

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Giving away e-book

PoisonKnife - February 6, 2014, 6:42 am

Am I allowed to give away an e-book I purchased on another site (there are no TOS from the seller saying I can't give away the e-book)?

Dre™ - February 6, 2014, 6:44 am

I think that's considered LEAKING....

Paran?rmal - February 6, 2014, 6:46 am

I'm pretty sure that is leaking even if it's not in the TOS.

It's common sense. ?

Canonsx130 - February 6, 2014, 7:05 am

(Feb 6, 2014 07:58 AM)- Sam - Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No. That would be leaking a product from another site.

This rule is similar.

<https://hackforums.net/misc.php?action=help&hid=11>

Respecting the rule, I have one question though. What about 100+ threads in the free ebooks section which has been leaked and clearly are sold on other websites commercially?

Positive - February 6, 2014, 11:29 am

(Feb 6, 2014 07:58 AM)- Sam - Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No. That would be leaking a product from another site.

This rule is similar.

<https://hackforums.net/misc.php?action=help&hid=11> Ding ding ding. We have a winner. ?

(Feb 6, 2014 08:05 AM)Canonsx130 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Respecting the rule, I have one question though. What about 100+ threads in the free ebooks section which has been leaked and clearly are sold on other websites commercially? Report them via the report button. Staff with either get the idea or they won't; if they don't, you could shoot them a PM with a source.