What I enjoy most about Xbox live, is playing with friends. There is nothing better than coming online after a long day of school/work and hoping on xbox and chatting/playing with good buddies of yours. Now don't get me wrong, some of these "buddies" can make you scream and throw a hissy fit after losing to them in a friendly game but for the most part they are kind, funny, and all around good people to chill with. That is why I enjoy playing with friends the most.

I like the social part of Xbox live. You can sit back, relax, play some games, watch a movie, or many other things with your family and friends, even if they're in another country.

Seems like fun, well what I enjoy most about Xbox Live is casual gaming with a few friends, mostly small parties as I'm to quiet to really enjoy talking in larger groups

Meeting new people and making new friends is always a plus and when the end of the day rolls around its always nice to lay back and watch some Netflix or Youtube :)
