Thread: PHP Coder \(Website partner to code PHP on booter source\)

Deadline Em - December 21, 2013, 6:57 pm

I'm currently working on a custom source made using bootstrap. I am looking for someone extremely good at coding PHP (I say EXTREMELY because I prefer as little amount of vulnerabilities as possible). You can check out the source preview here (The login page and register page do not work because they aren't linked to a database using PHP. Hence why I need help lol)

If anyone is willing to help me, my facebook and skype links are on the main page Here

No offense, but I don't like the design enough to think it would be worth my time. Plus, you would need to elaborate what being a partner would entail, such as: payment; benefits; ownership %; etc. Plus, some coders don't want to "own" any project that they get hired to code. I'll take a coding job for a booter, but just pay me the money, I don't want any of the drama or hassle that comes with ownership.

Not to mention, how do you plan on selling it? You aren't Ub3r, you don't have positive rep, both of which are required to post in the stress testing portion of the marketplace here at HF.

P.S. This should really be in partnerships or buyer's bay.

As for selling the booter I have made so far $200.00 in sales already from facebook contacts only, and have a few people who donate like every 2 weeks to help out, I'm tired of using crappy backdoored sources and sources that dont work or are vulnerable. and as for benefits, All credits to you for coding the PHP section, Payment (not immediately, have to make a bit of money but 100% legit you will get it if you want it.) OR Co-Owner profits split 25% to you 75% to me (because 50% of my profits go to the monthly VPS payments so in the end we will both end up with 25% each) and as co owner you do not even have to deal or manage it, bring in that 25% profit for sitting there, dont even have to go to the site ever.

$200 in sales and you can't afford at least some form of payment before handing over the product? Again, no offense, but that seems sketchy. Either way, PM me with private relevant details and I'll get back to you.

Im gonna be very honest with you.

I have coded several high class booter sources from scratch up and this one looks like it has been designed by an african monkey on bath salt.

It looks disgusting!

im sorry for speaking my mind.

Its alright i guess, I just wanted a fast, simple design thats easily accessible, editable and doesn't take 20 minutes to load.

JavaScript (jQuery, especially) is what's slowing down pages. Not CSS.
