I know PSAT and SAT season has started, and I personally vouch for them because I was able to improve my score from a 182 on the PSAT to consistently getting 215+ and still improving. Not only do they offer great services such as essay grading within 24 hours and tons of practice exams, the staff is really friendly and the class is really fun. So if you need help, testmasters is the way to go.

How does this work basically its online through there live chat and they assist you?

They offer online and in class courses. The online course is self-paced and you get all the benefits of an in-class course except the classroom setting. I myself took the in class course, but I had a friend who took the online course and said it was pretty much the same material but he watched videos instead of listening to them talk in class.

Wait, so what is the actual official price for the course?

My school sold 200 PSAT's for $5 each yesterday. I jumped right in line with my friend and we got extremely lucky, we were in the last 10 available tests at the front of the line with like 100 people behind us all disappointed. :D
