Fried Chicken - December 1, 2013, 2:58 pm

I just purchased BTC off of Staid and Neat and here's what I have to say about it.

There was no problems confirming my purchase with Neat, hours after I originally sent my PayPal payment after talking with Staid and agreeing upon a price. At the time Staid and I had bad timing where as Staid had to leave minutes after I sent my payment. He was online for about 5 minutes after I sent the payment, but I was busy screenshotting the payment and writing up my response. Other than the 16 hour delay it was fine. I'm sure it was just a slight in their service and I was just the unlucky one to hit it.

Might deal again in future, I recommend their service. GLWS

0xBB - December 1, 2013, 3:26 pm

Just exchanged 320$, all went fine and smooth. Vouch. ?

f1sh - December 1, 2013, 3:45 pm

I want to apologize and explain that I was away for about two weeks and due to real life issues. I was unable to be online to read and respond to your messages instantly.

I hope that my partner Neat has been handling this exchange business as good as he could while I'm away.

I will be online regularly starting from tomorrow to respond and exchange instantly besides my bro Neat to be offering this service 24/7 better than before.

I cancelled one PM and resent it after he finally came online. He seems to have been on many times after that. This is terrible, I asked him if he can exchange and he AGREED yet he goes offline for over a day then comes on and doesn't read my message! I also did send him what he requires in the PM.

This guy expects his customers to send pictures of their Id's in front of their HF screen, and to top that off, he cannot even sell high amounts... I am sorry but if you are making all your customers do all that on a hacking forum of all places, it makes me wonder what you may eventually do with all these ids you are piling up. This is fraud in the making if I have ever seen it.

He only does ID's for high amounts. To ensure its not fraud especially since you are doing Paypal to BTC then he has proof against you if you do chargeback i mean think man think.
