

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Premium Market + Secondary Market?

D????????????????ark - November 24, 2013, 12:06 pm

I tried looking in the rules about this, but I couldn't find anything I dont think.

Was just curious to know, is it ok to make the same thread in the secondary market and premium markets?

Both gather different attention from different members.

Is it against the rules?

Spxce - November 24, 2013, 12:10 pm

I wouldn't think so.

We're upgraded, we can utilize the features that way.

D????????????????ark - November 24, 2013, 12:11 pm

(Nov 24, 2013 01:10 PM)Relieve Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I wouldn't think so.

We're upgraded, we can utilize the features that way. Just want to be 100% about this, cant afford any more of a warning :3

Pillows - November 24, 2013, 12:12 pm

I thought that this would be considered cross posting?

D????????????????ark - November 24, 2013, 12:14 pm

(Nov 24, 2013 01:12 PM)Pillows Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I thought that this would be considered cross posting? My exact thought!

I was unsure of it though as its two different markets all together.

l0lrifk - November 24, 2013, 12:14 pm

well I have a thread in premium section, and Secondary section, I am actually unaware of this, so would be nice to know.

Joshh - November 24, 2013, 12:14 pm

You have to choose to either post in one or the other. The only time i think cross posting is allowed is if you own the sub forum.

Fluxify - November 24, 2013, 12:15 pm

No your not allowed to post your thread in the premium and secondary market. It's considered cross posting.

D????????????????ark - November 24, 2013, 12:15 pm

(Nov 24, 2013 01:15 PM)Fluxify Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No your not allowed to post your thread in the premium and secondary market. It's considered cross posting.

Ah perfect, just needed some solid information.

Thanks for this <3

Guede - November 24, 2013, 12:15 pm

Yes, it would definitely be classed as cross posting, because there's two.

