Thread: [\[Tutorial Kind Of\] How to Get New PayPal User-Interface](#)

illuminatiJake - September 2, 2013, 4:57 am

If you have a PayPal Business account, you should be able to get the new PayPal user interface by visiting this link: <https://www.paypal.com/webapps/business/optin>

If you don't trust the link, even though it's obviously PayPal's domain, you can login and click this link on the top navbar of PayPal.

Ta-Da!

Note: I'm not sure if the link works or appears on non-Business accounts.

Have a nice day!

Nature, you seem like a good guy and heck, you have a pet lion as an avatar, but I'm pretty sure PayPal is going to make their new user-interface required when it's ready.

I think that this is for US members only :(

I tried it and it says invitation only...I don't see the link on my acc, I clicked yours.

Not much, except: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3725235>

Actually, no, that applies to every type of PayPal account. If you spend a lot of money, $2,500 /month, you'll definitely get special treatment.

Everytime someone charges back and I ignore it, I get an email from PayPal stating that they'll cover the chargeback without deducting from my balance.

I think you have higher limits and earn a % for people who sign up under you.

Thanks for the tut, but atm I am sticking with old design, as some of those new features are pointless imo.

They have some new features, but no biggie. Half of the new user-interface is iframed shit too, from the old UI.
