Thread: Taig removed from Evasi0n \(V1.0.1 released\)

SIM-2093634 - December 24, 2013, 4:23 pm

Evasion V1.0.1 has been released, they have pulled Taig (The dodgy chinese app-store from the software)

Disclaimer: You may have to update and restore to a new iDevice before jailbreaking with evasi0n.

I am going to try updating my iPhone 4s from Evasi0n 7 v1.0.0 to Evasi0n 7 v1.0.1 (It says it is not recommended but I will let you know how I get on)

Thanks for the post.

Grin - December 24, 2013, 4:28 pm

I wonder if this means they lost their payday.

SIM-2093634 - December 24, 2013, 4:30 pm

So far I wouldn't recommend updating from v1.0.0 evasion to v1.0.1 (Phone closes the evasion7 app straight away) a restore is probably on the cards !

Hidden™ - December 24, 2013, 4:30 pm

I had no idea it was actually in the software.

wydia - December 24, 2013, 4:30 pm

Removing TAIG is as simple as calling AFCRemovePath(pointer to handle, path as char array)

Although you wouldn't expect the average user to know this :)

SIM-2093634 - December 24, 2013, 4:34 pm

Ok so the re-jailbreak seems to have worked, kind of. I'd recommend a backup and restore if you are thinking of doing it however.

Forget that, my screen went black, phone makes sound..? I am restoring in iTunes and starting fresh. Will report how I get on.

I always thought they paid Saurik to provide Cydia to them...?

Anyway, my current status:

No. I don't think saurik would pay them so he gets more work.

This.

Also Saurik is in good standing with the community ATM, unlike the evasion team member individuals that accepted the offer (excluding the ones that left the team). He wouldn't pay them shit now.

They isn't really much trust left in the JB community. Planetbeing seems to have gone quiet as well. I think we will be waiting on an iOS 8 JB for a while. (Unless Geohot returns to the scene)

In other news, I now have my phone restored and jailbroken on iOS 7.0.4 / evasi0n 1.0.1

Geo was going to sell an exploit (not sure if it was the same one evasion used?) so he won't be helping the free playing dream team.

Trust is there, but they'll always be looked at sideways now.

I have no problem with the JB developers getting compensated for their work. It's when they package Chinese malware into the software I don't like it.

This didn't sit well when some of the apps on there had been pirated, of course.

While I somewhat agree, my initial response to them adding an additional App Store (that you could delete after install) with the bundled JB was "alright kool, it's like another cydia. I could check it out I guess if I they translate it."

But then it turned out to be blatant piracy. And referenced within root files even after uninstalling. And more.

That's what fucked them. I'm not surprised though, it's fucking china lmao.

Taig itself doesn't concern me, it's like using the internet, pirate software is their but it's up to the user to install it or not.

I am concerned with how it was apparently feeding encrypted data back to a server based in China, even if the user installed a non Chinese version of evasi0n. Was this just a rumour?

Nope. Was confirmed by a known techie on the DT in a post on reddit. I don't have the post on hand but it was blown up on twitter too.

@Phobix

I wonder what the results of the latest version will be. I hope for the sake of evad3rs reputation this is no longer happening.

@Xenon

That to me is Chinese Malware

Edit I spoke to soon, posted before I saw Tutelary's post.

Either way I am going to bed so I will leave it with you guys if you want to update or not, have a nice Christmas everybody!

any point in restoring and then re jailbreaking again to the new update?

Most likely has everything "additional" scrapped. I doubt the Chinese would've even paid them.

I've heard it's not recommended by the team themselves but I would say do it. Get that Chinese BS off your phone.

It's still referenced in your system files.

For sake of mind I would've just restored as it's only been out a day, but safe from the removal of the app I don't see any other changes to the new build, so it's up to you.

The files where though, it's probably worth doing just to make sure. You won't be able to restore to iOS 7.0.4 to upgrade after Apple stop signing it.

Try checking Cydia first, you might be able to update the jailbreak in their, I completely forgot.

This. But that last part; the files will remain unless manually deleted by restore or going through each individual file with iFile or SSH, ect.

It's mostly peace of mind.

Neat? - December 24, 2013, 6:53 pm

Personnaly I had to restore before rejailbreak with version 1.0.1

Is it working well for you now??

I don't find 1.0.1 as stable as 1.0.0

strongboy54 - December 25, 2013, 5:40 am

I used 1.0.1 and it worked fine, but I have never jailbroken my phone before so there isn't any previous jailbreaking data or what ever to make it unstable or how ever that works. Only problem I am having now is finding different cydia tweaks which are compatible with iOS 7..

EDIT: Scratch that, installed a few tweaks. Including hidden springboard settings, managed to crash it by putting a folder in a folder. Then when I restarted my iPhone, none of the tweaks were installed and none of the tweaks work if I try to reinstall them. Yay!

Hey dude,

This is because mobile substrate hasn't been updated by Saurik yet, there is a thread in this forum that lists all compatible tweaks, it shouldn't be too long before everything is released.

QoL?? - December 25, 2013, 7:50 am

Alright first of all, the jailbreak was released before Saurik (The guy who made Cydia) had a chance to update anything. Neither did the people that make the tweaks. So this means you have to wait for the tweak developers and Saurik to update them. The jailbreak DOES NOT guarantee you will have access to anything. It jailbreaks and installs Cydia for you. Nothing else.

You need Mobile Substrate to be working for any tweaks that have a page in the default settings app and it has not been updated yet.

If you have an iPhone 5s then most, if not all, tweaks will not work for you because of 64 bit processor.

Edit: Also TaiG (The Chinese Appstore) was only installed on devices that had their default language set to Chinese at the time of jailbreaking. It is only an app store that was bundled with the jailbreak (Like Cydia) so the developers can make some money. (Which is great!) The problem was that there were pirated apps available on the app store. Evad3rs and whoever owned TaiG signed an agreement that there will be no piracy, so when there was the Evad3rs took action and removed it.
