

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Computer Compromised

Reciprocal - January 19, 2014, 6:18 pm

I think my computer has been compromised. I log into my twitter account just now and I see my profile picture and my banner has been changed to some random faggot pretending to be me its fucking creepy. Could I get some help, Im not sure what to do but Im planning on changing every account password of mine.[/align]

Komodo - January 19, 2014, 6:20 pm

If you think that your computer is being Ratted try to use Malwarebytes to see if you can detect it. If you think someone just has access to you Twitter account, change your password.

Reciprocal - January 19, 2014, 6:22 pm

(Jan 19, 2014 07:20 PM)Komodo Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If you think that your computer is being Ratted try to use Malwarebytes to see if you can detect it. If you think someone just has access to you Twitter account, change your password.

Alright, I will do this. I don't know if this helped but the faggot changed my name to "popouche%1" the hell does that even mean?

Komodo - January 19, 2014, 6:26 pm

That did not really help. I think your friend is just messing with you. Change your password, and do not worry about it.

Jagster™ - January 19, 2014, 6:40 pm

You may Ratted or Keylogged. First scan your machine with Malwarebytes.

If nothing is detected I suggest your open Task manager and look for any suspicious processes running, if you need help with this step please take a screen shot of the Task Manager window and post it in this thread.

P.S.

If your in a habit of downloading sketchy files/visiting sketchy websites, you can download a 3rd party software called KeyScrambler. This will prevent keystrokes from being logged successfully, therefor preventing your web accounts such as Twitter from being compromised.

Aura - January 19, 2014, 7:40 pm

(Jan 19, 2014 07:20 PM)Komodo Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If you think that your computer is being Ratted try to use Malwarebytes to see if you can detect it. If you think someone just has access to you Twitter account, change your password.

Malwarebytes is far from doing the job if his computer is actually really compromised.

OP, if you think your system is compromised and someone have access to your information, I suggest you to change all your accounts information via another computer, and open a thread in the MRT section to get assisted by a MRT member that will help you clean your computer. You can post in the MRT section here :

<https://hackforums.net/forumdisplay.php?fid=115>

Be sure to follow their thread creation procedure by providing all the required logs listed here :

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3788670>

Good luck.

Gustav. - January 20, 2014, 6:12 am

I'd go right ahead and execute what Aura stated above. Be sure to read the stick thread, as they contain the rules towards the MRT section. Alas, good luck with disinfecting your system.