This tutorial has been made because of all the community alerts for the "TeamViewer" Exploit.

[img]http://i.minus.com/jhQjuhA4WURzS.png[/img]

Run TeamViewer -> Extras [Tab] -> Options

[img]http://i.minus.com/jBfPoh75Begoa.png[/img]

Advanced -> Show Advanced Options

[img]http://i.minus.com/jdueRyxAelCZt.png[/img]

Access Control -> Change "Full Access" into "Confirm All" -> Press the "OK" button

Great tutorial nas, I hope everyone uses it. No one will be using my PC without permission :)

diiaz - December 29, 2013, 1:21 pm

Nice clear tutorial. Hope that we can stop the BTC stealers with this.

SOAP. - December 29, 2013, 1:23 pm

"TheGreat" Don alrighty. But nice tut bruh. Keep up the good work. ?

?Jeff ?The ?Killer - December 29, 2013, 1:23 pm

This is excellent for people who got their btc stolen from teamviewer.

Gizmo - December 29, 2013, 1:23 pm

Great, thanks. It's really simple, but helpfull!

Perfect tutorial. I also like the .gifs .. ;)

lenaos - December 29, 2013, 1:24 pm

Good Tutorial, Nas. I'm sure it will be useful to some.

SIM-1166170 - December 29, 2013, 1:24 pm

Thanks -Nas I've been needing this!

Nas - December 29, 2013, 1:27 pm

No problem guys! Just stay safe.

It's pretty pathetic how people are trying to scam others because of this TeamViewer Feature.

vitafortis - December 29, 2013, 1:30 pm

Nice. I don't use TV on myself, but even the most simple steps such as those help.

So can you tell me what exactly this does? I understand it requires confirmation for something but for what? Uploading external programs to your computer or something?

ZuGgY - December 30, 2013, 8:39 am

Thanks for this man.

I dunno but I'm more of a join.me user.

Since many people have noticed, people tend to use TeamViewer and Disable your mouse and keyboard so you cant do anything and send payments.

So what this does is that once they try to do that it will ask for your confirmation rather then doing it and you cant stop it.

So you will get a pop up saying " Would you like to give X Control? " or " Would you like X to disable Mouse and Keyboard? " So, all you got to do is click "No".

Join.me is very laggy, but it's a lot safer.

Steven Paul - December 30, 2013, 8:45 am

Great tutorial, OP. Thanks, I just changed my settings. Thank you!

Nice tutorial, this should help a lot of people especially exchangers.

accounterrorbot - December 30, 2013, 10:09 am

Great tutorial! I actually think that this will help loads of people that gets scammed over BTC.

Decompiler - December 30, 2013, 12:45 pm

Good tutorial for the retards who hyperventilate when someone turns off their mouse.

Nas - December 30, 2013, 1:25 pm

Thanks guys, and yah it should. Hopefully they will take sue of this.

Hannibal Rising - December 30, 2013, 1:27 pm

Thank you for this great tutorial.

Will definitely come in handy!

Wafflemonger - December 30, 2013, 2:27 pm

I agree on this only to a certain extent. I swear to god, if someone ever asks me to help them with their computer and it's on "Confirm all" I just disconnect and say "Fuck it." There are better ways to do this, like not allowing file share, or freezing the screen, or touching the teamviewer box, etc. However this is a blanket approach and while is good, if you plan on having someone help you over teamviewer, they'll rage quit within minutes.

EziNet - January 7, 2014, 10:23 pm

Awesome tutorial Nas. BTC stealer be gone!

nalgar - January 9, 2014, 6:22 pm

nice tutorial man i really simple to make it

Nas - January 9, 2014, 6:58 pm

No problem guys! Making sure everyone stays safe and don't get fucked over.

Roller - January 9, 2014, 6:59 pm

Just use Join.me. It's really awesome and secure. You can just give people a website URL to view your PC.

- 1) It's very laggy and slow.
- 2) It's not up to speed.
- 3) It's only 3 simple & quick steps to use TeamViewer Securely.
