comments that make me feel puzzled. You name networking terms which hints you have SOME knowledge, but then make this dumb question to contradict the theory of you knowing something. I showed a match between two hacked server's IPs to point that SQLi isn't the attack used on both cases.

Deface isn't stolen, it's the Pernicious devs page which I'm pretty sure Zayne made, although I don't agree with this I'm pretty sure the majority of Pernicious devs members are far better at web app hacking than yourself.

Personally I would of iFramed an EK in every index but it's whatever I guess. Not something I agree with.

Is that somewhat a personal attack? Because I find that pretty amusing.

Although, I never mentioned that these defaces were ever stolen, I never even checked them. I generalized this whole section, since barely any of the posts are of any use and just spam in this section about defaces.

"Personal attack"?

I simply stated that there is a good chance I myself, Zayne, and the majority of pernicious members which I know very well, are more than likely more skilled than yourself.

Just because you can perform a manual union select injection doesn't mean you can get fresh with me.

Because I exploit using SQLi, right? What do you know that I do?

EDIT: What I do in my time, I wouldn't post here to get a bit of rep on HF or for someone to think I'm l337 for defacing websites I've never heard of myself.

I'm done with this. HF maturity at it's best (repeated).

My point being you just seem to be all talk, which your next reply will probably confirm.

Anyway, I have better things to do on my day off work than sit arguing with you, so have a great day & try not to do too much "big hax mucho $$$ so many gurl like 0day", so this will be my last post on this thread.

Helping others start RATting yes, regardless if I don't help there will be others that will.

"Openly helping kids about it", yes indeed. If someone needs help on something, I will give them advice on it. Is there any issues on that? That's as if I was to ask you a question on a basic subject and you giving me the answer to it, does that mean you're cancerous as well?

Yeah. You're knowingly and directly giving the ability to userbase to cause a ridiculous amount of harm one click away, without either informing them anything about any possible damage nor outside thinking. You're nothing but a tool continuing this disgusting chain of broken wheels feeding one's attention to bring damage.

Quote:does that mean you're cancerous as well?

I don't answer questions with answers on the first place on Google. That's one. Second, I don't answer stupid questions, that's pretty much everything you'll ever get over that thread. I'll help those who deem worth it.

Was it done by sql injection or FTP Bruteforce?

And how many people contributed?

We used a script that attacked a vulnerability in the way they stripped user input. This gave us all the login credentials and we were able to upload our page with a simple POST request.
