Why do you want to join this group (50 words min) : First i would take my time to say that the idea of 'The Reviewers' is plain good, i was planning on joining before the post was made since we were discussing it in the L33T lounge. I want to join this project because i'm somewhat good at writing and i'm currently learning English further from what i know at the given moment. I'm fairly active on HF and contributing a lot, and i think this could be another way of contributing with what i know from.

Do you have Skype or some chatting system : I'm only able to use TeamSpeak at the moment.

Why do you want to join this group (50 words min) : Reasoning for why I'd like to join this group specifically is that I'd love to help and try to give my opinions, thoughts, or ideas. In a way, constructive criticism and try to explain to some users who want opinions, what to change or what is great and doesn't need improvement in their setup, site, or book. You're asking for a 50 minimum requirement but most if not all posting a request or application are probably going to go above and beyond at least 150 to get in. I'm honestly hoping I'm not wrong on this. I will accept kindly if you decline or accept this application, thank you.

Do you have Skype or some chatting system : Yes! I'll PM it to you now.

Why do you want to join this group (50 words min) : I would like to join this group because, I have excellent writing skills. I always use good grammar. I'm in a writing/reading class, in high school that gives college credits. I also would like to review sites, so the owners can get an opinion on there domains from someone else, besides themselves. I would make an excellent edition to this group. Thanks for considering me. ?

Why do you want to join this group (50 words min) : I always wanted to join a group of people specialized in one certain objective, which is reviewing ebooks, websites, etcetera. I've reviewed before and I rate myself a 9. I have good grammar and can really catch someones attention with my articles. I can use the same method in reviewing, I want to make this my HF hobby, so I hope I get accepted so we can get to work, and start reviewing. Also I got many ideas for this group if I'm accepted, for example creating a thread and getting it stickied, for people to request getting their things reviewed. I also find this fun as an hobby, I can also be very creative. As you can see, I'm rocking a signature to support this group.

So I know what a good book should be like. I am a decent writer and will have my own personal graphics for leaving reviews, And I can use perfect grammar when need. Taking all of that in, I think I would fit perfectly into this group and would love to be apart of a team who leaves nothing but good quality reviews on sites/ebooks. Why do you want to join this group (50 words min) : I enjoy reviewing various pieces of work done by others and admiring what they have brought together. I have reviewed ebooks in the past from vouch copies I have received through just chatting to the writer and am good at pointing out errors. I wouldn't say I am harsh when it comes to reviewing but I do not like people who sugar coat the supplier with compliments when something clearly is wrong with said 'thing' and potential customers are being mislead. The only other group I have been part of on the forums was the Minecraft one which at the time was official but I never joined in much with what they ever did. These guys have started an unofficial group that fills the place of a group that was removed partially because it was very controversial, and as such, posts challenging the group should be somewhat expected. They broke one of their own rules, I'm asking them to justify that, seeing as they rule they broke is related to one of the causes for controversy in the old group.

Look, I've let you have your debate or conversation, situation placement, thoughts, opinions, ideas go on in this thread. I've asked A friend to make me a high quality signature and he made me one, I love it, check it.

Can you let this settle? It's going to drag on more and more and I'm here to check Applications not situations. I agree, maybe he shouldn't have said or done what he did (to a degree. everyone is human and he didn't do it for any reason of ruining this group or anyone else outside. He didn't do it for any bad reason. The saying "Some rules are meant to be broken" Does not apply here, But leniency is a real thing. And so are second chances. Warnings will be given, strikes, etc. If it makes you feel better we can go by second chances for this guy and anyone AFTER him will get a kick. Would that help?

I'm going to give him a second chance, if it comes to that ideal solution for you. Yes?

I'm not trying to be crude or offensive or... uptight? I've been lenient and allowed you two and anyone else to have this argument if that's the right word or good word you like, to follow through. But this is where I put my foot down and ask you two to please kiss and make up and drop this.

So, please? Just do this for me and allow this to be ended. Your thoughts of this group may go down from me trying to ask you two to stop or even the situation itself. I just want some decent conversations about what's going to be going on in this thread from now on. (RULE FOLLOWING, make it better? :) )

Anyways... Better? Please? Yes? If you have anything else to say after this. Please feel free to PM me or message me your Skype and I'll settle it on there for you. Thank you.

If you have a problem with me challenging the fact that you guys haven't followed your own rules and attempted to re-create a group that was previously disbanded for good reason, you aren't suitable to lead such a group.

Clearly you don't have a good relationship with https, your co-leader seeing as you're castigating him publicly and affording him the same respect as you do to the random person challenging you both.

I've been polite and challenged the group politely and not flamed. You're lucky it was me, mate.

I have zero reason to think highly of this group, and the post you just made would have been far more suitable in a PM. Especially to your leader.

If you wanted this to go to PMs, you should have PM'ed me. And finally, allowed? This is a recruitment thread for an unofficial group, the official version of which Omni disbanded. I don't think you've allowed anything.

I haven't trashed your recruitment thread, and my only harsh comment has been that this group is a joke, which is something of a fact that I pointed out after being insulted by your two glorious leaders.

Your group has zero integrity and even less support from the general populace. This wasn't about my opinion, this is about a screw up in your group that was detrimental to anything positive you were trying to do.

Again with the PMs, if your leaders were willing to have the conversation, they'd have PM'ed me instead of demanding I PM them. The fact of the matter is that I have a point, and a PM conversation won't get any better than this one has for them, and so its pointless taking it to PMs.

I'm happy to keep challenging you until you admit that you screwed up, that clearly your group doesn't always follow that rule and that that affects your integrity. That rule was one of the reasons people had issue with the original group - people just hanging around for free stuff. If you don't follow it, your joke group is worth even less. I also think that you owe the other guy an apology; I don't expect one for myself for those insults, but you should accept that this is continuing partially because of how you guys decided to address the issue.

And in case you haven't noticed, I'm against the group in general also. Thought I might point that out for you. I'm not worried about what others think because I believe the vast majority feel the same way towards the group, and even if they didn't, it wouldn't be a huge issue.

And in case you haven't noticed, I'm against the group in general also. Thought I might point that out for you. I'm not worried about what others think because I believe the vast majority feel the same way towards the group, and even if they didn't, it wouldn't be a huge issue.

We do admit that a member screwed up with the rules, we apologised for what happened, why do you insist on continuing this.

Because you didn't previously, your co-leader jumped in without the facts and you refused to accept any truths. And then had the audacity along with your colleagues to tell me to PM you, whilst also continuing to post here in response.

I don't see why pm'ing him is not good, you're just filling the thread here with posts, it attracts more attention to us, not to you.

I did now, open your brain before your mouth, you should really think over what you just said, we said we were sorry, you asked us to say it aswell, now you're saying that you should have said it earlier, we said it, it's done.

What else do you want from us, my co-leader has the right to do that, if you don't wanna PM us, don't spam the thread with your endless post critic if you don't want any of this to resolve.

Here we go, more insults but you didn't and I suggest you review your posts.

He has the right to attempt to step in but by now means should he do so without knowing all the facts - in ignorance of the situation, n other words.

If either of you wanted to take this to PMs, you should have PM'ed me. Its as simple as that. Lead by example, but don't try to assert authority over other's who have a legitimate issue and then demand they PM you and stop posting publicly something that is relevant to the community.

You could have easily defused this a long time ago and taken it to PMs, but in your pride and your co-leaders desire to assert himself, you instead turn to insult, continue to contribute to derailing your thread and then refuse to take any responsibility for that. I'm not solely to blame for the issue that has arisen in this thread, both you, your co-leader and the member who broke your rules are responsible.

Why do you want to join this group (50 words min) : Well, I just love helping others so much! I know it sounds a little phony, but its kinda true. I love helping and giving out constructive criticism and reviewing and replying to people and helping them out.. I just feel really good while doing it. Im also learning alot on the way, it helps me alot with making friends on HF ;). Im not gonna lie and act phony or something to you guys. I don't have too many friends in real life, i do have some obviously just not the most popular guy. I also am currently not in any HF groups so this would really be awesome ;), i hope one day i can obtain UB3R. Im extremely loyal, and helpful. Your most likely going to check my rep you will see some (-) rep sadly. This happened when i was a bit noob, i bought a crypter and i didn't know i wasn't suppose to scan it. I scanned it on VT and then i asked the owner why it showed up with tons of viruses? Well, thats why, i wish i knew then and i could take it back. Also, My good friend "Goodies" really inspires me alot. I see him out there making these help threads and i just LOVE THEM! Hes so nice and i wanna be like that. I love reviewing and grading peoples products, ebooks, websites, and many other things. Im always on the internet as well, even though my main computer is gone during weekdays(due to school) Im still on my laptops, ipads, iphones, home computers, ipods and many other devices that can access HF ;). I just hope that one day i can be an a amazing group like the reviewers. I understand if you don't accept me and let me in, Its all fine. Thank you for reading my application.

I had a look at one of your more recent reviews https, and it appears to me that you wrote near to nothing. You gave a simple rating and a word or two about what you thought.

How do you hope to achieve anything with such a lower end review?

Anyway, I hope you take what I say into consideration and possibly looking into achieving well written and well structured reviews.

Why do you want to join this group (50 words min) : Well I am currently a freelance reviewer of video games trying to get my own website/blog started up to bring my content out to more people. On the side I would love to do a lot more than just video games, I love the fact of helping people with my ideas, I don't care about obtaining a monetary value for my work, I recently found out my love for writing and doing this will improve my grammar, punctuation and overall writing.

If you are to choose me, unofficial group or not, I do not care for recognition, I will love to bring forward what I can to the table to help anyone I can, I understand this group will take a lot of heat for wanting to be like the Writ3rs, unfortunately I will never get a chance to be in such a group. Why do you want to join this group (50 words min) : I have recently been considering the possibility of myself reviewing things such as games, tv shows, ebooks and websites through my own social media aka my own forum or discussion board, this idea quickly became a dream after realising the difficulty that would arise from just building the site and not only that but paying for a domain and hosting would be hard for me. That is why I wish to join this group so I can review without going through the hassle of building my own review website.

Do you have skype or some chatting system : I have skype, I don't use it often but if I were to get accepted I would create a new skype account to give to my fellow hackforum members.

If I were to join, I would like that the group were to not only review ebooks, etc. but fall out into a group of different branches that would review movies, shows, games, books, ebooks, monetizing techniques, software, etc. through that thought I would help with the construction of a review based site.

Who do you want to join this group?: I would like to join this group because I know the importance of a prestige review for any type of product, whether it be a website, book, eBook, article, et cetera. The importance of a proper legitimately written review/comment will make or break a product. There have been countless times I've lurked around the "Ebook Bazaar" section or any selling section with weak vouches/reviews, which simply disinterests me. The most important reviews are those that are detailed, but to the point, eye catching, and honest. I feel as I can fit all those aspects to make a good reviewer for this group.

Do you have skype or some chatting system: Yes, I have Skype, TS3, Vent, Mumble, anything that would be needed.
