

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Do people pay for phone number lists?

KOOMZ - December 30, 2013, 7:11 pm

So I was just wondering as I have a massive list of UK numbers if people would pay for massive lists of them?

EziNet - December 30, 2013, 8:33 pm

I would, i need this service sometime.

USMC Chris - December 30, 2013, 8:35 pm

If you manage to pass yourself as a legitimate business person to a telemarketing business, you could sell them for goodish money.

m4dh4ck3r - December 30, 2013, 8:35 pm

It's considered a dump and dumps are not allowed to be sold on hf.

Orgy - December 30, 2013, 9:21 pm

I don't know about the UK, but here in the US we call these "Phone Books" and everyone has about 50

Monetization - December 30, 2013, 10:21 pm

(Dec 30, 2013 10:21 PM)Orgy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't know about the UK, but here in the US we call these "Phone Books" and everyone has about 50

I thought everyone in the US was up to date and kept numbers in their cell phone? ?

But yeah, We got phone books ! lol.

Kinda Old - December 30, 2013, 10:27 pm

The only way I can see them being worth anything, is if they are specialized.

Example 1:

A bunch of phone numbers of diabetic clients. >> Sell to a diabetic marketing group. >> Profit.

Otherwise, a phone book would be used.

mediabooster - December 30, 2013, 10:40 pm

I once worked at a golf resort for rich snowbirds with there Rv's to vacation at. Every now and then someone would come to the main office where everyone would sign and attempt to get the employes to sell all of the snowbirds phones numbers.

I could see how a nice compiled list of targeted numbers would convert.