This is a great service indeed, I will make sure to answer as much as I can, as soon as I get my membership back. Accidentally left. Duh.

Tastylicious - December 27, 2013, 2:07 pm

Just joined, already made a thread in the name of Empire... ?

Well, good luck!

This is a great service, thanks for making this OP.

Able wondered how to find a vulnerability in a site and then how to exploit it into getting the admin panel and then uploading a deface page.

But this should hopefully clean this forum up a bit.

This section is continually being spammed by threads asking how to DDoS, how to hack accounts, and where to start/begin with hacking.

I truly hope this helps answer all of those questions so that this section can stopped being spammed.

Because of the contents of your post, I can conclude that you have little/no knowledge in the field of web-hacking at the moment. You should take it upon yourself to look into SQL injection vulnerabilities via Google, YouTube, or the HackForums search bar.

Redacted.

Oh, didn't even read the rules, guess I can't post.

Wapiti is the most convenient tool to exploit when scanning for vulnerabilities out of all the programs that are coded in Python.

Earlier today, there was a thread in The Lounge that was logging users IPs.

Not sure if this will help, but you can read this thread to try and get a better feel of what was going on: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3956340>

The author of the thread has an image in his signature.
If you followed the the link of the image, it would take you to the website where the home page is an image. Not sure how to explain it. I'll provide a link if requested, but it will log your IP.

By viewing this image, a user's IP will be logged and outputted to a .txt file.

Any idea how this is done? If you don't want to post how it's done to the public, feel free to PM me.

Of course I know how it's done. I am SlOw, aren't I?

PHP Code

<?php
$logfile= 'log.txt';
$IP = $_SERVER['REMOTE_ADDR'];
$logdetails= date("F j, Y, g:i a") . ' : ' . '<a href=http://dnsstuff.com/tools/city.ch?ip='.$_SERVER[
'REMOTE_ADDR'].' target=_blank>'.$_SERVER['REMOTE_ADDR'].''; $fvp = fopen($logfile, "r+");
fwrite($fp, $logdetails, strlen($logdetails));
fclose($fp);

If most of your slaves appear, the others are either offline, or they have removed the virus from their computers.

Holy shit, just no. Copying a 7 years old code has nothing to do with what he wrote. Most of it is outdated anyways, there's no need to add a length handler over fwrite() as since PHP 5 it became unnecessary.

I coded a nifty script that should give him the answer he actually needs, assuming that's what he meant.

<http://th3ponywizard.me/HF/ImageLogger.php>

The above image will log just about anything. I couldn't bother with fetching custom .htaccess ReWrite rules to actually make that thing usable in forums because you (whoever asked) will just go and abuse it

Logs go into

<http://th3ponywizard.me/HF/Monitoring.txt>

To delete logs

<http://th3ponywizard.me/HF/ImageLogger.php?DelMonitor>

Code's at

<http://th3ponywizard.me/HF/source.php?file=ImageLogger.php>

Oh yeah I wasn't actually allowed to post here. Whoops.

Also, remove the name of the Empire from this thread!
