

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: [How to infect schools pc \[Need help\]](#)

zooppa - January 22, 2014, 10:09 am

So I would like to put a keylogger on my schools pc, but the problem is: I tried running random .exe file and it asks for Admin username and password...(it does that for every exe file)

Those computers are somehow connected to the school network or something, so I guess thats going to make this even harder (maybe there are some l33t hackers in here who can do anything) but I have no idea how to get the computer to run the .exe file...

Nemuri - January 22, 2014, 10:24 am

This is completely retarded and you will get caught, totally not worth it.

demimur - January 22, 2014, 10:27 am

Tries to put a dvd for hack pass of admin pc and then u will hack it :D

FawkesSake - January 22, 2014, 5:11 pm

2 mistakes:

- 1: wrong section
- 2: The fact that you posted this Shit online set you up to get caught

HiVInfection - January 22, 2014, 5:19 pm

Hacking school computers are not smart and not worth the time or punishment.

phenominum - January 22, 2014, 10:32 pm

It's really not worth it, what do you want to achieve with it?

Rofled when you said ; "maybe there are some l33t hackers in here who can do anything"

Imgone25 - January 23, 2014, 3:04 am

By even posting this on a public forum where tons of people view it is already wrong and is a flaw in your plan. Think things through before you do them, ask questions. One for example would be How would I do such a thing? What are the consequences? What are the chances of getting caught? WHATS EVEN THE POINT OF DOING THIS!???

Piratehax - January 24, 2014, 2:07 pm

Most schools have DeepFreeze installed onto there pc's so the keylogger would be taken off with just one restart...

ZuGgY - January 24, 2014, 2:10 pm

Honestly OP, I would stay the fuck away from school and government hacking as serious shit can happen to you...

ModMinistrator - January 24, 2014, 5:25 pm

Its seriously not worth it

The risks of getting a hard punishment is high ?

Shiroe - January 24, 2014, 6:13 pm

i tried to put a keylogger on the computer even know it worked i got caught and got in some shit don't do it. It isn't worth it

trojan. - January 24, 2014, 6:29 pm

Not worth it, if anything it's a waste of time mate; don't do it.

Coobro - January 24, 2014, 6:33 pm

What do u achieve by hacking school computers? There is nothing on there that is valuable and will be easily detected.

ijkirsc - January 24, 2014, 6:37 pm

If I were you? I would buy/make a physical keylogger, the more covert the better. That way you can potentially get admin credentials or at least someone other than your own. Experiment from there.

This is exceptionally hard thing to do because of the way schools have their computers setup. Usually through a domain server which is like cloud computing. Many different computers accessing a template of information (OS) and sometimes can be impossible to do anything more than add documents, pictures, etc.. (ie: changing background, homepage...) because it refreshes all this info after a logout/login.

The best way to hack this type of elite setup is through HARDWARE. Physical access to the server would be ideal but then there's still question of password, getting caught, legalities, etc...

coolwhites222 - January 25, 2014, 10:47 am

Would not risk this dude, as you will get caught. But the method i would use would be to log in as an admin using some sort of exploit. E.g(Like replacing sticky key files with cmd, so that when shift is pressed 5 times cmd opens). And then once logged in as an admin, you should have no problem. But honestly, you will get fucked over. :)

?

jhacks00 - January 25, 2014, 11:58 am

Dont bother its not worth it. I got detention for just using Linux at my school!