He could have at least scammed for a high amount instead of tarnishing his reputation with some pathetic little scam like this.

Wait, you shouldn't be so quick.

You may get your money after all.

Maybe he will really give you. ?

Elite Hacker 69 - December 3, 2013, 8:36 am

It's odd he didn't just tell you to do the full $55 though.

Its been 24 hours since I sent the payment in 2 hours... he has been online in this time and is ignoring my PMs.

We'll than, it's obvious you've been scammed.

Sorry to hear that mate. ?

From now on, watch with whom you do deals.

The easiest way of detecting possible scammers is to ask them if they are okay with middle man (which you will pay) :D

I mean, you won't actually pay him, you just test him.

If he says no, than it's obvious :) Don't deal with him.

I've always been so careful with scammers and in my 3-4 years of being around I have never been scammed until now, I'm still going to give the guy another 24 hours to reply to me, if he doesn't reply I'll begin posting a link to this thread on his selling pages daily. ?

Seems like a legit scam report, feel sorry for you..

Darkwin - December 3, 2013, 8:48 am

Actually OP i don't think he scammed you, I'm his holder and he has the funds in the account so your money is here i'm just unable to send without his authorization. Once he's online and confirms i'll be more than willing to send the payment your way. For the record have you even attempted to add him on Skype? seems kind of messed up that you jump to conclusions.

When the money is sent all evidence of the scam report will be removed, until then though it stays open. ?

Why did you make this??? Check your wallet first... Jesus...

Darkwin - December 3, 2013, 9:08 am

Wow well OP is an idiot -.- overreacting without even checking the wallet lol.
