So I just finished watching this show and I have to say it was pretty bad. I've seen the average rating for this anime as 7/10 and after watching it, I don't know how people come to the conclusion of thinking this anime as good, never mind people rating it as a masterpiece. This anime got boring really fast for me, but I ended up just wanting to get it finished and it only ended up worse. The only thing I liked about this anime was the art, however I would rate it 4/10 overall. Anyone else seen this anime, your opinions?

I enjoy it. No, its not amazing but its at the very least entertaining for me. I can see where you're coming from though.

Ye, its a waste of time, i dropped it directly and started using my time for real shit.

Hm, id say it had a decent setting, some cliché but interesting characters, ok art, good VAs, but a bad plot.

The protagonist who goes against the established norm and gets put in an awkward position is overdone and while the characters were interesting as I said their individual personalities were too easily separated into categories like "tsundere", "straight-laced", "pushy-childhood-friend", and don't even get me started on the "I hate you, you did something cool, marry me" -type.

I started watching it recently and It's an average show but I'll continue to watch it if there is another season.

They really could've made it good with the ending to the original IS, but alas, they didn't. They chose to completely ignore it. I was just glad to finish it to be honest.

rinluvr - December 23, 2013, 9:40 am

I just finished it today. Its actually getting interesting with that ending imo.

FerTheWin - December 23, 2013, 9:43 am

It's in my top 5 of worse shows. So predictable, so generic, so not-refreshing. It was hard for me to even finish the show. Each episode was pretty much all the girls fawn over MC, then something bad happens then incompetent MC somehow saves highly competent girls from danger.

So much hate on this show. People need to get over it.

They were mystified by panties, that's about it.

I really enjoyed season 1 but, season 2 was not good at all. =/

THIS... What the hell were those screen writers on when they thought up the second season? ?

Infinite Stratos has turned into a fanservice, I stopped enjoying it once the second season started.

IS was fanservice since ep 1. I felt the second season was a bit more interesting though.

Exactly. Like what do you expect from this? It's like a comedy type harem? Seriously look at the tags on MAL. If you expected some sort of Death Note type plot you're clearly mistaken on what this series is about.

We know its a harem. But at least season one had some semblance of story. This season i was excited for and it 'et me down completely. It turned into generic harem #146248. No story or something to set it apart. Just a massive disappointment.

I honestly don't mind. I didn't expect anything for the story. And in some sense it did progress a little. I enjoyed it purely from the fan service. I'd honestly watched too much serious anime lately so I enjoyed this laid back series.

Not the most enticing story but there is one. Although I do feel you with like every other episode just runs off on a tangent.

Honestly it wasn't that bad, even though it was mostly fan service and not much of a storyline. However, I think it ended prematurely, without a solid conclusion, which was a terrible way to end season 2.
