Thread: [Scammed by member Kirito. \[UID: 1254330 \] for measly \$8](#)

DeJaVu - January 4, 2014, 4:23 pm

User Kirito. UiD: 1254330

User scammed me $8. I bought a COD: ghosts license transfer from him. I sent him funds and when I logged on the license transfer was used on 11/18/2013. When I told him this, he went offline and stopped replying to my PM's. I'm not sure how to dispute on paypal. I payed using "goods and services". What should I do now?

Never thought I would have to use my elgato for a HF dispute? :p33

Update: User just sent me this message xD

If you paid for goods and services, you should still be able to get it back. Click on the transaction and click on unauthorized payment. Either that, or just call Paypal.

Denitorious - January 4, 2014, 6:13 pm

Yeah, if he really scammed you, then make sure to chargeback.

Chitoge - January 5, 2014, 7:49 pm

DeJaVu - November 21, 2014, 7:16 pm

User just sent me a message to remove his report because "I should already have the game." Be careful guys.

Lol. This scam report seems legit and the scammer is just tryin' to keep this in the water.

Sorry but this looks so fishy in so many ways.

He gave you the acc, true there was no LT as agreed but you could have used the acc, change the PW/EMAIL etc.

Also you now mention he pulled the acc back, any proof of that?.

I dealt with him 2 weeks ago 50$, no issues. He and his partner are even providing support for the product after they sold the Software to another person.

I can see that you are new here. Let me explain first that not one time does he say that I stole his account, and even if I changed his xbox password, he can easily reset it through his email. GTFO my thread with your lame excuse of a scammer friend.

Kongou - November 22, 2014, 1:42 pm

Open a dispute for not received goods, then make it complicated.

Pretend you ordered a real item, for example a gaming mouse.
Then complain that you didn't receive your mouse yet, that you didn't get tracking information, etc.

When you can escalate to a Paypal claim, do it.

@ penguin it could be fake just like this.

Damn, who scams 8$??
Good luck ?

Baysick - November 22, 2014, 11:36 pm

Does he know he can get $8 and then some working an hour at McDonalds? No joke, it's a non saturated method that proves to work no matter how much time goes by.

NurSpec - November 22, 2014, 11:39 pm

Lots of sketchiness in this thread, from both parties.

Obli - November 24, 2014, 6:37 am

Uhm, how is there any sketchiness exactly? It's clear as day Kirito just tried to get away with it.
