Isn't the website kind of shady? The design looks really outdated.

Stratasys is well known, trades publicly, has government contracts, etc. I don't doubt the offer is legitimate

Thank you OP

You glitched the system. That is why they are calling you. ?

Minesweeper - September 18, 2013, 11:25 am
They called me as well, if you entered a legitimate phone number you'll probably get a call as it's a deal to try to generate sales, as the page implies

The salesman wanted to tell me more about the 3D printers they offered, also told me if I was interested they could send someone out to give product demos ?

If you tell them honestly that you saw an offer for a free phone case on a forum and aren't really interested in their leasing of 3D printers but in the phone case itself, that might be enough to get them to send you one anyways

Good luck

Stratasys owns their line of 3D Printers and are very well known in the education industry. Just say you are a student trying to motivate your teachers to buy one of their printers. Be assertive and ask for brochures with your sample to show for your school.
