Thread: [ProBoot v1 \[PREVIEW IMAGES\] \(Booter Project\)](#)

ObscureCoder - October 25, 2013, 2:29 pm

So, basically I'm working on a new booter source. (I know, I do that quite alot. This booter is custom, future booters I make will also be custom but will use a php set of classes I made before hand in order to make the coding time less; since most of the code is the same for everything :P)

Here's a preview image of what I got so far:

(On the site, the side panels slide down when clicked, they're currently empty.) Please excuse the image quality, imgur makes it worse. The actual site's text is crystal clear.

Please tell me what you think of this source from the design preview (i.e what you like about the layout/design and what you don't like..)

Thanks,

UPDATE: Working more on the front end. Nav bars, buttons, etc.

Looking good mate. Fonts could use some work, other then that good job.

Thanks man, I like the fonts though. I'm gonna try see how 'Sansation' looks.

Really liking the overall design. The color scheme I am not that huge of a fan of, nor am I of the font. But, I feel a more appealing font could also make the color scheme more appealing.

I'll definitely try out different fonts.

I like the color scheme, the initial idea was for it to be changeable. I'll try work on it.

I think it is decent but I really don't like when it is black, gray and white! I'd change it up to like blue green and white to make it more happy. But I like the font.

Yeah, I know. The black bg can be replaced with anything :>

I don't like working with light themes, if someone looks wrong/out of place it's significantly more noticeable than in black.
