

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: How to run and manage my site?

Maze - September 18, 2013, 5:52 am

Okay so I have a website up and running with CPanel hosting etc.
How should I run it?
Should I use an autoinstaller with Wordpress or like Concrete5?
Or just upload a normal website template..

Can anyone help please?

theAbsolute - September 18, 2013, 6:02 am

Well, hard to answer. First take a look at these questions:

What the site is going to be about? Do you have any experience editing site?

Is it site with lot of content changing or just a presentation?

Those should be main questions here.

If you want to run site with news and stuff, install joomla or wordpress.

If it's just a simple site like presentation, you don't need any script..

ThrillerCloud - September 19, 2013, 9:32 pm

Yea like he said it depends on what type of site it is we can't help if we don't even know what the site about :P

Maze - September 19, 2013, 10:37 pm

It's for a League of Legends Ranked Team
So most of it will be static but some will be constantly updated

b001ean - September 20, 2013, 12:16 am

you can use wordpres. Its easy and flexible..

Cr3w - September 20, 2013, 3:28 pm

(Sep 20, 2013 12:16 AM)muzikal_st0rm Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) you can use wordpres. Its easy and flexible..

Yeah, and looks like a fucking dick-cancer.

Don't use WP. Make something yourself ; that's how to get good reviews.

Don't use freeware-software

You get the point .

?