Thread: Proven scammers in deal disputes get banned

I had an idea that there's a moderator is in the deal disputes section. If a thread is resolved and the scammer is proven to be a scammer then they get banned from hf, IP blocked, all user threads in the sellers marketplace get removed. Either that or restrict users from accessing the market place.

At the moment nothing really happens when there's a report that is proven correct.

Maybe the idea could be restructured slightly but it would make the section more important and hopefully make hf a better place.

Rule suggestions are automatically denied.

And this will require for a staff member to get involved in deals, which they don't. If it were to be a member who has all those perks that moderates that section, wouldn't you think that they'll get paid to agree with the other members side of the dispute?

Staff enjoys to ban rather members for a character in their name that they have for over 6 months instead of scammers who steal the money of our members.

Its sad.
