Black?jack - February 1, 2014, 6:17 am

Apologies for all the web server errors, that should be cleared up soon.
For now, as annoying as it is, trying a couple more times usually fixes it.

No, I am not buying APIs from anybody.
I am using my own antivirus software instances in my own isolated VMs.

And I would add ponies to the site, but I don't really have anywhere to put them without them being intrusive or annoying :P

Sorry about that, it is a bit buggy right now, trying to pinpoint the cause of that soon.

Also, NoDistribute actually distributes.
Just letting you know.

Oh my fucking god. Bronies of HF.

STOP REMAKING THINGS THAT HAVE ALREADY BEEN DONE, AND STOP THINKING THAT STAMPING PONIES ON IT MAKES IT NEW AND UNIQUE. JESUS CHRIST. Ugh. We have enough scanners that don't distribute.

I'm not claiming/thinking it makes it new and unique.
What makes it unique is that it is actually free without any limitations, and never will be paid or limited. Most scanners that don't distribute are either a paid subscription, or offer an absurd maximum amount of scans per day, usually only one or two.

I could have easily named this "Blackjack's Web Scanner" or "SkidScan" (It was named both while it was in development), and nothing would be different about it.

A friend of mine just told me to rename it as a joke and I decided to do it.

Well rename it back. There's no need to shit ponies on everything. Anyways, I see how it's unique/different now. But there's been like 2-3 different worthless programs in this section, like copies of LOIC, but with ponies. It's been irritating the shit out of me. Sorry for being rude. GL with your website ?

P.S. SkidScan is a lot more neat and creative than the current name you got. You should do that.

I know what you mean about shitting ponies on everything, which is why the only thing "pony" about the site is the name. (No images etc.)

And yes, I've seen the programs you're talking about as well. I don't approve of them.

I might rename it if enough people complain.

So you have nothing nice to say about it? Yet its completely free and run for no profit at all?

It has a word on it, nicely done buddy. Make a userscript and get over the name.

I apologized and the owner understood my point of view. How about you do the same? Not everyone wants to involve ponies in everything they do in their lives. And it's not just a word, it's a direct reference to MLP.

Moon Rock - February 2, 2014, 11:24 pm

Also, yay, we've reached 100 scans!
(Actually nearly 1500 now~)

Due to an unrelated temporary compromise, the scanner is currently down. Sorry about that.

Back up! There were some issues with the SQL server, but I have fixed them now.

If it starts being needed I will just rewrite the uploader in C# and use that.

Why edit my quote?

I never said I was going to use the RazorSkid code, I said I was going to write my own version in C# to emulate the headers exactly.

Actually, I edited it from "I'm going to rewrite it" to "I'm going to rewrite it in C#."

Nice job blocking me from your API.

TBH I'm getting tired of this, if you manage to block it again I'll probably quit it and work on my own thing.

I had a private scanner with most of the AVs from VirusTotal sometime mid last year.

I got bored, never finished it, and eventually reinstalled my OS, forgetting about the VM with the scanner stuff and erasing it.

Did you ever consider the fact that I may have gotten in contact with AV companies and asked if they had a command-line scanner internally that wasn't on their site?

just give up, you don't have the skill and anyone can see that by the C&P in your source.

TBH the only thing I C+P'd in any of my source for this was the BootstrapCDN <link /> for Bootstrap.

...What?

You're saying that because I use a common Python construct for opening files, I C+P'd it?

OK. Your crypter probably uses a fair number of if statements.

LOL U C+P'D THEM ALL LOL()L

Locking this until I have time to fix it again, might be back, might not, dunno.
