Thread: [\[wot\] - idea of hacking a online casino website?](#)

wothacks - November 27, 2013, 8:08 pm

I think i can get acces to FTP/control panel from domain hosting acces from a famous online casino.

Any idea's if i can get anything out of there?

What would u suggest me to do, add a Java drive by to the page?

Do what?

Maybe try get into the database? do you think its located on the casino page, or somewhere else?

for example in the phpmyadmin location of the host?

I suggest you don't take any money if you pull this off, unless you want to have big black men feeling you up in prison.

What makes you so sure you won't get caught?

Even the best of the best eventually get caught, and it sounds to me like you really haven't got half a clue about what you're doing.

Its realy nice you know that kind of things while you dont know me.

Could you also tell me the winning lotto numbers?

Why wouldn't you be able to get caught? What security measures do you take? I'm interested..

There is always a chance of getting caught, no matter what you do.

Java Drive-by would get spotted pretty quickly.

One possibility is to set up a system to intercept information i.e ARP spoofing, and get the CC# and other useful info before it gets encrypted, then sell them on the tor black markets (don't use them yourself).

Just spend a lot of time learning the system :)
