Thread: Add to Marketplace: Coders Marketplace

Eternal - January 20, 2014, 2:50 pm

I want to find a coder for 143VPN and the first thing I want to do is go to the coding section to ask people who are proficient in coding. Problem is, I will be banned.

The reason I would want to do that is because there is no section in the marketplace for this niche, and there really should be. It would make a lot of things easier, for instance a request would be more likely to be seen by coders if there was a section for it rather than by people who have little to no experience.

Doxicity - January 20, 2014, 2:52 pm

I think this is a great idea. There is a section in Graphics for this exact thing, why not have such a section for coding? Since people aren't allowed to ask such things, about how is the best coder to hire, they won't bother dealing through HF, they will just take the project to somewhere such as freelancers.

Charger - January 20, 2014, 2:53 pm

Pointless to add an entire section for it...

Partnerships, Hiring, and Personnel

Kansas - January 20, 2014, 2:53 pm

I agree tenfold, I had a web development shop opened awhile back in the service offering forum and it got little to no traffic, and it wasn't even worth my time any more. People don't know to go to that part of the forum to look for coding jobs, and that's the only relevant place you can post them without getting banned as you said, or warned if posted in the wrong place in the marketplace.

Sulfer - January 20, 2014, 2:53 pm

I also would like this section made b/c it's hard to find coders on hackforums and this section will bring a good amount of them. I have projects I would like to get made as I don't code yet. So I truly believe this section would be a great addition to hackforums :)

logging*machine - January 20, 2014, 2:54 pm

I think this is un-needed for multiple reasons.

The section will die out every now and then since there is a service offerings section and buyers buy.

Partnerships, Hiring, and Personnel

Then why is there an entire section for Paid Graphics Works. Partnerships, Hiring, Personell is a much wider spectrum of jobs and offers. A coding paid coding section could apply to both sellers and buys. When people need coding work done, they will know exactly where to go, and find someone to get it done quicker.

The Graphics Market gets posted in constantly daily, isn't coding services just as desirable as graphics? The forums are full of innovators with great ideas, but are looking for people to bring there ideas to life. There is a sub-section for social networking, and graphics, what harm would coding do?

Bonfire - January 20, 2014, 3:02 pm

I fully agree with this.

For those who say "Post in the Buyers Bay", thats for buying complete programs and such, not for services.

For those who say "Post in the Service Offerings Section", what if you don't like a coder from there? If you want a knowledgeable and able coder for the job, you make a listing directly for the job. You don't find a general coder who's going to half-ass the project.

Plus, it would help organize everything.

monkaS - January 20, 2014, 3:05 pm

1+ on this.

A lot people want plugin development done, which there isn't a real section for this. I fully agree.

Dragosthethird - January 20, 2014, 4:28 pm

I have to agree with this. I normally go to other sites because I need something done. When I could just post/look in this section for someone to do it.

Soccer - January 20, 2014, 4:38 pm

This seems like a great idea, but only problem will be coders that aren't actually coders. People will just take a random source and change it up.

Douchebag # 145 - January 20, 2014, 4:39 pm

I do hope that this section is created. I support and think it's a great and useful idea.

EDIT;

That could happen whether or not a section is made specifically to find coders. Say, for instance, OP posted in Buyers Bay. The same thing could happen there.

RDCA - January 20, 2014, 9:24 pm

I agree with this, despite the probably lack of activity. Something in the service section for: Web Dev, coding support, application development, and scripts/sources.

Sudsy - January 20, 2014, 9:54 pm

I like this idea, very cool. I'd sure use it if I need to hire coders

deiski - January 20, 2014, 10:04 pm

We have service offerings, I don't see why we'd need coding.

SHADOW REALM - January 20, 2014, 10:18 pm

Will be VERY helpful. The service offerings forum get's overrun with over services.

<http://pastebin.com/44VLXtx8>

That is a list of 50 links that are either buying or offering it

Eternal - January 21, 2014, 10:00 pm

Here is another good reason, look at this shit. My thread requesting a coder was killed by all this stuff, all unrelated to coding. If you want a coder, you have to find one I have noticed. Not have one find you and place a bid on a project.

Spoiler (Click to View)

kencompadm - January 21, 2014, 10:05 pm

I agree with this. This would be very nice to have a section of that sort on this forums. +1

Fox™ - January 21, 2014, 10:05 pm

I think this is a great idea. I support it, because I could offer people some of my own coding services. c;

Cryptic™ - January 21, 2014, 10:08 pm

IMO theres not really much of a demand for it in terms of people that will offer coding services. If you want real coders, your best bet is <http://www.freelancer.com/> or other sites like that.

I don't think a coding SF in the MKT Place would have a lot people offering coding services, like the GFX Market Place SF. It would probably just get filled with people posting requests.

1n9i9c7om - January 21, 2014, 10:13 pm

I support this idea. I also see people asking to complete paid offers for them - this suggestion could help to clean it up a bit as well.

And as it'll be obviously easier to find jobs or to find a coder, I think this suggestion should be supported.

!Soul - January 21, 2014, 10:22 pm

I definitely support this idea. I was actually searching for a web developer the other day and couldn't find any through the search menu nor any sections so I'll definitely be using the section if it gets made.

Xerotic - January 21, 2014, 10:42 pm

"Service Offerings" or "Partnerships, Hiring, and Personnel" would be the closest options, but I believe that they even do not fully encompass what you are asking.

I agree. A Marketplace for coding for hire and coding services (all one forum) would be ideal.

deiski - January 21, 2014, 11:19 pm

I would support this if you can sell sources of your programs.

B0$$ - January 22, 2014, 2:25 am

Not really an efficient idea. there is the Partnerships, Hiring and Personnel section for this.

Immensify - January 29, 2014, 11:55 pm

There's a hiring section for this... not necessary.

I don't have an issue with that, that may as well be asking for an investment, not a job done.

Sigma - January 30, 2014, 6:19 pm

Services section is where you are supposed to ask for Coders, but no Coders ever visit that area.

VRUMM - January 30, 2014, 6:22 pm

I support this as it would greatly enhance the marketplace. ATM if I have to go find a coder, I would have to visit 4-5 different forums and will still struggle finding a coder.

Eternal. - February 8, 2014, 5:08 pm

Still think this is a good idea. Found another coder for my project off site, but I think I should have been able to find someone onsite. At least should have had to opportunity to find someone a bit easier.

Thank you for not closing this yet, hopefully it is in your thoughts for the future.

RDCA - February 8, 2014, 5:10 pm

I still think this would be a good addition to Hack Forums. It may help bring in more quality projects as well to HF.

clark.dll - February 8, 2014, 7:28 pm

It would spark a lot of great services too. Web devs and software devs would all have a place contribute and earn some money. I'm 100% on board with this idea.

Gustav. - February 9, 2014, 4:45 am

I agree, this would definitely bring a positive effect towards the community.

coolerfarmer - February 9, 2014, 4:46 am

No need to have a marketplace for it

Aura - February 11, 2014, 5:09 pm

No matter the section, there will always be scammers, always. And it's like that on every single forum, you can't really prevent it.

eightz - February 11, 2014, 5:34 pm

I think putting it in the coding section will keep it alive rather than putting it in the marketplace. Vouch though, might be a lack of activity but it doesn't hurt because it WILL be used anyways.

Simple, look at who you are dealing with. Scammers can fish anywhere on the HF marketplace. I mean, unless you are suggesting the Cryptocurrency and buyer bay sections should be shut down.

You can by looking into the member before dealing with them. I wouldn't trust some random who has no proof of his capabilities.

Tell me if this will work.

I added a forum "Service Requests" and under it are the subforums "Partnerships, Hiring, and Personnel" and "Rewards and Small Favors".

I added 3 thread prefixes to the new Service Requests forum.

When I looked at the existing Graphic Market under Service Offerings most of the threads I saw were shops and graphic service offerings. The Service Requests section is for people that want to post specific hiring request including coding, development, and graphics.
