I'm going to say this now; we appologies for there being many bugs. This was released sooner than we expected, and the dev team didn't have time to completely update it. There's still a few bugs, so I'll say them now before everyone else rants about it.

If you see any bug not in this list, feel free to private message it to any of us.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

- Third Person (Nuff said)

- "Kinky Settings" not doing anything
- .friend not using aliases when the username has a capital letter in it
- .friend del causing a crash every now and then
- .aloff causing a crash every now and then
- Account manager sometimes unable to login to any alt
- BowAimbot not aiming anyone higher than the Targeting Setting's range (4 blocks by default)

- Fast Heal kicking you when in the air (I'm sure this is fixed by now.)
- FastFall not 100% bypass
- Godmode not 100% bypass
- Slightest chance that Autofish may or may not have a few small bugs (Haven't tested it, just saying this from reports. ^.^)
- Parkour kicking for illegal stance in vanilla servers (Parkour is dependent on NCP, but we plan on fixing that..)

- Xray not showing any ores (Find your C:\Users\YourUsername\Kinky\settings.txt or something and turn Opacity to 0)
- Search acting weird while in Freecam
- Launcher not being able to re-launch the game (Planned feature)

Remember, you're playing Kinky v0. We haven't fully fixed all the bugs for release..

GUI key = Right control

If you're on a Mac, type: .bind set clickgui whateverkey

Not bashing or anything, but I just can't see anything special within this client.

You should think of something special to add or lower the price.

Good luck with this, hopefully you will continue the client for awhile.

Resilience fans can go screw off.

I've used the free Kinky as my main client in the 1.6.x's, and to see how it improved this far, I'm amazed so far as how good the bypasses are for this one.

Yes, it works on servers like that. Team protect is for specific servers like Capture the flag for example, you set the color of their nametags as your team color and your aura won't hit them.

Forceshield = kill aura (So yes)

Regen = Fast heal (So yes)

It's $5 still, but only for a few hours. Changing price tonight.

The features list is a little bit outdated. Fast Heal is basically regen without the food bar being raped, and No Fall Damage uses an edited old exploit that would normally cause you to take absolutely no damage, but we changed it so you would take 1 heart. Why? We're jerks and it's less fast-falling that way.

There are some things in Kinky paid that hasn't really been seen in any clients available to the public. Why are you talking about Regen? Kinky doesn't have regen.

I'm talking about Fast Heal. It heals your health bar without taking anything out of your food bar. It does that by trying to calculate how much saturation you have left to depend on the speed of packets it's spamming. Try the client for yourself, then compare it with another client. Any other client's "Regen" spams packets like crazy, causing your food bar to drop down 2-4 chickenwings while Kinky's "Fast Heal" leaves the food bar at max.

Grant it, this isn't very good for minigame servers where your food bar is always maxed as it doesn't spam the packets as fast as Regen, but it makes up for that by not being detectable on regular servers.

That, or my autism is acting up and I'm getting this entire thing wrong making me look really stupid.

I highly doubt it. Fast Heal and Regen are identical, with the only difference probably being the packet amount.

The only way health is restored by Minecraft I believe is through potions (patched because healing potions are server sided) and sending movement packets. To make regen actually heal your health efficiently enough for you to notice it, a lot of movement packets have to be sent. This amount of movement packets causes your hunger to go down, just as if you were to sprint for a long time.

On another note, hunger is handled by the server entirely, so there is no way to modify it client-sided.

No, the last leaked version was laggy and had minor (notice how minor was used appropriately here) UI bugs due to shit mc lighting and a sloppily written font renderer. Plus maybe a few bugs due to underused modules that were rushed for people using the client that absolutely couldn't live without them.

If I could find Widd's post about the bugs, I'd post it. There were like 2 UI/lighting bugs, lag, and maybe two more bugs related to underused modules requested by people that didn't report bugs about them.

Plus, that version was rewritten fairly soon before that leak, and it hadn't been given out again until then. So that's a "first release" there as well. Also, as you fixed most of the bugs here I think it's necessary to point out that all but one bug was fixed within hours of the leak, and that bug no longer existed anyway because I removed chat.

Plus, that version was rewritten fairly soon before that leak, and it hadn't been given out again until then. So that's a "first release" there as well. Also, as you fixed most of the bugs here I think it's necessary to point out that all but one bug was fixed within hours of the leak, and that bug no longer existed anyway because I removed chat.

Also, it's silly to mention old versions of Pringles. You'd be surprised how much I've improved since anything has been public about it (which is partly why I'm so pissy about everyone else still being shitty programmers).

I believe all the bugs that exists in the last leaked version of Pringles was due to me.

Plus, after that leak every single feature was fixed.. lol.

I think all the bugs related to one bad gl option.

Iridium uses dashes to separate parts of commands though, so even if the developer had my source they would have to redo all of the commands for sure.

LucasA33 - February 12, 2014, 8:19 pm

Like all paid clients out there, this client is missing features it should have, especially since it's 10 buckaroos for what you could get on any free alternative.

-NO sprint, which was a complete shock to me, what client does not have sprint?

-NO safety for kill aura. Again something that took me from a shock.

Themes are not half bad, kinda like iridium and modern best.

At least this client has text radar, that I can give it credit for since Iridium lacks this frustratingly.

It's a good client, just could be way better.
Needs features =/

edit: i guess i could say I LOVE team protect!
so handy in games that are minigames.

Thanks, just remember, the client has only one other release.

Sprint has finally been added, but like it has been said multiple times.. MC has it's own built in sprint feature that you can keybind.

Safety? What does that mean?

I mean I could live with out sprint, but it would be nice to have in certain situations that I forget to hold the sprint key.

As for safety, it's pretty much only activates killaura when you are facing a target, this way you aren't shown obviously jerking your head.

If you want this to be a really nice PVP client, I think that would be a feature to consider adding. It's nice to see a client developer actually listen to a customer, kudos to you. ?

Okay, well sprint will be in the next update for all you little pecker heads. ?

Not quite sure I still understand completely. The aura shouldn't be making you turn your head around.

LucasA33 - February 12, 2014, 10:43 pm

Kill Aura safety should only hit players that you are facing, so you don't hit people behind you or to your side, but only what you are facing. This makes it MUCH less obvious.

Essentially think of it like fast click.

Remember, we gave it off for $5 the first 24 hours. Think of it this way; if you buy the beta, you'll get updates for free. We're still adding stuff to our client - it isn't even official version 1 yet.

Hell, by the time we start adding all the good stuff, people may be telling us it would be a good idea to raise the price. Everyone who paid for it on the first day got it for $5, and as the client becomes better we might increase the price.

Again, think of it as pre-ordering something and getting it the instant you pre-ordered it. :3

- We've added sprint.

- And I'll talk to the dev team about adding a Yaw check, allowing the user to customize how far back the killaura will attack. We'll have it so if you set it to 1, it'll act like a trigger bot. Setting it to 360 will act like a real killaura with no yaw check. It'll work in degrees.

Right now, kill aura will attack people who come up directly behind you. This is an obvious sign of hacking. What Lucas is requesting is a feature that checks to see where you're facing, then only attack people who are in front of you. This way your player (on their screen) doesn't spin a 180 directly towards them when they were sure you couldn't see them.

What all this skids mean by "Safety" is basically the Trigger Bot for Counter Strike. Once it looks at an entity, it starts attacking it rather than attacking it if he is behind you or not directly in front of you.

The sound thing hasn't been reported by anyone other than you, care to elaborate and make it easier for us to fix the problem?

Make a video, be sure to include the options page with the sound showing all the way up.

on his defense I also experience random crashes and sudden force closes. mostly after looking one way for a long time and looking the other way so the client has to load the other part of the world. I think it's because of the memory assignment... The client also seems to hang alot, more than others, after random periods of time (on regular basis after 10 min or less) for what I don't see a logical reason and also does not generate a error log which makes it even harder to give you information... I have some error logs and here is one for example. note that I removed all "personal" information for logical reasons on which I do not care to elaborate

And I think the last error is the one that is happening the most. In my eyes it's java crashing but it never happens with the normal launcher/other clients. I also uninstalled java and reinstalled again but still the same issue....

I hope you can do something with these logs....

As for the sound issue I also experienced that but a restart of the client seems to fix it for me

DFayth - February 16, 2014, 6:07 am

This is probably the second guy who had a problem with crashes, iKinky.

The best way to fix this is to fucking lower your render distance and get off that damn "Fancy" graphics. This is a griefing client - the KinkyFine was added to help with lag, not make your game turn into some HD crap.

Why does kinky break when you play with high render distance or fancy graphics? wtf

I don't think that's the reason, most times it crashes is because I toggle a mod or something. I use the same settings though, so it could have something to do with it.

But yeah, Kinky isn't really stable yet, it still crashes a lot and the copying of all the files before launching makes the launch time so long...

Ownage had a client called Xenon.

Xenon died.
iKinky took the source code and called it Kinky.
Kinky died.
In the meanwhile Ownage created Proximity paid).
Proximity (paid) died.
Now Kinky (paid) is here built from scratch.
Also, Ownage is making a new version of Xenon atm.

Because it has a set ram lower than 1 GB, playing anything with fancy graphics/large renderdistance will cause the client to crash due to running out of ram.

We have this as a topic in one of our Support threads - the entire thing is about a user who's mad that his client continues to crash because it uses too much dedicated ram.

Really? I played on the highest settings while I was testing this out and had no issues. Far render distance, fancy graphics, highest smooth lighting level. The only thing that I noticed that would freeze my game under some conditions is mutli-core chunk loading which I believe is a bug in Optifine as it happened to me on a plain client with just Optifine too.

It would have to be a very bad client for it to use more than 1GB RAM, even on max settings...

ArsenInx - February 16, 2014, 8:10 pm

since there are clients that do the same only better for free, plus it is buggy i would not say it is worth $10

Iridium uses 512MB RAM by default and never crashes on me...

Your statement is invalid.

Tr0llNinja - February 17, 2014, 1:16 am

So much whining over settings... FYI there are more people that experience random crashes and stuff but instead of bitching about it I gave my logs which is the difference..... Anyway I honestly don't see why I have to change my settings for one client when these settings work fine on any other client. So DFayth if you don't have anything constructive to say please leave. Your statements have been proven invalid by a number op users now and to be honest you are not helping anyone.

That's odd. Try tweaking your options settings.

Make sure your rendering isn't insane, check vsync, chunk loading etc. make sure chunk loading is on normal.

The only thing I don't like is that you need to enter each alt manually, I tried editing accounts.txt but it just goes back to having the one alt I added.

I wish I could make xray opacity 0 instead of the minimum 60. :Sad:

Also, I'm not too keen on the Chest ESP, would be good if that was customizable.

Don't have the client open while you put alts in.

Xray had bugs with 0 opacity, this was the fix.

How do you customize chest esp? All it does is search for chests and highlights them.

What john said.

Placing a dirt item with autotool on switches your hand to any shovels you have.

Same with Killaura, if killaura attacks a mob/player and you're looking at a wood/dirt/stone-based block then instead of using a sword it will switch to the corresponding item.

Uploading an unedited video of me being retarded and not having supplies. Give it 30 or so more minutes, I fucking love uploading in HD.

Thanks for the vouch, sure it means a lot for this thread.

As for ChestESP, Kinky's ChestESP shows a beam above it. This is so you can easily notice that there is a chest somewhere near you, and the general point-blank direction of it. Grant it, the chest is sort of hard to spot normally, but you can go into freecam under ground to find it (following the beam of course).

If you break a stone block with a tnt block in your hand, Kinky will replace the stone block with the tnt block. It's not as ghetto as it sounds.

i?M?irXa™ - March 31, 2014, 11:07 pm

Ok so just purchased it, not really because I'm going to be using it but because I like to support the devs. Had a quick play around on a my local NCP test server and some KitPvP on scav.tv and I can say that its a fairly decent client. I thought I'd do a quick little review.

- Looks 8/10

This client is very sexy, it is packed with a ton of themes and which are all very sexy as well. The menu designs look fairly sleek also the main Kinky theme kinda looks fairly sleek as well.

- Mods 6.5/10

This client is packed with a about 60 mods which most of work well. Most of the mods in the client work but a fair few are fairly buggy. A few times with Freecam without doing anything but toggling it I get kicked from the world and the BowAimbot was a bit glitchy as well. A few others messed up a tiny bit but not enough that it bothered me. Out of the total of around 60 mods I found it lacked a few mods that I always use such as AutoSoup (Correct me if I'm wrong) and AutoSword and the KillAura was bugging out and not attacking mobs even when the option for mobs was enabled, these might be minor things but can have a real impact on what your doing.

- PvP 8/10

This client does fairly well in PvP (Bugged out a bit with mobs though), the Aura is fairly well and from what I can tell has a decent prioritization system. With my testing the PvP mods barely ever flagged NCP and were quite effective as well. On Scav.TV I was able to get a 14 KillStreak which is just above average for me because my ping is fairly low on scav.

- Bypasses 6/10

The client has a fair few mods that bypass NCP but not a lot, even with the NoheatBypass mod enabled I was finding that not much that bypassed, but even mods like Nuker which can easily be made NCP compatable with a delay and facing the block were kicking me instantly on NCP servers. From the mods that did bypass I can say that they bypassed very well.

- Overall 7.5/10

Overall this is a very nice client with a lot of mods and still doesn't seem to be clustered. It looks very clean and sleek and has some nice bypasses and mods, it performs very well in PvP and is just generally very good, if you're looking for a client to buy or just have the spare money I would recommend this. ?

The bowaimbot acts accordingly to what the Targeting/Killaura settings are set to. If Mobs are enabled, it will attack mobs. TeamColor is enabled, it won't aim for teams.... if your killaura size is set to 4 blocks, bowaimbot will not aim for anyone past 4 blocks. -_-

I think he means that it's annoying to forget to do that when trying to join a server. Most people are used to logging and being able to hop on a server right away.

If it is that, it shouldn't be too much of an adjustment to click 3 extra buttons. xD

Hey iKinky, are you going to roll out a new update for the client? There's many many suggestions and some bugs that need fixing over on the iKinky forums.

Love this client. Awesome features and it works flawlessly. Very pleased.

I've noticed it crashes 90% of the time when you drop stuff. Nothing too big, but it can get annoying.

That seems like a rather extreme number. I have only crashed twice while using the client.

What java version and os are you using?

Also, do you have a texture pack on?

Safety is a feature for Kill Aura, it'll not attack entities if they're not in your FOV.

See pictures: Spoiler \(Click to View\)

HealthIndicator lets you see another player's health. It can be based on hearts or in percentage.

It may be a conflict with the texture pack you're using.

Enter this in the JVM args:

-Xincgc -XX:+UseConcMarkSweepGC -XX:+AggressiveOpts -server -XX:+UseStringCache
-XX:+UseFastAccessorMethods -XX:+OptimizeStringConcat

You login to a premium minecraft account, and choose the protocol of the server. What is the error you're getting? Because it's probably you not choosing a protocol.

At first I was having these issues. I bought kinky, and I was getting lots of errors on the start up, I thought it was my java so I restored my computer!!! & For what? A $10 client that doesn't work? Yes. I was getting this error: <https://i.imgur.com/FT03aKM.png>, so I removed the -server. Didn't work, now I am getting this error: <http://prntscr.com/3x43rz>.

I took kinky's advice, and removed all the jvm args. The client actually launched WAHOO. By the way, Kill Aura doesn't even work, unless by any chance it has no swing? But now every ten seconds I am getting this: <http://prntscr.com/3yziza>, & then I can't even join the server again with the same error. Also the one time I got to play in a hunger games match, every player was invisible, WTF? (On the 1.7.9 Version) I am very unhappy with this client, I don't think you offer refunds -_-? Just my point of view. I would love to use this client, if it was working. I hope these bugs get fixed :(. I will be using resilience until this client is fixed, maybe even after. I would pay $10 for resilience any day.

Going back into it, it sounds like a graphics card issue if your graphics card is crashing. If there is no error log, it is on your end.

The opacity goes down to 60%, so it doesn't completely erase the blocks.

I've tried clicking it, but all it does is keep redirecting me to the PM page saying "We are sorry but we require 25 quality posts to send a PM. Any LQP (Low Quality Post) spamming will result in a closed account."

Did you change the amount of ram to allocate? Change it to default or lower it. You have JDK installed?

Ya I lowered the ram allocation and it works now thx ;3

For both 1.7.5 + 1.7.9:

Also the server list is empty? + for single player I get this error?:

"Unable to load worlds

Unable to read or access folder where game worlds are saved!"

so im using the old client but that's only 1.7.4

fix?

P.S.: Sound works fine for me... dunno why others getting sound
