PPI or "Pay Per Install" is an alternate version of PPD or "Pay Per Download".

The difference being PPD requires people filling out surveys and PPI requires the installation of a file.

The PPI network of your choice (we will get to that) will provide you with a link to a download page where the name of the program can be changed to fit your niche.

Your job is to advertise this link and make people download and install it.

Pay Per Install is 100% legal and has no risk whatsoever

Some of you may ask "Why is PPI better than PPD?". The simple answer is it's not.

The profit from the two completely depends on your traffic and how you decide to advertise your link.

For some people, installing a program is much easier than filling out a survey. But for others, traffic from countries such as France will yield a much higher profit when doing PPD.

Which method you want to use is completely up to you but we are here to teach PPI.

Your first step in learning PPI is picking a network. We will be going over two, their pros and cons and which one to pick.

In the end it's going to be completely up to you which one to pick. We are simply informing you of both.

- NOTE -

There are way more PPI networks than the two we will be going over.

The reason we picked these two is because we have experience with them as well as payment proof.

We know these two can be trusted so keep in mind if you are trying to find an alternate, they may be scammers.

PerInstallBucks.com is the first PPI network. They payout net 15 with a minimum payout of $20. They DO NOT accept traffic from illegal sources such as exploits or botnets. Traffic from email, adult sites and gambling sites are also prohibited. Referrals receive 10% profit. All installed products are 100% clean and safe.

- Pros -

Easy to navigate
Very high rates
Good support

- Cons -

Basic install statistics
Some installs have been detected by AVs (But are not malicious)
Site designed in MS paint

Media-kings.com is the second network we use. It pays net 14 with a minimum payout of $50. Gambling sites, adult sites, botnets and exploit traffic is strictly prohibited.

- Pros -

Easy to navigate
Good support
In-depth install statistics

- Cons -

Low rates
Higher minimum payout

Both sites payout through Paypal but also use others sites if needed. We use both because they both have their ups and downs.

When starting out we recommend you pick one and focus on getting the most leads possible. Reading the FAQs of the network you pick will also increase your knowledge on them.

The most important part of PPI and earning money is advertising your installation link. It can be customized to fit the niche of your choice.

Remember when picking a niche, don't pick an overly saturated or advertising could be tough.

A great way to find a niche is using google's keyword tool.

Once you have found a profitable niche you would like to try out, grab your installation link from the network you are using.

Make sure to change the link to a keyword relating to your niche.
For example:

Code `http://www.shar-m.com/download/1/976000/{REQUEST_STRING}`

If this is your installation link and you are using a Skype Hack niche you might do something like this:

Code `http://www.shar-m.com/download/1/976000/SkypeHackFull`

Doing so will change your installation page to something like this:

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Youtube is the ultimate advertising site for PPI, simply because most people that are looking to download a crack, hack or leak will go there.

Youtube is quickly growing with more users everyday so advertising there is a must.

So you simply need to upload a HQ video on a profitable, unsaturated niche and rank it. But what makes a good video?

- Original Content -

Videos made by you will greatly decrease the risk of being flagged for copyright as well as having a greater impression on viewers.

- Speaking -

Speaking in your videos will increase the legitimacy of your niche and will allow you to get more installs.

No one wants to hear loud, obnoxious music while some unknown person slowly types in a text document.

- Proof -

This is the biggest thing about making a believable video. The more believable the video, the more inclined people will be to install the program.

Another good place to advertise a link is facebook/twitter. You can pay someone to post/tweet your link which will greatly increase your installs. The downside to this is after one post it will slowly get lost within the other tweets and posts.

To rank your Youtube videos you need to boost it and meet Youtube's ranking criteria. Youtube ranks videos based on minutes watched, likes, favourites, backlinks and social shares.

- NOTE -

Comments DO NOT increase a video's rank.

They merely provide proof for your niche and are still good to have.

Buying high retention views, likes, etc... is a must for ranking your video.

Here are some links to get you started:

Viral Socials

If you don't have money to get started, try out these links:

Gigaviews gives 500 views free

Enhanced Views

Hitleap

Make sure that they are High Retention views since Youtube counts minutes watched, not views. Buy around 20 likes per 1000 views. Buy some favorites, backlinks and social shares.

That's pretty much all there is to PPI. Although there are many ways to advertise your link, we find Youtube to be the most profitable.

Thanks for reading this tutorial and please keep this thread alive by posting a thanks. We would really appreciate it.

How much is the average per install? Pretty sure it's lower than PPD but i think this way i'm open to way more niches :D

tkmremi - January 6, 2014, 11:06 pm

Thanks ! :)

It completely depends on the traffic. US installs usually come in with about $1.00 whereas PPD the rates seem to fluctuate more. If you are good at PPD than it probably will pay more but for beginners it seems like PPI is the way to go. Of course it is completely up to you.

herowolf - January 15, 2014, 1:24 pm

You much do you get paid on average for an install?
