it.

Example Article: What is quality compared to reputation?

The dictionary defines quality loosely as an attribute to something or someone. That is almost correct here on HF. Quality on HF is crucial to social success and even financial success and it just completes who you are as a whole. Some people on here, think the opposite and they're clearly disliked throughout the community and won't ever enjoy HF to it's fullest capacity. Quality is not to be confused with reputation, they are different things that may or may not have been meant for the same purpose. Reputation in my eyes comes from gratitude, respect and friendship. Quality comes from how you portray yourself to people and how you maintain your status on this forum. To any newbies signing up here, I hope you read this and understand the substantial difference between the two and learn from what I've wrote to better enrich your forum experience.

Orochimaru - February 26, 2014, 7:17 pm

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

My friend Darwin and I created a fan-made Naruto (Anime) Wiki page and I wrote tons of articles on it. My writing ranged from characters to theories, attacks, weapons and more. In the wiki I provided links, images, videos, sources and had excellent grammar on the pages I worked on. Sadly it was taken down as my friend had to continue with college and wasn't able to pay for hosting, and I as well did not have time to work on it but now I am back and ready to work as much as I can. I also helped a lot with the Naruto Wiki (<http://naruto.wikia.com/wiki/Orochimaru>)

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

I love the Hackforums community, and I want to help members, new and old, gain information on features and topics relating to hackforums. I want to write things that will be seen by my community. I want to write things that will be acknowledged by my community, and mostly, I wanna write things that will help my community. That's why I want to join the HF Wiki team, I am always seeking ways to support HF and I know this is one of them, so I'm taking that chance and applying to join the Writ3rs to write new pages about new features, people and more. I will talk with the community which I admire, I will cooperate with them and think of new ideas for the Wiki as well as assist them with whatever they need.

Example Article

So I have created an example article, but I don't like to do the ordinary, just what every other member did. I like to do more than that so I made a Wiki page for it too and I will provide both below!

Code Hackforums - Gauth

Gauth or Google Authentication is the new Hackforums feature which is still currently in beta and is being worked on by Omniscient but is available for all UB3R members of Hackforums. This can be accessed at <https://hackforums.net/gauth.php>

What Is Gauth?

Gauth is a security feature for UB3R members of Hackforums meant to give users a chance to login without needing password or email access, this is done with the scanning of unique QR codes and the codes being saved to Google Authenticator which works with the HF Gauth feature to save the QR code and gives you the ability to scan the code and enter the key given from the Google Authenticator application into HackForums to gain access to your account. More information on how to use Gauth will appear later on.

How to Use Gauth

Here I will provide a step by step tutorial on how to configure and use Gauth successfully, this tutorial will also provide pictures to help you achieve full understanding of the feature and how to use it to your best capability

Requirements

Google Authenticator Mobile App (Android, IOS and Blackberry Compatable)
An UB3R Hackforums Account
A Mobile Device with a Camera for scanning

Guide

Go to <https://hackforums.net/gauth.php> and you should see this:

Open Google Authenticator on your mobile device

Tap the small "+" icon on the bottom right corner of the application

Click "Scan Barcode"

Scan the barcode and make sure it is alligned, once correctly scanned it will automatically exit the scanner

You should have a code that says "HackForums" underneath that, that means you have correctly scanned it.

Enter the code on the HackForums Gauth page.

You should have this message: "Success. Your Gauth code is now activated"

Extra Features

You can now visit Gauth and you are able to test the code if it is working and you should get messages like "Valid Code" and "Invalid Code". You can also Clear/Reset the code if you want to change something or remove the Gauth feature

Benefits of the Gauth Feature

The Gauth feature provides many benefits and bring just another reason to upgrade to UB3R to the table. This feature gives you security and prevents hackers from gaining full access to your account unless they come to your house and steal your mobile device which has a very low possibility of actually happening. If a hacker gets access to your password, and your email's password, you can use your mobile device and Google Authenticator to get a new password or change the email to another one, then change your email password and account password for safety reasons.

Thank you for reading my application, hope I am considered and I promise you will not regret it! Normally I would be thinking, I can't apply, I don't have enough prestige, but sometimes you want something really badly, you may not be able to work for it in one area (prestige) so you push it as hard as you can in another (application). I am really hoping you can consider my prestige and understand I am a very hard worker, thanks!

You can also find my previous application here, it is different than this one:

I'm not applying, but I was just wondering what the point of the requirements were. Does the fact that a user has ub3r, or if he has 100 prestige really matter? Is their ability to write not enough?

Ub3r is a requirement, it is set by Omniscient. The rest are guidelines.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on? I am afraid this would be my first wiki. Though, I am very experienced with writing.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team? I would like to join the HF Wiki to help improve and work on the wiki alongside HQ members like Viral Dragon.

As it's one of the groups that effects HF more, it would be awesome to help improve it.

Example Wiki Page:

Reputation

Reputation, often referred to as 'rep' by members, is a point system done to show how trust-worthy and liked a member of the forum is. There are three types of reputation:

Positive
Neutral
Negative

Positive, a reputation kind which most members strive for, adds to the total number of reputation a member has. This reputation kind is usually used to add a kind or thankful review of the member it is being given to.

Neutral, a reputation kind that doesn't effect the overall reputation number total a member has, is one that is used for leaving warnings or messages.

Negative reputation is one that takes away from the total number of reputation. This is a kind of reputation that is usually used when a member would like to express his negative opinion on another member.

Some reputation can only be used by some user groups.

See, regular members cannot use the reputation function at all. L33T members can only use positives (+1) and neutrals. UB3R members can use Positives (Up to +3), Neutrals, and Negatives (Up to -3). Admin groups can use Positive (Essentially as high as they want), Neutrals, and Negatives (So far to the point that sometimes they will simply remove all positive reputation on a member's profile).

Reputation is also, at times, taken away as punishment to a member by an admin. What they will sometimes do is perform a 'rep fuck'. Basically what they do, is they simply remove all positive rep on a member's profile, leaving only the neutral's and negative's. This is rarely done.

For information on the rules of reputation, visit
<https://hackforums.net/misc.php?action=help&hid=20>.

Thanks for taking me into consideration.

I just realized I don't have 100 prestige. Should I remove my submission?

Robust - March 1, 2014, 12:18 am

@Ceoff: 100 prestige is only a guideline, not a requirement. Read the replies too, it helps.

What, if any, wiki's have you worked on?

I have started work on a Beginning of Linux Wiki a while back. I put a ton of time in it, but never finished it.

Why do you want to join the HF Wiki team?

I want to become a member of the Wiki so that I can participate more in things such as the Wiki. I am a frequent poster, and am online all the time. I am currently looking for things to take up more time, and this looks right up my alley.

Thank you for taking the time to read my application.

Example article:

Code Minecraft

Minecraft was created by a Swedish programmer Markus Persson better known as "Notch" and was published by Mojang. Minecraft is a game with endless possibilities where you can do anything from making a farm, to building a castle. Minecraft is an open world game with no rules, and no goals you need to accomplish. In Minecraft you can do anything from create a Single Player world for yourself, or make a Multiplayer Server to play with your friends.

Minecraft has over 14 million members, and has won over 5 awards from the 2011 Game Developers Conference. Minecraft still continues to grow, and is becoming one of the leading games for PC and other gaming devices.
