

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Under 4 character names

Playb0y - October 7, 2013, 4:25 pm

Is this a rule that is taken seriously? Because if not I would really like to make mine into a 2 character name. I may need help with finding a working invisible character also... ?

webdev77 - October 7, 2013, 4:26 pm

I am fairly certain that 3 characters was the minimum possible (limited by character count script) and that it may have been ed to 4 characters minimum.

Viral Dragon - October 7, 2013, 4:27 pm

Names must be at least 4 characters. He removed the ability to make 3 or less character names, so now all 3 character names are special and can not be taken back or retrieved after you lose it.

-Viral.

Elegant - October 7, 2013, 4:28 pm

4 characters is the minimum. I would have gotten something 3 lettered if it were available.

oz@bsd - October 7, 2013, 4:28 pm

You can use special characters, but I wouldn't bother. Omni hates them, members hate them, and whats the purpose, to have a fun looking name?

Playb0y - October 7, 2013, 4:30 pm

Ok, I'm going to lock this, I just wanted to know; because I wanted the name "64"

Omniscient - October 7, 2013, 4:32 pm

Technically there is no rule about this. Simply a setting which a few circumvent with special characters. Sometimes I ask members to change their username.