Thread: [Can you crack the code? \[Challenge #4\] - CRACKED! :D](#)

TheDubWubCub - January 15, 2014, 8:56 pm

CONGRATS TO:

qwantum

He has successfully cracked the code, although there were some others that were just too close, but rules are rules.

I've just awarded qwantum with his $50 prize!

Thank you all for trying! I really hope you attempt the next challenge and if you wish to be notified of when the next one will be posted, message me! :D

HOW WAS THE CODE MADE!?:

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

The answer: MESSAGE ME YOUR FAVORITE QUOTE

<http://pastebin.com/Y60RFm3D>

Hello HF! :D

I have finally saved up enough for another one of these contests! :D

This time, I've decided to only have 1 code to crack for 1 prize($50).

Hopefully this one isn't too easy and at least gives you a challenge haha.

Previous Challenges:

Challenge #1

Challenge #2

Challenge #3

Good luck to all of you and happy cracking! ?

Hints:

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

- Below are some examples that can help you
- A password is not required to decipher the code.
- The code to be deciphered isn't random words/letters, it's a sentence. :]
- Pay close attention to the posts on this thread since they may contain other helpful hints! :D
- Pay close attention to the hints! I will post new hints randomly, but i'll most likely give you a heads up with a new post on this thread. :]
- Once you realize how it works, you'll realize it really wasn't complicated at all.

- Just as an example, if you count Caesar shift as 1 method of encoding and geometric ciphering as another method, then there would be a total of 2 methods used for this code. (only one of these mentioned were used along with another method.

- 1/25/14 | Alphabet | Word (Opposite day | Uses the English alphabet | Pertains to the individual word)

- Last two letters are "TE" & first letter is "M"

- Lutan is ridiculously close to cracking the code, but has yet to post about it. Hopefully he'll offer you a tip. :]

- It's not a question nor is it a statement, it's more of a command. :]

- Once you've successfully cracked the code it will tell you what to do, once I see that you have cracked it and done what it has asked, boom! you've won! ;D

Already stuck lol

1st Example:

Input: HACKFORUMS
Output: IFNZKVSPDR

2nd Example:
Input: HELLO WORLD
Output: NBJTG IGNJC

3rd Example:
Input: CRYPTO TEST
Output: ROZQAR CZDK

There's the same amount of letters in the input as the output so I'd say each letter would be assigned to another letter, however it doesn't seem to be the case as H(ex1) would be I and H(ex2) would be N... Also that would mean W is also assigned to I. Hmm.. Looking forward to other responses. Are we allowed to help each other out? xD

Sorry, but the closest to crack the code besides the one person, who is mentioned in the hints, would pretty much be most of you. Those who submitted an answer starting with "M" and ending with "TE" and also to those who figured out what it's not.

I can't stress it enough, but if you truly look & pay attention to the hints you can solve it and if you help each other then you'll defiantly solve it.

I would like to second this.

"Message me with favorite quote" is improper, however "Message me your favorite quote" is not.

Ok, well, there's something that you yourself are missing. The sending the quote was the proof you solved it, not the answer.

Agreed, we done gone and goofed, but I'd still like to complain that while he may have gotten the 8 letter word, he got the wrong 4 letter word, but understood the "command" well enough to "solve" the code.

I can send it back if its that big of a deal lol. I spent over an hour on this having fun, wasnt under the impression everyone here is so concerned over the money. In my defense the answer was sending you the quote which i did. But ya sorry everyone not trying to get you all mad.

vitalitasia - January 16, 2014, 9:12 pm

So damn close... I'd prefer more logical stuff as a contest. This kind makes me guess the solution, I don't really think of the way because the way you encrypted it is damn random. I prefer something like virtual paper chase. Like you create 3 paper chases à 10$ or so and one clue leads to another. OP do you understand what I mean? ?

GODDAMNIT can we please stop bitching around? You did what the code said, therefore you deserve the money. Damn. This one stupid word doesn't matter, it doesn't change the command.

It's not the money I care about. Yes, I like money, but I was more concerned over correctness. It's an OCD thing I have from being ultra competitive.
