Thread: edit school site \(like java edit\) but save it only on one computer

Ethernet Explorer - September 25, 2013, 5:49 pm

ok, so I don't want to be bitched by my parents for a B+

how can i edit on their computer to always show A's?

Just on their computer

but also so it shows my homework too, cause the site updates and shit

Are you Asian by any chance? Or do your parents just have high expectations? A B+ is a good grade(I believe that's what? 76 to 79%?)

Why don't you HTML edit via rightclick>inspect element>ctrl F>Find what you want to change>change it, and then show them?

If you want to change it so it stays there and shows then you're going to have to hack into your teachers school account and physically do it yourself.

Farquaad - September 25, 2013, 6:33 pm

Just highlight what you want to change. Right click inspect element edit as HTML then change it.

high expectations asian parents,

all A's

94-95+

and B+

89.96

FUCK!

That's one of the best descriptions of a problem I have ever seen in my lifespan.

So what's wrong OP?

You didn't mention you had to refresh the page, SMD.

However, you can still set it up that whenever you refresh the page, Inspect Element still stays, however due to your sarcasm, LEARN THAT SHIT YOURSELF.

can't learn a coding language in a matter of days to change something like that.

but if i can't ill look for someone else with a solution.
