Thread: Mobile version for this site.

Im suggesting that their should be a mobile version of this site because most of us aren't in the computer the entire time, sometimes at school and sometimes at work. With the mobile version it wouldn't be a hassle to navigate across the forums with the mobile version unlike if we stick to the "web" version in our phones.

There's one being developed, this has been suggested dozens of times.
You should use the search button before you post :)

I bet it's been quite a hassle for you in your 2 hours here.

Omni has mentioned before that a mobile app is being considered for the site. Details about it are sketchy so we're not entirely clear on where in the process that is to be made. At the very least we know that Omni knows mobile browsing can be considerably better and needs to address that sometime in the future.

With all that said, the default theme for HF works pretty well in my experience on mobile devices. It's not nearly as good as it could be, but it's definitely work-able.
