Thread: Amazon products

aSmoo - November 3, 2013, 7:28 am

Ok so my question is simple.

I found no rules about this but my thread got deleted without a reason.

I am using MY OWN amazon account to buy products for members at 30-40% OFF the original price.

I am not selling accounts/GCs and so on.

Why the hell my thread got deleted? Explain this to me please, thanks.

Viral Dragon - November 3, 2013, 7:31 am

Probably because it IS an amazon account anyway, despite it being yours (and with few ways to really verify it's yours). As a general rule of thumb I just tell people not to bother with anything related to Amazon.

I don't think it would be against the rules as you're not actually selling them anything related to Amazon infact something being sold by a member there. Its just the same as buying them yourself and then selling them again I suppose, Aslong as it's not carded.

Ok, I uderstand that it's an amazon account I am using but I am not selling it so it's not braking any rules here.

And I have no problems with showing proof that it's my own account, just tell me how and I'll do it.

Side note : Yeah I know that there were a lot of scams with amazon 50% thing but this isn't one as I simple have $1'000 credit and I can't buy items I want as amazon doesn't ship them to Italy.

Totally useless post...check my thread and my past here on HF lol.

Viral Dragon - November 3, 2013, 7:48 am

Well, maybe so, but it's a general rule of thumb not to use Amazon accounts at all. As pe proving it's yours, there's almost just no way. Lol. That's why verifying would be next to useless.

At best, all I can do is suggest PM'ing a staff member and seeing why it was junked. No one here would be able to tell you why, at least, not someone who isn't staff anyway.

Because you COULD be using stolen amazon accounts to order these items and you're offering this service to "cleanse" the money

I clearly stated that I can provide proof that it's my account, I just need to know how and that's it.

My PP and amazon names are the same, email is the same, Omni itself can check it easily as well...I know that he won't get involved anyway.

Because that amazon credit may of been gained from blackhat activity.

Do you really think that I would add carded GCs on my account?

And it doesn't make sense...at least staff could PM me and explain why it got junked.

RDCA - November 3, 2013, 10:20 am

Staff don't private message you as to why your threads were deleted when you broke the rules, you message them to find out. Also, it isn't about proving whether you own the account or not. Staff and Administration aren't going to get involved in deals, whether it be authenticating the method, or checking to see if someone is scamming. The rules exist to say, you cannot do this, not for you to try to prove the reasoning behind the rule wrong.

Don't get me wrong but can you read or no?

There is no freaking rule about this!

Skorp - November 3, 2013, 10:58 am

I'm sure Omniscient does not have the time to see if the account belongs to you or not by offering proof, because that would mean that 100+ other members will do the same and that is unneeded time wasted for him. But i can see why staff deleted your thread, they were probably unsure if it was yours or not.

All up to Omniscient if he wants to go through with this, but most likely, no.

I know that Omni won't get involved for sure but still he can add a rule about this or just let us post threads like the one I want.

Well you will probably tell amazon you never received the item, that's black hat activity.

Wrong! I don't do any freaking methods here...I just want to covert that amazon gift credit in cash, that's it.

Nothing related to Amazon is allowed on HF.

Not true...in Help Docs it clearly says that you're not allowed to sell accounts/gcs but not that you can provide such service.

100% true and that will be the final comment made by any staff or admin while closing the thread.
An exstaff member had said it to me.
