

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Google Helping Charities With FREE \$120,000 in GRANTS jsquared - October 12, 2013, 11:47 am

So google did something really cool, and they opened up a grant for REGISTERED CHARITIES and some non profit organizations to use to advertise for their cause. I think that is one of the greatest humanitarian acts that I have seen from such a large company with so much influence on advertisements, and site placement.

SO here's the bad news, this guy thinks that it is cool to sell this as a method to make money, cause you know... thats cool right? Stealing money from charity, and selling how to do it for $120+, so now were stealing from google, and stealing from our own members?

Don't get me wrong this is not a flame thread, I am jsut saying its really sad!

Back to the point, if you know a struggling charity, you should approach them with this unique opportunity to gain support for their cause!

NXXX - October 12, 2013, 11:49 am

Well naming and shaming him is not going to get you anywhere, other than cause drama from the member, this is HACKFORUMS. go to the hacking section, nothing over their is legit. I admit what he is doing is bad, but what can you do?

jsquared - October 12, 2013, 6:41 pm

OP updated clean now, sorry about taht